RETIRE, CHINA IS TOLD IN TOKYO ULTIMATUM; GUNS ROAR IN BATTLE

Shells Are Hurled Into Area Patrolled by U. S. Marines.

2 BRITISH NAVY MEN INJURED BY MISSILES

American Mission School Is Attacked Again by Band of Japanese.

Tokyo, Wednesday, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Japanese officials at Shanghai were authorized by their government today to hand the Chinese an ultimatum demanding that the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army withdraw 20 kilometers from the boundaries of the International Settlement.

Otherwise, Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of the Japanese military expedition to Shanghai, was authorized to compel such withdrawal by force.

The Japanese officials authorized to present the ultimatum are Namuro Shigemitsu, Minister to China; Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of the naval forces, and Gen. Uyeda, all of whom are in Shanghai.

Stimson Plans Protest.

Official Japanese advices from Washington today said Secretary of State Stimson was preparing shortly to protest formally to Japan against the landing of the Japanese army expedition in the International Settlement. Japan was informed that the American Secretary of State hoped Great Britain and France would join in the protest.

Shanghai, Wednesday, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Big guns blazed in battle over the entire Shanghai front today after an all-night artillery duel that shook the city, hurled shells into the area patrolled by the United States marines and wounded two British bluejackets.

Japanese naval headquarters said the Chinese had unlimbered the heaviest artillery thus far used in a tremendous attempt to wipe out the Japanese-occupied Hongkew section of the International Settlement, causing the Japanese casualties and considerable damage.

The battle was fought along a line reaching from Chapei to Kiangwan, half way to the Woosung forts. The Chinese bombardment around Kiangwan was described as severe by the Japanese. Rifle and machine gun barrages were laid down with the falling shells.

Fail to Obliterate Position.

Although the Chinese are now using shells of great explosive power, the Japanese said, they had failed to obliterate the Japanese positions in Hongkew Park. At Woosung the invaders' positions were entirely in the hands of the Japanese soldiers "preparing to take the offensive," in the words of their officers.

American marine headquarters reported that numerous shells from the night's bombardment fell within the

Canada May Dispatch Special Envoy to China

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Premier Bennett revealed today that the Canadian government is considering the advisability of sending a "special ambassador" to China in view of the Sino-Japanese difficulty.

Chicago World Fair Visit by Graf Seen

Britten Asks Funds for Mast for German Ship and Akron, Also.

(Associated Press.)

The Graf Zeppelin may make several nonstop Berlin-to-Chicago flights during the World Fair.

Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, made this announcement yesterday in expressing the hope that some of the $1,000,000 President Hoover asked Congress to appropriate for Federal participation in the celebration of a "century of progress" will be spent on a portable mooring mast. If the mast is built, he said "I have been assured that the Graf Zeppelin will make several round-trip nonstop flights during the summer of 1933."

The Akron—world's largest airship—also will visit Chicago if there is a "suitable mooring mast for safe harbor," Mr. Britten said.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Dr. Hugo Eckener announced today that the dirigible Graf Zeppelin would make four trips to South America during March, April and May of this year. He said six other trips, as yet undesignated as to termini, were planned between August and November.

League Council Urges Japan to End Fighting

America and Britain Are Expected to Take Joint Action Soon.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Ambassadorial visits to the State Department here yesterday by Sir Ronald Lindsay, of Great Britain; the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, and Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador, foreshadowed a renewal of the formal protest of January 7 of these three powers together with the United States against Japanese military activity in China. This action would be timed so as to add the greatest possible effectiveness to any peace offensive initiated at this time by the League of Nations.

Six weeks ago the United States and Great Britain served notice on both China and Japan that the present de facto situation in China could not be legally recognized.

Furthermore, the two countries took identic steps to underline this Formal Request Reminds Her of Obligations Under Article X.

Geneva, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—The League of Nations Council formally urged the Japanese government tonight to cease hostilities in Shanghai as "a noble gesture" in behalf of international peace.

A note, described as the most strongly worded communication ever framed by the league, was dispatched to Tokyo setting forth the attitude of the council as formulated at a long private session from which the Japanese and Chinese delegates were barred.

The note included:

1. A reminder that the United States has protested against any action to gain territory in China by violence, saying that such gains can not be retained.

2. A reminder to Japan concerning

FORCED HAITI LOAN DENIED BY STIMSON

Secretary Raps Charge That U. S. Used Pressure in Note to Senators.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson said yesterday testimony by Georges N. Leger that the American Government forced Haiti to accept a loan from an American banking concern was untrue.

Mr. Leger, representing the Haitian Minister, made his charges before the Senate finance committee, and the Secretary of State denied them in a letter to Chairman Smoot, of the committee.

In reply to Mr. Leger's charge that the American high commissioner, Gen. Russell, prevented President Dartiguenave's election in 1922, because of differences over an American loan, the Secretary said he had been informed that Gen. Russell had nothing to do with the election.

Mr. Stimson added that Gen. Russell did not later control President Borno, as Mr. Leger claimed by "holding over his head" the fact Borno did not legally hold office because he was not born of a Haitian father as the Haitian law requires.

Mr. Leger's appearance before the Senate committee was arranged by the Haitian Minister to answer previous testimony before it that commissions are generally paid to the governments of Latin-America contracting loans in the United States.

The Haitian Minister regarded this as a reflection on governments which

Ill Georgia Senator Reported Improving

(Associated Press.)

Senator Harris, of Georgia, who is ill at Georgetown University Hospital, was described there yesterday as somewhat better.

He was able to take a little nourishment, and a general improvement was noted over Monday when he suffered from nausea.

Senator Harris is troubled with both intestinal influenza and a kidney condition which will necessitate an operation. This is expected to be performed in about a week.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE IN IRELAND IS HEAVY

Troops Are Out to Maintain Order But Are Not Used; Returns Slow.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Irish Free State, with intense excitement and sporadic disturbances, cast the heaviest vote in many years today in deciding whether President William T. Cosgrave should stay in office or turn over the power to Esmon de Valera and his Fianna Fail.

Troops were out to maintain order, but there were no calls for them. Most of the disturbances were of such minor consequence as one at Cork, where civil guards with batons dispersed a group of men who smashed the windows of the Masonic Hall.

Two assassinations and an attempted murder in the closing days of the campaign, however, left the country tense and also probably delayed the ultimate decision as to

Cleveland Elects Democratic Mayor

17-Year G. O. P. Rule in Ohio City Broken in Choosing Miller.

Cleveland, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A 17-year Republican rule in Cuyahoga County was shattered today with the election of Ray T. Miller, Democrat, 39-year-old county prosecutor, as Cleveland's first mayor in eight years.

Complete official compilations gave Miller a majority of 7,703 votes over former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, Republican. The vote—Miller (Democrat), 102,632; Morgan (Republican), 94,929.

The polls closed amid bloodshed, fist fights, hundreds of numerous minor conflicts and widespread accusations of terrorism by imported hoodlums. Police said they were unable to find any serious disorders. A byatander was shot in the leg and wounded slightly after an argument between a Morgan worker and a Miller supporter flared into gunplay. The wounded man, Paul Jones, 19, said he was standing near a booth when the Miller man drew a gun and fired, the shot missing his foe.

CONGRESS BODY ACTS TO LOWER PHONE CHARGES

Tells Chairman Patrick, of P. U. C., to Obtain Reduced Rates.

THREATENS TO STOP TAXI RULING BY LAW

Cab 'Monopolies' at Hotels and Union Station Are Hit by Blanton.

Congress yesterday, through its District appropriations subcommittee, handed down an ultimatum to Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick and his Public Utilities Commission.

Gen. Patrick was told that telephone rates are too high in the District; that something must be done about it in the very near future.

He was told that members, if necessary, will introduce legislation to back up their resolution opposing return to metered taxicabs.

He was told that taxicab concessions are regarded by members in the light of "monopolies," and steps might be taken to break up hotel and depot stands.

Patrick to Resume Stand.

Members, in fact, became so engrossed in Washington's utility problems that they failed to take up the matter of Public Utility Commission appropriations, for which Gen. Patrick was called. So he was told to come back today, when they hope to dispose of the item.

Following yesterday's executive session, it was confidently asserted by one authority that reduced telephone rates are in store for the Capital. It was said that company officials are not inalienably opposed to such a move. The question came up at the hearing when Gen. Patrick was assailed by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, for alleged "inactivity" in seeking lower phone charges.

From this the interrogation shifted to the proposed new electric schedules, and virtually every member of the committee, Chairman Clarence Cannon, Representatives William P. Holaday, Robert G. Simmons and Blanton, joined in. Gen. Patrick admitted that under the new scale individual families will not save more than 15 cents a month, at a maximum.

Accused of Ignoring Public.

Rocket, Built for Moon, May Start This April

New York, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—A 7-foot rocket, which, when completed, will be shot off in the direction of the moon, is being constructed in New York and will be exhibited for the first time Thursday night when American Interplanetary Society meets at the Museum of Natural History.

The rocket has not been completed, according to G. Edward Pendray, vice president of the society, but it should be ready for its voyage into space by April. It is fueled by liquid oxygen and gasoline and is equipped to land gently by aid of parachutes. It is built of aluminum and aluminum alloys.

LAVAL RESIGNS WITH MINISTRY AFTER DEFEAT

Voted Out of Power in Senate, 157 to 134, on Electoral Reform.

WARNS OPPONENTS OF DANGER IN MOVE

Overthrow Is Accomplished Amid Jeers; Premier May Succeed Himself.

Paris, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—The government of sturdy, black-haired Pierre Laval was overthrown amid shouts of triumph and hoots of derision in the Senate today, plunging France into the most complicated political crisis of her last eight years.

Fingering his white necktie as he faced the hostile left-wing faction of the Senate, Premier Laval made only one effort to avoid the adverse vote on the electoral reform bill.

Calmly, he warned the Senate that overthrow of the cabinet during the present international negotiations on disarmament and reparations would be a serious mistake.

Offers Compromise.

The left-wingers replied with hoots. The premier offered to compromise by postponing debate. The offer was rejected by the scornful shouts of the opposition. Laval's dark eyes flashed as he called for a vote of confidence.

Senator Albert Lebrun, speaker of the Senate, ordered the ballot to start and senators began dropping blue and white balls in the box. When they were counted the government which Laval formed thirteen months ago and reorganized last month was out of power, defeated by a vote of 157 to 134.

Before dusk President Paul Doumer had accepted the collective resignation of the cabinet and immediately arranged for negotiations to choose a successor. Albert Sarraut, Democratic left leader, or Louis Barthou, former premier and Democratic-Radical leader, were believed to be the most logical candidates, as the president must draw his selection from the Senate.

May Succeed Himself.

Laval, however, may eventually succeed himself. He commands a majority of 30 votes in the Chamber of Deputies and a majority of the deputies met after the cabinet's defeat, deciding they would accept only Laval or War Minister Andre Tardieu, former premier, as premier. The chamber was generally angered by the defeat of the government.

Asking the present government to remain in power until a new regime is chosen, President Doumer indicated that two or three days would be required for his negotiations.

Aristide Briand, a member of the left, who was dropped from the foreign ministry by Laval, may enter into the political scene again as a

Washington Essay Contest Of Interest to Alexandria

Many Contestants Have Entered From Nearby Historic City; President of Business and Professional Women's Club Indorses Competition.

Judging from the entries in the George Washington Essay Contest being conducted by The Washington Post for boys and girls up to 18 years of age in public, private and parochial schools in the District of Columbia, nearby Virginia and Maryland, some of the prize winners will be found in historic Alexandria.

Many essays have been received from the quaint city on the Potomac where George Washington passed some of his happiest hours. Practically every street in Alexandria retains golden memories of Washington. To the boys and girls of Alexandria Washington is a living figure, and this spirit is apparent in the essays which turned in from that locality.

Speaking of the interest being taken in the contest by Alexandrians, Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shoppe son, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of that city, said yesterday:

"The Washington Post contest provides a wonderful educational opportunity for the youth of Alexandria as well as in Washington and other places where boys and girls are eligible to compete for the prizes. Not only educational leaders of Alexandria but business and professional women as well are watching its progress with absorbing attention. Naturally the people of Alexandria are anxious that some of their contestants may win a share of the 108 prizes offered.

"The close association of Washington with Alexandria is one that is cherished by every citizen of the town. Here George Washington was well known in his lifetime as a good neighbor and fellow townsman.

"Therefore, the parents and teachers of Alexandria are keen to have some winners among their groups. It is certain that as the closing day of the contest comes nearer and nearer more and more of our young people will be numbered among the contestants."

Less than a month remains before the contest closes. Sharply at mid-

Interne Suspended Pending Quiz Into Neglect Charge

An Emergency Hospital interne, who is reported to have refused to examine a seriously ill man Monday night because he complained of the length of time it took the ambulance to reach his home, was suspended yesterday by the executive board of the institution "pending further investigation of the incident."

At the same time the hospital authorities announced they welcomed an investigation into the handling of the case of Joseph Sisk who died at Gallinger Hospital after his transfer from their institution.

Emergency and Gallinger Hospital officials and Fifth Precinct police will go before the public health, hospitals and charities subcommittee of the Senate District committee tomorrow to answer charges of carelessness brought against Emergency Hospital in this case.

Samuel Podell, 45 years old, was suddenly stricken on Monday night at his home, 909 Decatur street northwest. A friend, Miss Sarah Stiffel, called Emergency Hospital and asked that their ambulance be sent at once as Mr. Podell was suffering severe pain.

Some time elapsed, and Mr. Podell's condition continued to grow worse. When the ambulance arrived, Dr. Charles Bastable, the interne in

BILL FOR U. S. CASH AID TO UNEMPLOYED LOST IN SENATE BY 48 TO 35

Mills Indorses Tax on Gasoline and on Electricity.

MESSAGE TO HOUSE COMES AS SURPRISE

Stresses Need of Balanced Budget; Sets Return at $337,000,000.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Proposed taxation of gasoline, electricity and other things, suggested in the course of tax revision discussions before and by the House ways and means committee, yesterday received the indorsement of Ogden L. Mills, the new Secretary of the Treasury.

Secretary Mills transmitted to the committee a tax proposal to supplement that which was transmitted earlier to the committee over the signature of former Secretary Mellon.

"The committee on ways and means and the Treasury Department," Secretary Mills said, "are in complete accord as to the necessity of balancing the budget during the next fiscal year so as to eliminate any further increase in our public debt. There can be no question of the soundness of this position. It admits of no compromise."

Move Is Surprise.

Proposal of Secretary Mills to impose a national gasoline tax and electricity tax came as something of a surprise. Although such taxes had been suggested by Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, Democratic leader and member of the ways and means committee, they had not been included in the tax proposals submitted to the committee by the administration.

Secretary Mills estimated that his supplementary proposals would yield $337,000,000. The Treasury estimates on which the first administration tax program were based on a more optimistic expectation than Treasury officials now feel is justified. They estimated that their original tax program would yield $920,000,000. Challenged by Representative Rainey and other members of the committee and subsequent experience in the interim since they submitted their estimates, that estimated yield has been reduced to something like $786,000,000.

Based on Expected Gains.

Neither congressional nor Treasury experts, however, will attempt to forecast closely the financial situation of the Government at the end of the current fiscal year. Representative Rainey predicts that the Treasury estimates of receipts from March income-tax payments are optimistic,

Interior Supply Measure Passed

Bill, Pared, Provides for $50,446,432 as Voted by House.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday passed the $350,000,000 mark in regular annual appropriations, in approving a bill carrying $50,446,432 for the Department of the Interior in the next fiscal year.

The total for the three regular supply measures—the first deficiency, agriculture and interior bills—is $352,105,580, or more than $31,000,000 under the sums recommended by the Budget Bureau.

The Democratic appropriations committee trimmed $6,258,920 from the budget estimates for the Interior department. The House added to the bill as presented by the appropriations committee $15,000 for the Wapeto, Wash., irrigation project.

HOOVER SEES TURN IN TIDE OF HOARDING

$34,000,000 Reported Put Back in Circulation in Twelve Days.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

America's idle dollars are returning to work—at the rate of more than three million a day.

In reviewing the evidences of reviving business confidence throughout the country since the announcement of the new Federal banking policy a week ago, President Hoover estimated yesterday that $34,000,000 in gold and currency has come out of hiding during the last twelve days. Based on latest available reports of the Federal Reserve Board and the Comptroller of the Currency, the trek of the dollars back to the banks is interpreted as "an entire turn in the tide" of hoarding.

"I am glad to report that since February 4, when I took action on hoarding, there has been an entire turn in the tide," the President said. "Up to a few days previous to that time hoarding was greatly on the increase. Since that time it has not only stopped, but it is estimated that

Roosevelt's Bay State Headquarters to Open

Boston, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The presidential boom in behalf of Franklin D. Roosevelt advanced another step in Massachusetts today with announcement by Mayor John J. Murphy, of Somerville, that campaign headquarters would be opened Friday in Boston. Gov. Roosevelt's son, James, will assume temporary charge of it.

Two former chairmen of the Democratic State committee, Charles H. McGlue, of Lynn, and Michael A. O'Leary, of Brookline, will direct the campaign. The younger Roosevelt will have charge of the headquarters, Mayor Murphy said, because the supporters of his father's candidacy had requested it.

Snow-Blocked New Mexico Towns Menaced by Famine

Alamosa, Colo., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Several snowbound mountain communities in Rio Arriba County, northern New Mexico, were reported threatened with famine today.

News of the acute situation reached here simultaneously with the conquering by two train crews of the Continental Divide, where 27 passengers and trainmen had been marooned by 20-foot drifts of snow in Cumbres Pass for three days. Three rotary sweepers and seven plows finally won out over the avalanches of snow which were whipped across the tracks in a howling gale.

Tierra Amarilla, the Rio Arriba County seat of 1,100 population, is without flour, coffee, sugar or lard. In addition, the food supply of the principal Apache Indian trading post is rapidly diminishing, and there is little prospect of replenishing it so long as the cold weather continues. The region is regarded as inaccessible by air.

Rio Arriba County is served by a branch line of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad, which dips into northern New Mexico from Alamosa, and turns north again to reach Durango, Colo. Between Alamosa and Chama, N. Mex., lies the 10,000-foot Cumbres Pass which has been closed by snowdrifts several times this win-

'Dole' Plan Would Have Given $750,000,000 to the States.

BALLOT ON MEASURE BREAKS PARTY LINES

Hoover Is Upheld; Foes of Plan Are Denounced by Its Coauthor.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Senate last night defeated the La Follette-Costigan bill, thereby joining President Hoover in his stand against a Federal appropriation for the Nation's unemployed. The vote was 48 to 35.

The relief bill—described by administration senators as the "entering wedge to a dole"—would have made a gift to the States of $750,000,000. Half of this would have gone for food, clothing and other essentials for the destitute, and the other half for the construction of roads and the creation of jobs.

In rejecting the bill the Senate has, in effect, informed the States and municipalities that they must take care of their own needy.

Party Lines Shattered.

Party lines were shot to pieces when the time came for voting. Of the 48 who voted against the bill, 27 were Republicans and 21 Democrats. Of the 35 who voted for it, 19 were Democrats, 15 Republicans, and 1 Farmer-Labor.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, voted "present."

Crowded galleries followed the conclusion of the eleven days of oratory.

In the President's gallery, sitting in a row, were Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Mrs. Ethel Barrymore Colt.

Attacks Foes of Plan.

They heard Senator [illegible] La Follette (Republican, [illegible]), of Wisconsin, coauthor of the bill, deliver a fiery philippic against the three senators, who, he said, had denied the need of Federal relief for the unemployed—Fess (Republican), of Ohio; Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, and Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts.

La Follette was particularly bitter in his denunciation of Fess, who, he pointed out, was chairman of the Republican national committee. He recalled the debate last week between Fess and Senator Borah (Republican Progressive), of Idaho. Borah had asked Fess if he would vote for Federal relief for a community whose funds were exhausted.

"I would insist on the local authorities doing their duty," La Follette quoted Fess as saying.

Interpretation of Stand.

"Stripped of its verbiage," La Follette said, "that means that the senator would let the people starve.

"That statement should go down in history with the remark made by Queen Marie Antoinette when, on

U. S. AWAITING GENEVA STORM ON SHIP SLASH

America Alone Stands for Battleships as Curb Is Sought.

HELD ESSENTIAL TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

Trump Card Is Believed Held in Washington and London Treaties.

Geneva, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—The United States delegation stood alone at the League of Nations disarmament conference today, calmly awaiting the gathering storm caused by a group of nations attempting to force the abolition of battleships or their limitation to 10,000 tons.

The Americans feel they have a trump card, however, in the Washington and London Naval Treaties, which disposed of the battleship question until the general naval conference of 1935.

The United States representatives are therefore prepared to resist any attempts to modify the vital texts, although it is understood they are willing to agree that no more heavy battleships be built by any nation until a final decision is made on that problem in 1935.

America Advocates Ships.

The United States alone among the nations represented at the disarmament conference feel that the battleship is essential to defense. In a majority of speeches made by other nations' representatives the battleship has been condemned as an aggressive weapon. Moreover, the Americans feel that the whole question is merely a philosophical dispute being stirred up for use as a bargaining club over their heads.

It was noteworthy that in the Argentine plan, presented today, M. Bosch was careful not to offend the United States with respect to the battleship question. He proposed for Argentine that battleships be limited to 10,000 tons by the nations which did not sign the Washington-London treaties.

The French thesis of an international police force came in for sharp criticism today from Sir Thomas Mason, who, representing New Zealand, attacked the project.

"It is a purely European outlook," he said. "How could it function in a case of a conflict between, say, the United States and Russia. I do not think we came here to create a new army, but to reduce the old."

Mason on Use of Gas.

Sir Thomas urged immediate action on the proposed abolition of gas and bacteriological warfare so "we can get down to controversial problems."

Mr. Bosch submitted four concrete points on behalf of Argentina as his nation's plan for disarmament.

1. The acceptance of the draft convention of the disarmament conference as the basis for discussion.

2. The support of the creation of a permanent international supervision of armaments, "provided this supervision is accepted unanimously without reservation and carried out in practical form and to the extent considered compatible with the sovereign rights of each State."

3. Limitation of capital ships to 10,000 tons for nonsignatories of the Washington-London Naval Treaties.

4. The conference should endeavor to define contraband of war. (He favored exempting certain foodstuffs.)

He announced that Argentina is negotiating "fresh agreements with Brazil and Chile which will enable his country to "reduce still further our already very limited naval forces."

Dix to Quit Baltimore Hospital in Few Days

Baltimore, Feb. 16 ((A.P.).—Richard Dix, motion picture star, was convalescing today from a slight operation performed yesterday at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. He will leave the hospital within two or three days, physicians said.

Dix, here with his wife for the last week, guarded his presence under strict secrecy. He registered at a hotel under his correct name, E. C. Brimmer, and was known at the hospital as Burke Johnson.

Peru Acts to Balk Plotted Uprising

Bloodshed Is Reported; Leaders of Revolt to Be Deported.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Minor bloodshed has occurred in Callao and Lima coincident with a government announcement today that swift and drastic steps were being taken to squelch a "revolutionary plot."

First hints of trouble came in a letter to the Assembly from Luis Flores, interior minister, early today. He said the government was obliged to deport the leaders of the movement under the recently enacted emergency laws. El Commercio dispatches from Callao said thirteen men, including Commander Gustavo Jiminez, reputed "power behind the throne" in the provisional government of David Samanez Ocampo of last year, were being sent out of the country. The Samanez Ocampo junta was succeeded by the present Luis M. Sanchez Cerro constitutional government. Jimenez was a defeated candidate for president.

The government said the revolt was to have started in Lima and elsewhere on Monday, and extensive preparations had been made, but that rapid and energetic action during the last 24 hours had been effective.

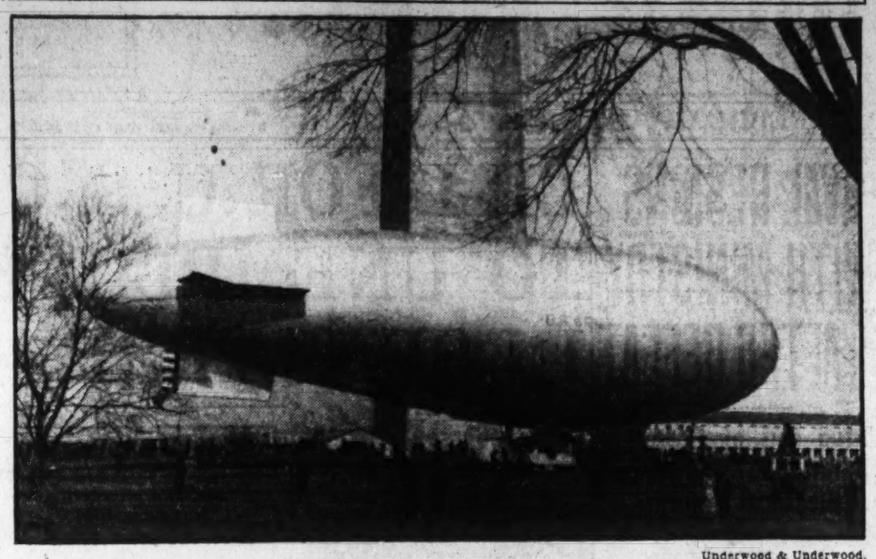
AS DIRIGIBLE LANDED WITH WREATH



Underwood & Underwood.

The Army airship C-71, as it appeared yesterday after completing a difficult landing on the Washington Monument Grounds. The airship flew here from Langley Field, Va., to place a wreath at the foot of the monument in tribute to George Washington. Note that the tail of the ship is entangled among the limbs of a nearby tree. The rudder was slightly damaged.

GIFT TO WASHINGTON BROUGHT BY AIRSHIP

Virginia Dirigible Lands at Monument With Wreath; Slightly Damaged.

After negotiating a difficult landing on the grounds of the Washington Monument yesterday afternoon, during which slight damage was done to the rudder fin when a strong wind blew the tail assembly into a nearby tree, the Army Airship C-71 returned safely to its home base at Langley Field, Va., last night and was wheeled into its hangar shortly after 9 o'clock.

The dirigible came here on a special training flight and brought a large wreath as a tribute to George Washington from the Army Air Corps. After maneuvering above the Ellipse for a short time, the airship finally came to rest in a somewhat cramped space at the foot of the Washington Monument.

A sudden down current of air forced the tail of the huge gas bag to become tangled among the limbs of a nearby tree, slightly damaging the rudder fin. Under command of Lieut. R. R. Gillespie, the crew laid the wreath at the base of the monument, repaired the damaged rudder, and again took to the air en route to its home base.

Similar landings with such types of airships have been made on other occasions here. Dirigibles have landed on the Capitol grounds, at the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool and on the roof of the State War and Navy building.

Ohio Race 'All Fixed Up' For Ingalls, Says Rogers

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Will Rogers and David S. Ingalls have the Ohio gubernatorial election "all fixed up," the cowboy humorist said here today as he and Ingalls arrived by plane 1 hour and 35 minutes after they left Washington.

Mr. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Ohio. He piloted the plane on the 310-mile trip from the Capital. "Dave flies a good deal like a Chinaman," Rogers, who recently toured China on a trip around the world, said.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE IN IRELAND IS HEAVY

which side would be given control of the government, for the killing of a candidate for Parliament at Foxfield Sunday caused the election of seven members from Leitrim-Sligo to be postponed until early March.

Supporters of De Valera expressed confidence that he and his party, with its allies, would receive a majority of the seats in the Dail Eireann and supersede the ten-year-old government of President Cosgrave.

Voting in the Free State elections is on the basis of proportional representations, and no results were expected to become known before tomorrow night.

Donkey-drawn carts, as well as automobiles and motor trucks, were used to haul men and women, young and old, to the polls. Two boys, one 13 years old, the other 16, whose names were on the register in Kingston County (Dublin), presented themselves, were given ballots and voted. No objection was raised, although the required voting age is 21 or over.

In county Tipperary, several automobiles belonging to Lady Osborne Beauclerk, active worker in behalf of President Cosgrave's Cumann Nangael party, were disabled during the night, apparently to prevent their use to carry voters to the polls.

The closing days of the campaign were bitter. That and fine weather brought large crowds out as soon as the polls opened at 9 a. m. It was apparent that the vote would exceed the 70 per cent of registration cast in the last election.

De Valera's Fianna Fail party campaigned on a platform of further severance from England, abolition of the oath to the king and making Ireland self-contained. The government stood for reelection on a policy of economic cooperation with England with a view to tariff preferences.

The change in British tariff policies in the last few weeks was credited with giving the Cosgrave organization an edge over the De Valera faction in the preelection forecasts. Moreover, the Cosgrave forces had a well-organized transport system to take voters to the polling booths.

De Valera issued a last minute denial of reports that he would abolish the Irish Hospital sweepstakes, if brought to power.

There were 145 seats of the 153 in the Dail Eireann to be filled today The speaker, Dr. Michael Hayes, was elected automatically.

The president is chosen by the Dail and must be a member of it. He in turn nominates the vice president and other members of the executive council, or cabinet, which must be hearing people crying for bread, she said, 'Why don't they eat cake?'

"I appeal to the senators not to be as blind as the Bourbons of France before the revolution," La Follette concluded.

The young Wisconsin senator knew, however, that the bill was defeated. So, too, did Senator Edward P. Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado, the other author, who trains with the Republican Progressives.

Defeat Forecast.

Defeat of the bill had been forecast the day before when the Progressives and the Regular Republicans joined forces to kill a Democratic substitute bill that would have loaned $375,000,000 to the States for relief and given the States a similar sum for road building.

La Follette said that the relief question is an irrepressible one, and the indications are that he is right. It is entirely possible that the House will send to the Senate some kind of unemployment relief bill, a bill, perhaps, modeled after the so-called Democratic substitute that was defeated in the Senate Monday.

Meantime an effort will be made to get further action on the substitute in the Senate regardless of what the House does. The bill has been reintroduced, and sent to the committee on postoffices and post roads.

Oppose U. S. Distribution.

The House labor committee is now conducting hearings on a bill that is almost identical with the La Follette-Costigan bill. However, it seems hardly likely that this measure could pass the House.

It is not alone the gift feature of the bill that is obnoxious to many Democrats, but that part of the bill which provides for the distribution of the funds by a Federal bureau.

Thus, in yesterday's debate, Senator Hugo Black (Democrat), Alabama, said:

"The issue is not whether we want to feed the hungry, but whether we want to create a new Federal bureau in Washington."

Reply to Black.

Senator Costigan's answer to this was that the Senate could not agree to the appropriation of money without setting up some kind of machinery for supervising its distribution.

Administration senators like Fess and Reed did not quibble about technicalities in denouncing the original bill and the substitute. They contended that the Federal Treasury was dented enough already; that the situation was not sufficiently bad as yet to justify Federal aid, and that the appropriating of money out of the Federal Treasury would discourage voluntary contributions and throw the entire burden on Uncle Sam.

Before taking a final vote yesterday, the Senate disposed of a number of amendments, including the Couzens amendment, turning over $375,000,000 to President Hoover to distribute; the Thomas amendment, adding $250,000,000 to the original bill, the sum to be spent on public works, and the Walsh amendment, striking out the gift feature and leaving only the road fund.

In talking down the Couzens amendment, Minority Leader Joe T. Robinson said that it would be impossible for President Hoover, with a campaign coming, to disburse money among the States without "some measure of discrimination and partiality." This, he said, would be no fault of Hoover.

Robinson also took a crack at the Republicans for their recent Lincoln Day speeches. These speeches, the Democratic leader said, all struck the same note—that the President is being treated unjustly, that he is being condemned for failure to act when he ought to act, and for acting when he ought to do nothing.

Senator James E. Watson (Republican) of Indiana, Robinson said, had charged that there was a conspiracy to "malign and break down the President."

"I now declare," said Robinson, "that the criticisms of the President's course have come in large part from adherents to his own political party."

Direct Idle Relief Defended Over Air

Rev. J. A. Ryan Also Lauds La Follette Bill Asking Public Works Fund.

Federal relief legislation as proposed in the La Follette-Costigan bill was defended by the Rev. John A. Ryan, director of the department of social action of the National Catholic Welfare Council, in a radio address last night on the voters service program, sponsored by the National League of Women Voters and heard over a WJZ-NBC network.

Father Ryan declared that the most "discouraging fact about our very grave unemployment situation is the indifference to human suffering exhibited by our public officials and influential classes." The director criticized these persons because "they seem to assume that their duty will be fully performed if none of the unemployed dies of actual and quick starvation."

Father Ryan said the FederalGovernment is "fully able to perform the obligation of providing the unemployed with decent maintenance and elementary comfort. If the President and Congress do not meet this obligation," he added, "they are guilty of grave inhumanity to their fellow citizens. They are false to their public trust."

U. S. Exports Top Imports in Month

Favorable Trade Balance of $14,000,000 Shown for January.

(Associated Press.)

The United States had a favorable foreign trade balance of approximately $14,000,000 during January. The Department of Commerce announced yesterday that exports during January approximated $150,000,000 and imports $136,000,000. Exports during January, 1931, were $249,598,000 and imports $183,148,000.

Exports for the seven months ended January 31, were approximately $1,257,756,000 against $2,017,061,000 for the corresponding period in 1931 and imports $1,118,598,000 against $1,508,071,000.

The gold movement during January showed an increase. Exports of gold were $107,863,000 and imports $32,905,000. During January, 1931, gold exports were $54,000,000 and imports $34,426,000.

False Election Returns Net Chicagoan Sentence

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Edward Huff pleaded guilty today to making false election returns on November 4, 1930, in the congressional election in which Peter C. Granata defeated Stanley Kunz, incumbent, and was sentenced to serve a year in jail by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

Huff was the first of approximately 100 indicted election officers to be brought to trial. Prosecutors told Judge Jarecki that a recount of ballots in the precinct polls where Huff was a judge showed the correct count should have been 200 votes for Kunz and 45 for Granata, whereas the tally sheet showed 270 for Granata and 27 for Kunz.

Wallace's Body on Ship for Britain.

2 Railroads Seek Financing by U. S.

Western Lines Ask Small Loans Pending Action on Large Sums.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Two more carriers are seeking loans from the Railroad Credit Corporation, it was learned today.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western has applied for a $500,000 accommodation and the Western Pacific wants a loan of slightly more than $1,000,000. These are in addition to aid which both roads plan to ask from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

J. S. Pyeatt, president of the Denver, said his road would ask a maximum of $4,000,000 from the latter agency. The company has interest payments to meet on April 1 and May 1.

Western Pacific is understood to need about $800,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as interest on its first mortgage 5s of 1946 falls due on March 1.

Aguilar Over Dixie In Hop to Mexico

Former Military Attache Here Accompanied by American Pilot.

Col. Francisco Aguilar, former military attache of the Mexican Embassy here, was speeding south early last night in his trip back to Mexico City in his airplane, accompanied by an American pilot, disptaches from Greensboro, N. C., and other Southern points reported.

The Mexican officer, an expert flier, is expected to stop at Atlanta, Tampico, Laredo, and then proceed to Mexico City, with the view of arriving in the Mexican capital Friday or Saturday. The ship is a single-motored biplane.

Ambassador Don Jose Puig and other members of the embassy staff were at the flying field yesterday to bid godspeed to the Mexican flier. Gen. Jose Beltram is the successor of Col. Aguilar as military attache here.

BANKING BILL SPEED IS GOAL OF SENATE

Hopes to Equal Record of House in Passing on Credit Measure.

(Associated Press.)

With quick enactment of the emergency banking bill as its objective, the Senate today will try to show the House that it, too, can approve urgent legislation in record-breaking time.

After disposing of the long-pending relief bill, the Senate unanimously agreed to take the Glass-Steagall measure up for consideration at the outset of the day's session and with bipartisan support assured, hopes to pass it before adjourning for the night.

The House approved the bill Monday after only three hours of debate.

The prime purpose of the legislation is to supply many banks with cash by enabling them to rediscount at the Federal Reserve system paper not now eligible for such treatment. In addition the bill would bulwark the Federal Reserve system with $750,000,000 of Treasury gold, which would permit expansion of the currency.

One of Mr. Hoover's proposals for restoring business activity yesterday ran into opposition from the American Bankers Association. This was the recommendation that a system of Government-sponsored home loan discount banks be created to supply the prospective home builder with credit on easy terms.

Spokesmen for the Bankers Association told a Senate committee Congress should hold the bill in abeyance until it can gauge the effect of the Reconstruction Corporation upon the situation.

President Hoover recently has noted an optimistic business sign in estimates that stocks in stores and factories are now at the lowest point in the Nation's history in relation to population and demand.

With the Reconstruction Corporation's funds enlarging the Nation's purchasing power, he is hopeful that supplies may be further reduced with the result that factory wheels must begin turning with increased activity to build up the depleted inventories.

The Democratic leadership yesterday claimed credit for originating the pending banking bill. Speaker Garner said his party had proposed such a measure when the Federal Reserve law was first before Congress Party leaders have been urging it upon President Hoover for at least four weeks, he asserted.

Hoard War Called Bond Sales Drive

Knox Says Reconstruction Move Promotes Market of U. S. Securities.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The supreme effort of the C. R. O.—The Citizens' Reconstruction Organization—established by President Hoover to end hoarding—will be the "promotion of the sale of a Government security * * * of a liquid character * * * and bearing an adequate interest rate." Frank M. Knox, chairman of the organization, today wrote State chairmen.

Mr. Knox, who was appointed to his post by President Hoover, also announced completion of the organization of the central group of twelve district chairmen, all Chicagoans, who will direct the organization's activities in the various Federal Reserve districts. Holmer McKee, advertising executive, was appointed for Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Louisiana, and W. A. Jackson, steelmaster, was named for Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Utah and Nevada. F. W. Gardner, previously named for the latter district, resigned because of illness.

Three more State chairmen also were appointed today, bringing the total number named to 25. The appointees were Lathrop Moorehead, of Durham, N. C.; Arthur A. Murphy, of Seattle, Wash., and Randolph Bals, of Williamson, W. Va.

HOUSE UNIT DECIDES AGAINST RUM VOTE

Linthicum Says Measure Is to Be Brought Up on Floor of Chamber Soon.

(Associated Press.)

The House judiciary committee yesterday disapproved, fourteen to nine, a resolution sponsored by the bipartisan wet bloc under which a constitutional amendment would be submitted to the States proposing State control of liquor.

Immediately afterward, Representative Linthicum (Democrat), of Maryland, announced the measure would be brought to the floor of the House for a vote under procedure adopted by the House at this session. A petition signed by 145 members, under the new rules, can take a bill from a committee and bring it up for a vote.

"On February 25 I will have a petition on the desk," Mr. Linthicum said. "On March 14, the discharge date, I hope to bring the resolution before the House for a vote."

Termed Idle Gesture.

Representative Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, a prohibitionist, told Mr. Linthicum he was making "an idle gesture." He said:

"My friend from Maryland will get 75 members to vote for his resolution just as 15 senators voted for the Bingham resolution. He won't get any more votes in the House than they got in the Senate."

Though more than 100 prohibition proposals have been sent to the judiciary committee it voted yesterday only on the home-rule amendment. The plan contains State control principles advocated by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The vote was:

For approving the home rule amendment (9) — Representatives Montague and Tucker, of Virginia; Celler and Oliver, of New York; Condon, of Rhode Island, and Dieterich, of Illinois, Democrats; and Dyer, of Missouri; LaGuardia, of New York, and Bachmann, of West Virginia, Republicans.

Against approval (14)—Representatives Summers, of Texas; Dominick, of South Carolina; McKeown, of Oklahoma; Browning, of Tennessee; Gregory, of Kentucky; Tarver, of Georgia, and Weaver, of North Carolina, Democrats; and Christopherson, of South Dakota; Yates and Hall, of Illinois; Michner, of Michigan; Kurtz, of Pennsylvania; Moore, of Ohio, and Sparks, of Kansas.

Statement by Curran.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, issued a statement saying, "The people of the country are three to one against prohibition and the time is coming when committees of Congress will follow the will of the people instead of blocking it."

The manner in which the eighteenth amendment was ratified was criticized yesterday by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, as hearings began on his proposals that constitutional amendments affecting "individual rights" be approved only by State conventions or referenda.

Legislatures which ratified the prohibition amendment, he said, were subjected to "war hysteria" and to "the very great pressure of organizations that had been interested in prohibition for some years."

"Thus," he said, "we had the strange spectacle of States whose people were undeniably opposed to prohibition adopting the amendment."

He said its adoption was followed by many protests on the ground that the legislatures ratifying it were not elected for that purpose, but rather on party platforms "generally without any reference to the prohibition question."

manifesto when it was made public that "any agreement or treaty entered into between these governments which impaired the treaty rights of the open-door policy or the territorial integrity of China" would be similarly proscribed.

The eve of the Japanese offensive was not regarded as propitious for the announcement of diplomatic moves for peace, but it was understood nevertheless, that if the League of Nations takes the initiative in the crisis, some such corroborative move as was pursued last January by the Secretary of State will be continued by him here.

Secretary Stimson has been following a policy of prudence in the present status of the Sino-Japanese crisis, as he was unwilling to weaken the cumulative force of protests or peace moves by a useless reduplication of them out of season. His conversation yesterday by transatlantic phone with Ray Atherton, charge d'affaires of the American Embassy in London, kept him informed of every stage of the peace moves which Prime Minister MacDonald, in London, and Sir John Simon, the British foreign minister in Geneva, are following. Shortly after this Sir Ronald Lindsay called to convey the present status of the British peace offensive.

The United States meanwhile has been closely following the progress of the peace moves in Geneva. Hugh Wilson, the American delegate at the disarmament conference, who is also American Minister to Switzerland, has taken over the direction of the liaison work of the United States and the League of Nations.

Assurance of Support.

Mr. Wilson gave the league the same informal assurances of American support which were contained in the instructions of Ambassador Dawes at the league council meeting in Paris. He conveyed to the league members the keen anxiety of the United States for peace in the Orient and promised American cooperation in any league move. The traditional reservation which the United States has made with regard to the league covenant, with its economic sanctions and other provisos which have never been recognized by this Government, were scrupulously maintained by Mr. Wilson, however.

Reports from Geneva yesterday said that the drafting committee appointed by the league council to draw up details of the council's appeal to Japan in the present emergency had completed its work. As soon as the text has been announced and approved the corroborative action of the United States and Great Britain will probably be taken.

In Immediate Future.

The forthright invocation of the League Covenant under Article X or even under the more stringent terms of Article XVI, which the Chinese elements in the league are anxious to do, would thus seal every legal resource of justification for Japan's attitude in Shanghai. The American and British position, made clear on January 7, has not lost any of its strength by the passage of time, and if there will be any reasonable assurance of added effectiveness, it was believed here that the position of the two governments would be reiterated some time in the immediate future and with additional emphasis.

The United States can not invoke the covenant, which it does not recognize, but all the other countries members of the league council can, and have done so. In addition to this decisive step, the United States and Great Britain will again call to the attention of the Japanese government all the other international pacts which have become as scraps of paper by the roughshod methods of the Japanese military forces in Shanghai.

Article X of the league covenant, which was mentioned in the note to Japan, says:

"The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means of which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

World's Praise Asked For League of Nations

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the League of Nations, called for praise, not criticism of the league, in formally inaugurating transatlantic service over the league's new broadcasting station at Geneva tonight.

His address was rebroadcast in the United States over a national network.

DRY SEES SELECTION OF SMITH AS LIKELY

Barton, However, Declares He Has No Chance to Win If Nominated.

(Associated Press.)

Arthur J. Barton, chairman of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League, yesterday announced he would "not be at all surprised" if Alfred E. Smith won the Democratic nomination for President. He added Smith could not be elected. At the same time Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton of Cambridge, Massachusetts, chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Education Against Alcohol, warned the Republicans against an antiprohibition plank.

Mrs. Tilton said "Eastern financiers" hope for great things "if they can make both parties 'wet.'"

Barton said it was a "pitiable spectacle that the national Democracy should be in the grip of liquor and lucre." He said Smith's nomination would bring "another debacle and rout." Mrs. Tilton said "all a 'wet' repeal plank can do is to elect a 'wet' Democrat, help to hasten the day when the Republican party dies."

Barton headed the South-wide anti-Smith Democrats' organization in 1928. He is president of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, and chairman of the Southern Baptist Convention's Social Service Commission. He said Smith's announcement of availability was "no surprise."

"Whether he can carry the convention or not remains to be seen," Barton said, "but I shall not be at all surprised if he succeeds. This, of course, would bring the country face to face with the same personalities and issues that were involved in the campaign of 1928, and undoubtedly the same heated controversies and bitterness."

Rail Merging Suggested As Economic Expedient

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—As a "long step" in the direction of railway economy, President Ralph Budd, of the Burlington Lines, today suggested the consolidation of the 1,000 operating companies into 20 or 25 large systems.

Discussing the problems of the railway industry at a meeting of the Inland Press Association, Budd declared competition would be more effective and the service better if there were fewer and stronger railroads.

Met at noon and adjourned at 7:25 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Defeated La Follette-Costigan unemployment bill by a vote of 48 to 35.

Appropriations committee struck out of House agriculture bill restriction against giving road money to States using convict labor.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, protested that Republican speakers were asking for sympathy against unjust attacks on President although whole-hearted cooperation was being given by Congress.

Senator Davis (Republican), of Pennsylvania, replied to Gov. Pinchot saying politics and hungry people did not mix.

Senator Hebert (Republican), of Rhode Island, introduced a substitute for the Norris anti-injunction bill.

Adopted House resolution authorizing Congress to place a wreath on the grave of the mother of George Washington.

Judiciary committee minority report opposed printing of Wickersham Commission Mooney-Billings case report.

Indians affairs subcommittee recommended removal of Herbert J. Hagerman, of New Mexico, as special Indian commissioner.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 6:15 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Adopted constitutional amendment abolishing lame-duck sessions.

Speaker Garner said the Glass-Stegall bill to liberalize Federal Reserve credits was a Democratic measure, advocated for years.

Judiciary committee voted 14 to 9 against "home-rule" prohibition amendment.

Public buildings committee heard American Institute of Architects urge employment only of local architects for Federal buildings.

Postoffice subcommittee approved Brunner bill to protect postmasters against salary cuts because of decreased receipts.

Interstate commerce committee approved bills codifying laws of Panama Canal Zone.

Ways and means committee received new tax recommendations from Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Immigration committee began hearings on number of immigration restriction measures.

Representative Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, introduced a resolution providing for a special House committee to study what governmental agencies could be eliminated.

President Hoover transmitted a recommendation that $1,000,000 be appropriated for Federal participation in the Chicago world fair.

A CORRECTION

In its account of the passage by the House of the Stegall-Glass emergency banking bill The Post yesterday erroneously reported Representative Allen, of Illinois, as voting against the bill. Representative Amlie, of Wisconsin, voted against the bill. Mr. Allen voted for it. The Post regrets confusing Mr. Allen's name with that of Mr. Amlie.

SHELLING U. S. AREA DIMS PEACE MOVES

Adm. M. M. Taylor Protests Japan's Attacks on District in Shanghai.

(Associated Press.)

Shanghai developments, including reports of continued Japanese shelling of the American area of the International Settlement, were discouraging yesterday to the State Department and other workers for peace.

The Navy's highest ranking officer in the Far East, Admiral M. M. Taylor, quickly protested to the Japanese naval command, after missiles from Japanese guns dropped within the barbed wire inclosure guarded by American Marines.

It was the second time this has occurred. Twelve shells fell in the Marine sector Sunday night, but firing ceased quickly after American officials protested. Admiral Taylor has also complained to the Japanese against flying their aircraft over the settlement.

Danger Causes Concern.

Although no casualties have resulted from the Japanese fire, the danger to American lives continues to be a sourc of grave concern to both the Navy and State Departments.

The latter tonight saw little hope that Japan would deviate from its plan to deal China a smashing blow, unless the Chinese comply with the Japanese demand for evacuation to a "safe distance" beyond the Woosung and Chapei areas, a "safe distance" being interpreted to mean at least 20 miles.

Japan's failure to stop using the International Settlement as a base of operations, despite protests of the United States, Great Britain and associated powers, was taken as an added indication of its determination to carry military operations forward.

Gas Charge Denied.

A statement came from the Japanese Embassy, over the signature of Col. S. Washizu, the military attache, saying a Chinese charge that the Japanese intended to use poison gas was "absolutely false."

"I am in receipt of advices from the Japanese General Staff to the effect that our forces have never used poison gas in military operations, and have no intention of using it in the future," he said.

"Our troops are equipped with devices for laying smoke screens, which, however, are only a means of covering troop movements, and which contain no poisonous or harmful elements."

Americans Quit Nanking.

There also came from Consul General Willys R. Peck, at Nanking, a report that the following Americans left Nanking for Shanghai by steamer on February 10:

Miss M. E. Mossman, Sioux City, Iowa; Miss A. M. Wixon, Ossining, N. Y.; Miss K. L. Bond, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. P. W. Meyers and Miss T. M. Lyon, American address unknown.

Miss Joy L. Smith, Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Miss B. L. Reicher, American address unknown, left Nanking for Wuhu by steamer on February 10.

The State Department yesterday announced the appointment of George Hubbard Blakeslee, of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., as special assistant to the American Legation in Peiping. He has obtained leave of absence from Clark, and will sail in a few days for the Orient. Mr. Blakeslee served as a technical adviser to the American delegation at the Washington conference.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS.

EVERY now and then Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, seems to be the antithesis of himself. If he were divided up on the basis of his senatorial record he probably would supply a forceful personality for each of the so-called Senate blocs. If that seems to indicate a wishy-washy, vacillating personality it is the antithesis of the ruddy complexioned, gray-haired, pleasant, scrappy senator.

A millionaire who enjoys the power and the nice things his millions give him, as well as his power as a United States senator, he conveys the impression that he made his millions incidentally and throughout the making remained James Couzens, a bit truculent, a good friend, a good hater and a tough fighter.

He dislikes stupidity and pompous stupidity is beyond his tolerance. He dislikes hokum but realizes that a certain amount of hokum apparently is inevitable in politics.

His biography in the Congressional Record takes up two and a half lines. It reads: James Couzens, Republican; born, Chatham, Ontario, August 26, 1872; married; entered the Senate November 29, 1922; reelected in 1924 and again in 1930; term expires March 3, 1937."

He was married in Detroit. He was commissioner of police there and mayor. When Henry Ford wasn't much, Jim Couzens backed him with what money he had. What happened is history. Couzens was an officer in the Ford Co. Finally he sold out to Ford. The transaction led to one of the most spectacular tax suits. He won and continued his attacks on former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Modern Girl at Length Beginning to Receive Due

By JOHN J. DALY

AFTER fifteen years as director of a women's university, a dean disclosed that "every year the girls become more charming, more practical, more efficient, and more wonderful."

The lady is a little late getting around with the news. It is something we have all known for quite some time, whether we admit it or not. Of course, it has not been generally acknowledged.

The modern girl has been maligned. Time, then, to give her credit. When she cooks, if ever she cooks, she is a better cook than her grandmother was. She is a hostess more charming than her Aunt Minnie, who was no hostess at all. Aunt Minnie served tea to visitors who sat in her parlor on horse hair chairs and itched.

FORSOOTH, the modern girl is more efficient than most all the ladies who preceded her, whether they were her own relatives, her mother's classmates, or just the bygone generation refusing to let bygones be bygones.

From Eve, through to Cleopatra, on up to Empress Eugenie, and beyond, the modern girl recognizes no equal. This girl struts her stuff. She knows how to step on it, as the saying goes. And no foolin'. She drives her own car, flies a plane, swims the latest stroke, plays ping-pong, tennis and golf, baseball and football, if she is in the mood; has a bevy of boy friends waiting on her, runs her own affairs and her parents', too, and still has time to cavort on the dance floors of night clubs and cabarets, with a tea dansant in between, besides a few cocktail parties and a bal boheme.

All hail to the modern girl. She burns the candle at both ends, lighting the world.

This modern girl is out in front. She is no shrinking violet, clinging vine or weeping willow—and she finishes what she starts.

* * * *

WHAT angers the modern girl is that some of the older ladies are trying, with might and main, to emulate her example. They bob their hair, rouge their lips, stencil their eyebrows, enamel their finger nails, shorten their skirts and their breath, and sometimes steal the girls' boy friends.

The girls, who were girls in the Gay Nineties, and before the Naughty Eighties and the Sweet Seventies, look so much like the girls of today that few can tell them apart. That is, in the nighttime—when the lights are low, and the subdued shadows softly gleam and glow. Then, old hearts become young again, while some sweet crooner sings on a rostrum of a dance hall, whispering sweet nothings of love through a megaphone.

Not the modern girl who causes all the trouble, but the modern version of the old girl, the lady who ought to know better!

Bank Official's Indictment Upheld.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Judge George L. Donnellan, in General Sessions Court, today denied a motion to dismiss the indictment charging Joseph A. Broderick, State superintendent of banks, with neglect of duty for failing to close the Bank of United States before he took it over in December, 1930.

NEXT CHIANG MOVE AWAITED BY TOKYO

His Support of 19th Army Would Raise Question of Real War.

Tokyo, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Japanese government officials evinced much interest today in the way Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek will jump.

Military authorities express the belief that Gen. Chiang, former President of China and chief of the Chinese armies, would not take a personal part in the Shanghai conflict, although they pointed out that he has been supporting the Nineteenth route army now in the field and might feel compelled, by growing Chinese enthusiasm over the Nineteenth's record, to take a hand.

It was said that if his national guard divisions—known as "Chiang's Own"—joined the Nineteenth, a new question would arise—whether the Japanese and Chinese were not engaged on a national scale instead of being involved only locally at Shanghai, as Tokyo contends they are.

Japanese opinion, it was said, agrees that the Nineteenth must be destroyed. Officials explained that the unit, composed almost entirely of anti-Japanese elements from Canton, has heretofore been victorious over the Japanese, and hence the soldiers have become national Chinese heroes.

War Minister Araki and other military leaders have publicly expressed concern about the possible need for additional Japanese reinforcements in case other Chinese units join the Nineteenth. Gen. Araki said the next 72 hours would determine whether reinforcements must be sent—and this was taken to mean that within that time Gen. Chiang was expected to indicate his intentions.

To send more reinforcements the consent of the emperor and the cabinet must be obtained. Officials said the question had not been presented before the cabinet.

The foreign office instructed the consul general at Shanghai to inform the British and American authorities that they were landing troops in the International Settlement and therefore there seemed to be no reason why the Japanese should not. These instructions were to cover the Japanese consul's reply to British and American protests.

COUNCIL ASKS JAPAN TO END HOSTILITIES

her responsibilities under Article X of the league covenant.

3. A declaration that the council can not accept the situation in China as an accomplished fact.

4. A reminder to Japan of her position as one of the great powers of the world and that, as a result, and as "a noble gesture, she should meet the entreaties of the world."

It was significant that the note was sent to the Japanese government, but not to the Chinese government. Presumably it was an attempt by the league council to avoid acting on China's demands that a special session of the general assembly of the league be summoned to consider the Chinese warfare.

Japan, reportedly supported by Sir John Simon, of Britain, and others, had opposed such action and China threatened to take the initiative in calling the assembly. The council leaders were understood to have made every effort to persuade China's delegate, W. W. Yen, that the league was making every effort to end the warfare. It also was considered possible that Japan would resign from the league if strong action was taken against her.

The long session of the council, which met shortly after noon, discussed the advisability of sending a similar note to China, but finally decided to appeal to Japan alone. The note probably will be published tomorrow.

Response to Decide Action.

As a result of the dispatch of the note to Japan, the council may be forced within a few days to face the most important decision it has ever made in a serious international affair.

It is generally believed that the response of the Tokyo government to the note will decide whether the council calls a special session of the assembly. The league leaders feel that if Japan indicates willingness to collaborate in pacific solution of the China warfare, the calling of the assembly will not be necessary.

Otherwise, the council will be under strong pressure to call the assembly without further delay.

Prior to sending the note to Japan, the council received advices from London and Paris on the positions of Britain and France.

Judge Denies New Trial To Powers and Appeal

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Harry F. Powers, convicted mass killer under sentence to be hanged March 18, today was denied an appeal and a new trial. Judge Birk S. Stathers refused Powers' pleas after the "bluebeard's" attorney, J. Ed Law, had presented his petition, bills of exception, and a record of the trial transcript. The court's action came as a surprise, but Judge Stathers explained it was a step tending to expedite the case.

The judge pointed out that since it is the intention of defense counsel to take the case to the State Supreme Court, in the event the Criminal Court verdict was not reversed by him, it would be better to go to the higher court now, thus saving additional costs.

Deputies Kill Robber After $30 Bank Theft

Claremore, Okla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Two Rogers County deputy sheriffs today killed an unidentified robber who a short time before had obtained $30 in the holdup of the First State Bank, of Inola, Okla.

J. H. Flippin and Dick Patterson, the deputies, overtook the robber at a filling station near Claremore, and engaged the fugitive in a gun battle when he resisted arrtst. The dead man was positively identified as the perpetrator of the holdup by D. Konig, president of the bank.

Veteran Aids Special Edition.

Sumter, S. C., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Gen. N. G. Osteen, 89, who has been actively engaged in newspaper work since 1855, except for time spent in the Confederate Army, today helped get out a special edition celebrating the eightieth anniversary of the Sumter Daily Item.

U. S. Airman Flies Over War Lines to Shanghai

Shanghai, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Tom Derby, an American civilian aviator, came through a bombardment by both Chinese and Japanese antiaircraft guns today on his way down from Nanking and successfully landed his ship on the race course here.

Derby said anticraft shells popped all around him as he passed over the Chinese lines, but neither he nor his plane was hit.

His arrival caused considerable excitement. Many persons who had seen him in the sky thought, because of the colors of his plane, that they were watching a Chinese ship come down, and a great crowd of natives and foreigners hurried to the race course.

January 25 Derby went up to Nanking to demonstrate his ship to a prospective purchaser. The Sino-Japanese trouble delayed his return, but finally he decided to take a chance anyway.

Immigration Cut Urged at Hearing

Heavy Reduction Asked as House Group Begins Its Considerations.

(Associated Press.)

A heavy reduction in immigration to the United States was urged yesterday before a House committee as it opened hearings on a long string of exclusion measures.

Chairman Dickstein (Democrat), New York, of the immigration committee, said testimony would be received during the hearings on:

Suspension or further restriction of general immigration.

Restriction of immigration from Mexico, Canada and from all the Western Hemisphere.

Restriction of immigration from the Philippine Islands.

Exclusion of Communists.

Elimination of the national origins provisions.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, urged quota cutting.

Air Raids Are Feared By Chinese at Nanking

Nanking, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Chinese residents of Nanking went feverishly to work today to construct dugouts against air raids. News of continued bombing at Shanghai has made them nervous.

Dugouts have been started in back yards in almost every quarter of the city. Some of them are crude, and some are elaborate, depending on the financial state of the builder. They range all the way from little holes in the ground to great cellars, costing as much as $3,000, which have been built for officials. Families living near the city walls have burrowed out holes in the base of the wall.

PRO-TOKYO REGIME FORMED AT MUKDEN

Gen. Mah With Japanese Plan to Form Independent Manchu State.

Mukden, Manchuria, Feb. 16 (U.P.). The framework of a new pro-Japanese regime in Manchuria was formed today with the famous Chinese militarist, Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, taking a leading role in cooperation with the Nipponese leaders who crushed his army at Tsitsihar. It was understood an independent Manchu state would be proclaimed immediately.

Gen. Mah, the petty provincial leader, whose name was broadcast throughout the world when he defied the modern Japanese military machine before Tsitsihar, arrived by plane to participate in the conference at which a political supreme committee of Manchuria and Mongolia was organized.

The committee included Gen. Mah, as governor of Heilungkiang Province, of which Tsitsihar is capital; Chang Chung-Hui, as governor of Harbin, which is organized in a "special area;" Tsang Shihyi and Hsi Chia, two other Chinese who have been supported by the Japanese. Still another provincial leader, Tang Yu-Lin, will participate in the new Manchu state, which is to be designed to bar the return of Chang Hsueh-Liang as ruler of Manchuria.

Gen. Mah, placid militarist, who was once the "hero of all China," was the most amazing figure at the conference. He stepped from his plane clad in furs—a "new man" as far as his attitude toward Japan is concerned. All of the bombast with which he swore to fight "to the end"—and then fled—was gone and he was sympathetic and friendly to the aims of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander.

The collapse of Gen. Mah as a Chinese hero was a blow to patriots throughout China, where thousands of dollars had been collected to aid him in defending Manchuria.

Leaders decided to merge the frontier bank of the three Eastern provinces (Manchuria) at Mukden, with a capital of 20,000,000 yuan, as the Central Bank of Manchuria and to adopt the silver standard. Chang Ching-Hui visited Gen. Honjo and discussed reports that Chang Hsueh-Liang had dispatched spies to assassinate the pro-Japanese leaders in Manchuria.

Chinese Will Darken Swatow Lighthouses

Swatow, China, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Announcing they were "seeking to discourage Japanese warships from coming to Swatow," the Chinese military authorities today ordered that all lighthouses along the adjacent coastline be darkened.

The order resulted in protests from foreign consuls, who asserted that the action endangered shipping along the China coast. Four Japanese warships already are here.

TWO ENGLISH BLUEJACKETS INJURED BY FALLING SHELLS

section inside the northern borders of the International Settlement which is patrolled by the marines, killed two Chinese and wounded a number of others.

The Marines, none of whom was injured, said the shells exploded with great power. They said the missiles apparently came from Japanese batteries.

Two British bluejackets who were wounded were members of a naval landing party guarding the British wharves along the Whangpoo River.

The injuries of one were reported to be serious.

Shells fell on the wharves and struck the British steamer Suiwo, a Yangtze River boat, causing it to take to the opposite shore. Some said ten shells dropped on the docks, and they believed them to be from Chinese guns.

Rear Admiral Shimada, Japanese chief of staff, charged that soldiers under the Chinese military command were sniping in Hongkew, "contrary to all accepted usages of war and The Hague International Convention."

He said the Chinese army was organizing gunmen into military units assigned to duty in various streets of Hongkew.

Kept Awake All Night.

The bombardment started at 6:55 p. m. yesterday and kept Shanghai awake all night. The Japanese put into action a heavy battery just placed in Hongkew Park and they also utilized large-caliber field pieces that had been silent for several days.

Before dawn the continuous firing of the big guns threw a red glare over Shanghai and the northern border of the city was lighted up by fires started by bursting shells. A strong north wind fanned the flames and blew clouds of smoke over the International Settlement.

American consular authorities received information of a new attack by a roving band of Japanese plainclothesmen on an American mission school. They were told that Japanese wreckers paid another visit last night to the middle school of the American Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Quinsin road in the Hongkew section.

The raiders smashed furniture and windows and scattered about books and records. Apparently they were seeking anti-Japanese propaganda supposedly left behind by students who fled when the conflict started. The same property had been raided twice before by the Japanese, and on each occasion Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham protested to Consul General Karamatsu Murai.

New Artillery Batteries.

The Chinese were out in greater force than ever in Chapei. They had set up new artillery batteries in preparation for action on the Kiangwan road, and between Chenju and Chapei, a distance of about 4 miles, there was an unbroken line of trenches and barricades bristling with machine guns.

During yesterday's action the Japanese demonstrated the usefulness of their scouting planes as adjuncts to the artillery. A group of ships flying high over the Kiangwan district to the north of Shanghai spotted a column of Chinese infantry and cavalry moving toward the front.

The planes reported back to the Japanese artillery in Hongkew and soon projectiles were streaming at the Chinese soldiers. Japanese headquarters reported that although the Chinese fled to cover, heavy casualties were inflicted by the well-placed shells.

Lack of Munitions.

The Chinese were encountering considerable difficulty with their ammunition supply. A semiofficial government spokesman said their Nineteenth route army was equipped with Japanese-made rifles. When the hostilities started ammunition from Japan was cut off, and Chinese arsenals can furnish only a fraction of the army's needs.

Lack of munitions, this spokesman said, probably would make a Chinese retreat imperative when the Japanese launched their big attack.

An investigation revealed numerous persons have been helping themselves to the protection of the United States and various other foreign flags.

Foreign flags of all sorts, but principally British and American, have sprouted on buildings, in courtyards, over doorways and on automobiles, trucks, carriages and even rickshaws.

The authorities investigated 48 vehicles flying either American or British flags and not one of them was owned by an American citizen or a British subject. Municipal police revealed that Chinese were the principal offenders, and that they were using even Red Cross flags on their commercial vehicles.

The investigation was undertaken after the Japanese had complained that the flags were being misused. Chinese authorities said they would try to hit upon a plan to stop the practice. Native flag shops were doing a big business—but not in the colors of China.

Policeman's Killer Faces Chair April 8

Man, Twice Convicted, to Die for Slaying of H. J. McDonald.

Justice James M. Proctor yesterday postponed until Friday, April 8, the date for the execution of Alfred Scott Aldridge, colored, who has twice been convicted of the murder of Policeman Harry J. McDonald, July 6, 1929.

Aldridge was given a new trial last summer when the Supreme Court held that the jurors should have been queried as to possible prejudices in a case in which a colored man was being tried for the slaying of a white man. The jury quickly found him guilty at the subsequent trial.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea prosecuted Aldridge, whose appeal is now before the Court of Appeals. The appellate ruling on his second conviction will probably be handed down next week, arguments having been made some time ago.

Japanese Not to Permit China Seizure, Is Claim

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The people of Japan, declared Yusuke Isurumi, young Japanese author and statesman, tonight, will overthrow any Japanese government that "embarks upon an imperialistic invasion of the Yangtze Valley."

"If any Japanese government," he said at a banquet in his honor, "goes beyond the protection of Japanese lives and property at Shanghai and embarks upon imperialistic invasion of the Yangtze Valley, as has been rumored, that government will be overthrown by the overwhelming majority of the people of Japan."

France Removes British Coal Surtax.

London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—There were loud cheers in the House of Commons today when Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, announced that France had removed the 15 per cent surtax on British coal, recently imposed. Some of the members characterized this development as the first concrete result of Great Britain's new tariff policy.

BLAGDEN DESCRIBES ESCAPING KIDNAPERS

Returns to Friends's Home After Overpowering One of 3 Abductors.

Cleveland, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Lying in bed recovering from shock, Harry H. Blagden, 45, prominent New York State sportsman, tonight told a thrilling story of how he slugged his way to freedom from a gang who held him for ransom five days.

Blagden was recuperating at the home of a friend, Claude Peck, where he made his way after beating one of his captors early today. He said three men, apparently members of a "big-time New York and Detroit bootlegging" mob, kidnaped him from Lake Placid, N. Y., last Thursday night, moved him about New York State and finally brought him to Cleveland.

Blagden believed he was mistaken for E. Roland Harriman, son of the famous railroad magnate, whose guest he was to have been Thursday night at the winter Olympics. Blagden operates a camp at Saranac Lake patronized by sons of the wealthy, but he himself is not rich, he said.

Given Narcotic.

The sportsman said he beat one of his guards into unconsciousness while the other two were eating lunch. Disheveled and exhausted, he walked the streets until passersby told him he was in Cleveland and gave him directions to the Peck home.

Soon after his abduction, Blagden said he was administered a narcotic in beer he was forced to drink, taken to Albany, N. Y., in a large sedan, held there until early Saturday, taken to Syracuse in a bus and finally driven to Cleveland in a small, closed truck. Five men, all armed, met his three captors in Albany.

While in Albany, he said he was forced to write a letter to his brother, Thomas, demanding $1,000 for his release. Thomas Blagden kept the directed rendezvous with the money Sunday, but no one appeared.

Tells of Fright.

"I never was so scared in my life," Harry Blagden related. He said he knew his kidnapers as "Jim," the leader, who gained entrance to the Harriman cottage at Lake Placid on the pretext of wanting to telephone, "Curley," the man whom he beat, and "Zeke."

When they arrived here, Jim and Zeke went into a barbecue stand.

"I decided now if ever was the time to do something," said Blagden. "I hit Curley in the solar plexus with my right fist and grabbed him by the throat with my other hand. I got my hand on the gun before Curley. I drew it and beat Curley over the head until he was unconscious."

Then Blagden kicked through the doors of the truck and walked to the Peck home.

Police tonight sought the three men, who were fully described by Blagden. An officer also was posted at the Peck home.

Police to Check Story.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—State police announced tonight that they planned to check "very carefully" the story of Harry H. Blagden, who turned up last night at Cleveland, Ohio, after having been missing four days.

Troopers also revealed that a State policeman flew to Cleveland today to accompany Blagden upon his return to his home at Upper Saranac Lake, near here.

Meanwhile, a guard was thrown about the Blagden residence following a request from Blagden, who telephoned from Cleveland that the gang which kidnaped him Thursday night from a cottage adjoining the exclusive Lake Placid Club had threatened to come back for other members of the family.

Crossing Crash Kills Five in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Four men were killed, a fifth died several hours later and another man was seriously injured in a crossing collision today on the Reading Railroad at Island road near Seventy-ninth street, in the extreme southwest section of the city.

The men were riding to work in a small truck which was struck by a fast freight train. The dead were Frank Johnson, 46; Marion Gotban, 56; John Yablonski, 36; Joseph Stuski, 38, and Thomas Martin, 40.

Calcutta School Official Knighted.

London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—King George today conferred knighthood upon Lieut. Col. Hassan Suhrawardy, vice chancellor of Calcutta University. Suhrawardy was credited with being largely responsible for saving the life of Sir Stanley Jackson, governor of Bengal, when he was attacked by a girl student February 6.

Nervous, Rundown! Took on Weight, Gained Strength

J. C. HOWELL.

Richmond, Va.—"I was weak, nervous, lost weight and had pains all through my body. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and can say it surely did help me. I hadn't finished the first bottle when I began to feel more like myself again. I soon took on weight and my normal strength returned," said J. C. Howell, of 632 Louisiana street. "I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a wonderful tonic for a weak, nervous, run-down condition, and believe more people should know what it is doing every day for people who have lost their health."

Bob and Russell Again Face Mail Fraud Trial

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A stock promoting enterprise by which Charles V. Bob and Frederic C. Russell allegedly mulcted investors out of more than $6,000,000 was described to a Federal Court jury today in the opening of their retrial on mail fraud charges.

Bob and Russell, accused of misrepresenting metal and mining shares, an investment trust promoted by Bob, first were tried last October but the jury disagreed. In his opening statement, Federal Prosecutor Pratt declared Bob organized a highly reputable directorate for metal and mining shares and then used the firm's portfolio as a "dumping ground" for his own securities.

GANDHI'S WOMAN AID IS ORDERED TO LEAVE

Miss Slade Defies Police, Saying She Will Continue Her Work in Bombay.

Bombay, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The British government today ordered Miss Madeline Slade, who forsook London society, adopted the name Shrimati Mira Behn and became a follower of Mahatma Gandhi, to abstain from all unlawful activities and get out of Bombay within 24 hours.

Miss Slade said she would not budge. "If you are going to arrest me, please don't disturb my sleep at midnight," she declared.

The order was issued by Sir Patrick Kelly, commissioner of police, and was based on the emergency ordinances forbidding all Nationalist activities which were proclaimed to put down the mahatma's civil disobedience campaign. Miss Slade is about the only one of the principal assistants of Mr. Gandhi remaining at liberty.

It was reported that when she was confronted with the government order she said:

"Come any time Thursday morning and you will still find me here. I don't propose to leave Bombay to oblige the police commissioner and I shall carry on my usual work."

Schoolgirl Is Abducted For Night by Motorists

Lillington, N. C., Feb. 16 ((A.P.).—Two men and a woman took Helen Bowling, 7-year-old daughter of a farmer, from her school by a ruse yesterday, rode around all night with her in an automobile and then released her at a neighbor's home near her father's farm.

The child apparently was not harmed, but suffered from exposure. She said the men were "soldier boys" and were called Tom and John by the woman. They were drinking, she said, and took her to Fayetteville, Benson, Dunn and Raleigh during the night.

THEY WERE TALKING ABOUT SMOKING... whether girls should or should not smoke; but it came out that all three of them had been smoking for a long time.

They were asking each other what made a good cigarette. And after discussing one thing and another, they agreed that a cigarette should be milder.

They thought also that it should taste just right—that is, not over-sweet, but on the other hand, not bitter—just sweet enough.

And everybody, they said, wants anything that is placed in the mouth just as pure as can be.

Then they began to think what cigarette, if any, filled this bill; and agreed that CHESTERFIELD was milder—tasted better—and was pure. The girls were satisfied, because "They Satisfy."

COLLEAGUES LAUNCH GARNER'S CANDIDACY

Sheppard and Connally Issue Statement Lauding Texan for Presidency.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner was formally advanced as a Democratic presidential candidate last night by Senators Sheppard and Connally, of Texas.

Promising the votes of the State's delegation to the national convention, the senators appealed for national support for their fellow Texan as a "rugged and militant champion of the American people."

"Without reflecting upon any other Democrat," they said in a joint statement, "whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Presidency, we have no hesitation in averring that Speaker Garner by training and experience in national affairs and by his wide grasp of national problems is the most highly qualified of all who are being mentioned as candidates in either the Republican or Democratic parties."

Sticking to Speaker's Job.

The Speaker said he had "not been informed of the statement issued by Senators Sheppard and Connally, of Texas, until some newspapermen questioned me about it."

"I have not talked to either Senator Sheppard or Senator Connally about the presidential situation," the Texas Democrat said. "My job is Speaker of the House, and I am conning myself solely to the job of running this House.

"I did not have the slightest knowledge that such a statement was being issued. Any statement issued about me is done so voluntarily and on the author's own accord. I have no spokesman and I desire that to be clearly understood."

Mr. Garner declined to discuss the presidential candidacy situation.

The statement by the Texas senators said:

"The Democracy of Texas will present Speaker John N. Garner to the Democratic national convention as its choice for President of the United States. Mr. Garner is in no sense a local or provincial political figure. His public services have been national in their scope and will appeal to the Democracy of the Nation. For 29 years Mr. Garner has served in the Congress of the United States. His service has been distinguished for its breadth of vision, its political courage and its rugged and aggressive Democracy.

"He has been Speaker of the House now for only a few weeks. During that period the House, under his leadership, has attracted the attention of the whole country by reason of its prompt, thorough and statesmanlike conduct of its affairs. His record as Speaker and leader is among the highest proofs of his splendid qualities of leadership and courage.

Garner's Vision Broad.

"Mr. Garner is presented to the Democracy of the Nation in no narrow sectional sense. His vision is as broad as the boundaries of the Republic. His statesmanship and courage touch every vital interest of the national welfare.

"Mr. Garner's friends present his name on the basis of his worthiness, his Democracy and his service. His interests will be advanced seriously and aggressively. They present him to the Nation as a man grounded in the fundamentals of Democracy, a rugged and militant champion of the great body of the American people and as a man eminently qualified by training and service to perform the exalted duties of President of the United States.

"The Democrats of Texas will send a delegation to Chicago instructed to vote for his nomination. They welcome the support of Democrats everywhere to his banner. The mention of his name has aroused spontaneous enthusiasm and support in many sections of the country. His candidacy will continue to grow in strength as his services and character become more intimately known to the Democrats of the Nation."

LAVAL AND CABINET QUIT AFTER DEFEAT

result of the crisis, but his illness makes his position doubtful.

Laval's political power has been decreased in the last few months, since his return from his visit to President Hoover at Washington. The mission was successful, in the French viewpoint, but other factors have steadily increased the opposition in Parliament, which has been maneuvering carefully in preparation for the general elections this spring.

The left-wing senators clamored for dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies, but it was not believed that Doumer would accept the responsibility of such action without exhausting all chances of forming a new cabinet.

The left wing had been at war with Laval since he reformed his cabinet a few weeks ago, dropping the veteran foreign minister, Aristide Briand. Briand at present is resting preparatory to starting a Mediterranean trip, but the left wing may bring him back if they believe he can lead them to a majority by rallying support for Sarraut or Barthou.

Geneva, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—The fall of the French government caused a sensation among disarmament delegations at Geneva today and French War Minister Andre Tardieu announced he would leave tomorrow for Paris. Joseph Paul-Boncour will succeed him as head of the delegation.

Minister of Colonies Paul Renaud will accompany Tardieu, as will Gen. Fabry, the military expert. With the departure of Tardieu, the French delegation will be without any power to negotiate any agreements with other nations.

League circles did not believe the cabinet defeat would affect French participation in the conference otherwise, inasmuch as no question of armament policy was involved in the defeat. However, it may slow up the conference work.

Removal of Indian Official Is Asked

Hagerman Neglected Duty, Senate Subcommittee Charges After Quiz.

(Associated Press.)

Removal of Hebert J. Hagerman, of New Mexico, as special Indian commissioner, and abolishment of his office was recommended yesterday by a Senate Indian affairs subcommittee.

The committee inquired into charges of "neglect of duty and misconduct" by Hagerman as special commissioner to negotiate with Indians in New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, and Colorado. He also was questioned about his conduct as a former member of the Pueblo lands board.

The committee reported yesterday that Hagerman as a member of the Pueblo board "failed, neglected and refused to comply with the mandate of Congress * * * in that he failed, neglected and refused to find the fair market value and to award fair compensation to the Pueblos when ownership of land and water rights were extinguished."

HOUSE VOTES TO END LAME DUCK SESSION

States Will Be Asked to Give Approval to Change; Ends 10-Year Fight.

(Associated Press.)

Abolition of the much maligned "lame duck" session of Congress was overwhelmingly approved yesterday by the House, ending nearly ten years of dispute with the persistent Senate.

By a vote of 335 to 56, it adopted a resolution submitting the proposal to the States in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Three-fourths of the States must ratify within seven years to make the amendment effective.

Backed by the Democratic leadership, the measure encountered little of the opposition that blocked it during the years that the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth led the fight against it.

The proposed amendment would have a newly elected Congress take office on January 4, following the biennial November elections.

At present a new Congress convenes in regular meeting 13 months after election, while defeated members legislate until the lame duck session ends, by mandate of the Constitution, on March 4.

All sessions of Congress would be unlimited under the provision. The President and Vice-President would be inaugurated on January 24, instead of on March 4, as at present.

While the Senate resolution provides that Congress convene annually on January 2 and that the terms of the President and Vice President begin on January 15, its author, Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, is not opposed to the House dates. He has insisted only on two unlimited sessions to prevent filibustering.

Differences in the text must be worked out in conference and approved by both houses before the measure can be sent to the Secretary of State for distribution to the State Legislatures for ratification. Presidential approval is not necessary on proposed constitutional amendments.

A two-thirds majority vote was necessary for approval of the first basic change in the Constitution regarding Congress itself in 140 years.

Before final passage by the House, Representative Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, succeeded in having the resolution sent back to the elections committee for inclusion of an amendment to require States to ratify within seven years.

DEMOCRATS ASSAIL G. O. P. CREDIT CLAIM

Garner, Robinson and Dill Say Republicans Inactive in Economy Move.

(Associated Press).

Politics may be adjourned on emergency legislation, but the Democratic leadership in Congress sprang upon the Republican enemy yesterday in attacks that will resound in the presidential campaign.

Speaker Garner, after accusing the administration of talking a lot but doing nothing practical for Federal economy, disclosed a decision to set up a special committee to determine what bureaus and activities can be profitably restricted or eliminated.

While a resolution for that purpose was being introduced in the House, over in the Senate the party leader—Robinson of Arkansas—belabored Republican speakers whom he said have undertaken to "glorify" President Hoover because of the vital legislation that has had bipartisan support.

30 Years of Advocation.

Coincidentally also, Speaker Garner laid claim for the Democrats to credit for the Steagall-Glass bill to liberalize credit from Federal Reserve Banks. For 30 years they have advocated the principle, he contended, and it "has been opposed by the Republicans and present administration until they finally saw it was sound and that it was needed."

Seemingly the administration defenders were taken off guard by the three-forked assault. For weeks the leaders of both parties have been working side by side on legislation to ease credit and balance the budget, with a minimum of political flurry.

The cooperation is expected to go ahead, but just the same the political give-and-take probably will be spurred by onslaughts such as yesterday's and rejoinders likely to follow. The positions taken by Garner and Robinson hardly are such as are passed without notice.

"Appeal to Sympathy."

Referring to the Lincoln's birthday addresses by Republicans in various sections of the country, the Arkansas senator said they had in common a declaration that the President was being treated unjustly and an appeal to sympathy. Criticisms of the presidential course, he asserted, have come mainly "from adherents of the party to which he belongs."

Waving his arm toward Vice President Curtis, whose sister—Mrs. Dolly Gann—recently was out speaking for the administration, the Democratic leader cited reports of "a lady of national renown" having told the public "there is no such thing as a panic or depression, that it has all vanished before the magic wand of the President."

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, seconded the Robinson sentiments. He attacked the administration course as having helped not at all to counteract the economic situation.

Congress awaits a special message from the White House on Governmental reorganization. The President in December notified that it would be forthcoming, but there has been no announcement of just when.

Making no mention of that prospect, Speaker Garner declared "Mr. Hoover and his associates have been writing these about economy, but we are going to give them a practical demonstration of how it is done."

He conferred with Chairman Byrns, of the House appropriations committee, and Representative McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama, and later promised early consideration of the resolution for a special committee.

TUCKER ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS SEAT

To Seek Nomination in New Virginia District at August Primary.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Henry St. George Tucker, of Virginia, who was redistricted into the same constituency as Representative John W. Fishburne, announced yesterday he would seek the Democratic nomination in the new district in next August's primary.

From his office late yesterday this brief statement was made:

"Mr. Tucker has announced today that he will be a candidate for the nomination for Congress in the new Seventh District, and will in a few days issue a formal announcement to the people of the district."

Mr. Fishburne had no comment to make and it was indicated he had not determined whether he would oppose Mr. Tucker for the office.

Mr. Tucker consulted Mr. Fishburne before making the announcement, Mr. Fishburne informing the elder representative he was not ready to make a statement.

Last week after the General Assembly combined the major part of the Tenth District, including Mr. Tucker's home county, with Mr. Fishburne's entire district, the Seventh, Mr. Tucker issued a statement rejoicing that the Democratic character of the district had been preserved.

Three counties, Alleghany, Botetourt and Craig, were shifted from the Tenth to the Sixth District, which is represented by Clifton A. Woodrum, of Roanoke.

The new Seventh was created with ten counties each of the old Seventh and Tenth Districts. The ten counties of the old Seventh, which Mr. Fishburne is now representing, in 1930 had a population 16,000 greater than the ten counties of Mr. Tucker's constituency.

Mr. Tucker is the first Virginia member to announce for this year's nominations.

Only one of the Virginia delegation, Andrew J. Montague, of Richmond, has served as long in the House as Mr. Tucker.

BIMETALLIC LAW'S USE IS DEMANDED

Free Silver at 15.988 to 1 Urged as Parley Points to Statute.

Denver, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the statutory ratio of 15.988 to 1 was demanded at the closing session of the Western States silver conference today.

Reverberations from the silver campaigns of William Jennings Bryan sounded through the Colorado Senate chamber as speakers repeated historical remarks of the great Commoner in urging that the Government enforce the statute which "definitely commits this country to a bimetallic standard of money."

The conference empowered its committee on permanent organization to call a nonpartisan conference in Washington "in the event the present laws of the United States pertaining to bimetalism be not thus enforced within a reasonable time hereafter."

The resolution, enthusiastically adopted by the delegates from twelve States in attendance, cited title 31, section 311, and the following sections of the United States code as committing this country to bimetalliam.

Echoing remarks by numerous speakers, the resolution placed the blame for present economic conditions on the demonetization of silver, the insufficient supply of gold "necessary to liquidate the enormous amount of international, national, public and private indebtedness, at the same time carry on the ordinary flow of trade and commerce; the ease with which the limited gold supply of the world may be and now is concentrated by the United States and France; the extinguishment of the purchasing power of China, India and other silver-using or silver-producing countries and the want of a fluid and sufficient currency making possible the mass consumption of mass production."

Now You Can Own a Petro-Nokol Oil Burner

on a Public Service Plan!

Copyrighted 1932, Petroleum Heat & Power Co. All rights reserved.

for as little as

$9.65 A MONTH

Sponsored by the Petroleum Heat & Power Company... originators of automatic oil heat...together with one of the oldest, largest and strongest banking groups in this country and a major oil company of unlimited resources.

Here's how this Public Service Plan works with the average small house:

The latest model, fully automatic to burn cheaper fuel oil, is installed in your own heating plant and connected to whatever size oil storage tank you purchase. We take care of all service, repairs, new parts and labor for you for as long as five years.

Without the least inconvenience to you, or cooling off your house, the change-over from coal to oil can be made even in mid-winter. Our method of installation is such that you will be enjoying automatic oil heat two hours after our experts put out your coal fire.

Thirty days after your burner is installed and running you make the first of your monthly payments...as little as $9.65...nothing else to pay. You may take one, two, three or five years to complete your payments... then ... the burner is yours. That's all there is to it!

$9.65 a month pays for an oil burner installation in a small house. (Oil storage tanks may be purchased from $65.00 up.) This small monthly payment includes cost of service, repairs, new parts and labor on a Petro or Nokol Oil Burner for five years.

Monthly payments on burners for larger homes will run slightly more—$10.45... $11.13...$12.50...(depending upon requirements). All are approved by leading safety underwriters to burn low-cost fuel oil... which is cheaper today than ever before.

Be sure to see the new Petro Automatic Boiler which gives you the boiler and the burner built as one, beautiful, automatic, self-contained unit ... also sold on the National Public Service Plan.

THE DOLE DEFEATED.

About a year ago Congress went on a spree and passed a bill calling for the expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000 for the relief of former service men. The same forces that were behind that gigantic piece of extravagance have spent two weeks trying to get a dole bill for relief of the unemployed through the Senate. Last year they succeeded; this year they failed.

It is significant that common sense triumphed in the Senate yesterday. The representatives of the people have been sobered by a $2,000,000,000 deficit in the Federal Treasury which their own recklessness created. They now realize that the way to recovery is not profligate spending, but retrenchment and economy. Having disposed of the La Follette-Costigan bill and the Democratic substitute, the Senate may now go forward with constructive legislation designed to mobilize credit and balance the budget.

The foolishness of appropriating $750,000,000 to aid the States from a Treasury that has an enormous deficit is patent. It is a slander upon the States to assume that they have sunk to a point where they must accept Federal charity under bureaucratic regulations. Virtually every State in the Union has made provision for its unfortunate citizens. Even Pennsylvania, where relief work was delayed for months while Gov. Pinchot pleaded for a Federal hand-out, has now secured the essential legal sanction on the relief measure passed by a special session of its Legislature. Hardships have been common throughout the land. No class has escaped the pinch of depression. But the unemployed are being cared for, in the traditional American way.

Workingmen of the United States are to be congratulated in that they are pulling through this crisis without the demoralizing influence of a dole. If the Federal Treasury had been opened to relief agencies, under bureaucratic control, there would have been no end to the demands upon the Government. The first hand-out would have laid a precedent for further "relief" appropriations. Another bureaucratic octopus would have fastened its tentacles upon the throat of democratic government. The morale of millions of Americans who have been sacrificing to help their fellowmen would have been broken. The responsibility of the States would have been destroyed, and ultimate recovery would have been retarded.

The Senate has wasted valuable time on Mr. La Follette's balderdash. But it has demonstrated that a dole or a Federal hand-out can not be forced through the present Congress. This fact alone should give business and industry encouragement to go forward with constructive enterprises. The United States will not make the blunder that has plunged Europe into hopeless hard times. This country is fighting the depression in characteristic American fashion. If Congress holds firm to the course it has taken, America will emerge from this crisis without the lasting scars that have been inflicted upon many other economic systems by unwise legislation.

MILLS' TAX PLAN.

Secretary Mills found it necessary to recommend additional tax levies to the House ways and means committee because the previous estimates were found to be inadequate. It may be assumed, therefore, that the taxes which he now recommends were approved only because of the serious emergency with which the Treasury is confronted. They should be considered as temporary levies to last only while the budget is being balanced.

Foremost among Secretary Mills' recommendations is a tax on gasoline. Treasury officials have considered the gasoline tax as a potential source of revenue for some time. But they have refrained from recommending such a tax until now, because this field has been preempted by the States. Every State now levies a gasoline tax, ranging from 2 to 7 cents per gallon. In 1930 motorists paid nearly $500,000,000 in gasoline taxes, an increase of about 36,000 per cent in ten years. In some States the tax amounts to nearly half the price of gasoline.

For the Nation as a whole the gasoline tax is already exorbitant. Yet these levies are being increased by the States because they as well as the National Government are in need of additional revenue. Under the circumstances the wisdom of a Federal gasoline tax is highly questionable. Since the States are bearing the brunt of relief for the unemployed, Uncle Sam ought not to invade their taxing sphere unless it is absolutely necessary. Certainly the ways and means committee will be able to find a means of raising an additional $165,000,000 without entering this field.

The proposed tax on electricity and fuel gas is less objectionable. It would distribute the burden over a wide field of domestic consumers and industries. A tax on fuel is never desirable, but the urgency of balancing the budget justifies emergency levies.

Corporations, too, must share responsibility of this situation. Higher corporate income taxes are justified on the ground that business will profit from a balancing of the budget even though higher taxes must be paid for that purpose.

By recommending a gradual increase in the proposed surtax rates Secretary Mills manifests a dispositoin to divide the additional burden as equitably as possible. In an emergency like the present all classes must contribute to relief of the Treasury in proportion to their means. The Government must tap every available source of income. The more widely distributed the tax, the less it will be felt. With a wide range of commodities that could be made to yield adequate funds Congress ought not to jeopardize the revenue of the States by pyramiding taxes on gasoline.

PASS THE BANKING BILL.

With remarkable dispatch the House yielded to the unanimous demand of the Nation for more liquid credit facilities. After three hours of debate, during which only fanatics and a few implacable foes of the administration rose to register their opposition, the banking bill inspired by President Hoover was adopted under suspended rules by an overwhelming majority. The House has made a remarkable contribution to economic recovery.

The spirit in which this measure is being considered is as encouraging as the provisions of the bill itself. The idea back of this credit-loosening plan came directly from the White House. Nevertheless, the bill was introduced by Senator Glass and Representative Steagall, both Democrats. In its consideration partisanship has virtually faded from the picture. The general attitude was voiced by Representative Strong in the debate on the House floor in these words:

> My friends, I do not appeal to you as Democrats or Republicans. I want to appeal to you as representatives of the great American people to go along and pass this bill, and let us try to get out of the condition we have been in. Do not say that a Republican proposed it or that a Democrat favored it. Let us say the American Congress, composed of representatives of the people, passed this legislation in order to dispel fear and restore confidence and to bring about the prosperity we all so much desire.

Throughout the country the measure has evoked a new feeling of confidence. The immediate response of the House to the national will is certain to strengthen that confidence. If the Senate will do its part a powerful new weapon against the vicious forces of depression will be placed in the hands of the people. The country is anxiously awaiting to see if the Senate is as apprehensive of the country's economic welfare as is the lower chamber.

Only one contingency may imperil the credit expansion bill in its journey through the Senate. As passed by the House the measure would allow any single member bank to go to the Federal Reserve system for credit in an emergency. Senator Glass has secured an amendment to the bill approved by the Senate banking and currency committee limiting that privilege to banks having a capital of $500,000 or less.

Efforts are being made to eliminate this amendment because it allows only partial relief. More than 465 banks in 187 cities in all parts of the country would be excluded from the benefits of this provision under the Senate bill as it now stands. The Glass amendment must be considered class legislation. It would set up an important remedy and deny its use to many institutions that may be desperately in need of it.

It is to be hoped that this difficulty can be ironed out without provoking a fight on the Senate floor. A Senate row would throw cold water on the enthusiasm that has been aroused. This measure ought to constitute a mortal blow to the depression struck by a united Congress. Each group can make a notable contribution to the general welfare by withholding petty amendments and obstructive criticism. Let the bill pass!

LARGE-SCALE PLANNING.

A 50-year plan of regional development has just been completed after 4 years of study, dealing with an area 4,555 square miles in extent in southeastern Pennsylvania and including portions of the adjoining States of Delaware and New Jersey, a territory nearly twice the size of Delaware. The scheme, in brief, is to develop desirable living and working conditions in this tristate district.

More than 200 engineers and architects have been at work studying and planning the improvements, some to be inaugurated at once and others to be developed gradually during future decades. The completed report is now ready for presentation to the Tristate Regional Planning Federation, which meets in Philadelphia.

Regional planning, it is explained, is a means through which the people in a district may insure desirable living and working conditions for the present and future generations. It aims to establish a social and economic order that will preserve the integrity of the region, so that it will always be a cheerful and attractive place for both practical endeavor and the diversions of life.

The major physical facilities to be provided or improved under the comprehensive, long-term plan include highways, railways, airports, ports and waterways. Telegraph, telephone and radio communication, power and light, sanitation and water supply, parkways and recreational areas all come in for consideration with plans for improvement. The Regional Federation is collaborating with all communities that now have such local plans under way, but also has brought about an over-all plan focusing attention on the more general regional needs.

Of fundamental importance in carrying out its broad plans the federation considers the "preservation of the existing and potential desirable business, industrial, residential and agricultural areas and the comprehensive planning and orderly arrangement of all the major physical facilities necessary to the best interests of the social and economic life of the people living in the independent communities that compose the region." Some of the plans are of such a nature that, if provided as needed, they will pay for themselves and become valuable assets to the community.

AMERICA AND JAPAN

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

III.

In two previous articles we concluded that the relative fighting strength of the navies of America and Japan in capital ships, aircraft carriers and cruisers could be expressed by the following tonnages: United States, 605,400; Japan, 489,985.

Now we come to a very difficult problem: the destroyers. The age limit set by the London Treaty for this type was twelve years. As a great number of our destroyers are just over this limit, it would not paint a true picture to exclude them altogether from consideration. However, we have excluded all destroyers sixteen or more years old. Such vessels, of which we have a large number, are of practically no value and we eliminate them ruthlessly.

This brings us down to 241,290 tons of destroyers for the United States and 121,095 for Japan. A proper evaluation of the American tonnage is most difficult. Our newest destroyer is ten years old. All are of a design about fifteen years old. They were laid down and built in great haste during and immediately after the war. Quantity, not quality, was the watchword. Anything which could be used against the submarines was good enough. In many cases the contractors had never before built naval vessels. Much of the material built into the ships was of inferior quality. Since completion over half of these destroyers have been laid up without crews. Few, if any, alterations have been made on these boats to keep them up to date. Many of the poorest destroyers have been partly stripped of equipment to replace that worn out in operating vessels. As over half of the destroyers are now without crews it would take from one to four months to recommission them in an emergency and their material condition would be poor for a much longer period. It will be seen that our destroyers are far less effective for war purposes than the large tonnage total might indicate.

The oldest 40,000 tons of Japanese destroyers are equal in design and construction to our best boats. The remaining two-thirds of their destroyers are new, of excellent design and construction, very large, fast and powerful with both gun and torpedo. We consider our destroyers, ton for ton, 40 per cent less effective than the Japanese. This reduces our tonnage total to 144,775 to give a true comparison with the 121,095 tons of Japanese destroyers.

In 1932 we will have 67,000 tons of submarines. Japan will have 77,842. Only seven of our submarines can be classed as modern boats, but these are large and very effective. The remainder are from seven to fourteen years old. All of these are of the World War design. Most of them were built during the war. Their design is generally good, but in many cases their construction was poor. A large number of them have been laid up without crews. In fact, some were at one time listed for disposal—so small was our idea of their value. It would take three to six months before many of our submarines could be made really effective for war purposes.

All the Japanese submarines are within the London Treaty age limit of thirteen years. The building program has been well distributed over the postwar period. This allows progressive development of design and insures highest possible efficiency in construction. Japan's submarines should be uniformly excellent and all information available tends to confirm this opinion.

We might compare the two submarine flotillas in this way: Japan's newest 17,000 tons are equal to our similar tonnage of new submarines. Japan's oldest 20,000 tons of submarines are equal to a similar tonnage of our best S-boats. But then the 40,000 tons of intermediate Japanese submarines are immensely superior to our remaining S-boats and the old R and O boats. We believe that our submarines, ton for ton, are 25 per cent less efficient than the Japanese. This reduces our submarine tonnage to 50,250 as compared with 77,842 for Japan.

The results of our study may, therefore, be summarized as follows:

	America	Japan
Capital ships	364,500	231,260
Aircraft carriers	77,500	68,870
Cruisers	163,400	189,855
Destroyers	144,775	121,095
Submarines	50,250	77,842
Totals	800,425	688,922

The ratio of effectiveness of combatant ships is: America, 10; Japan, 8.6.

POST HASTE.

At least among our other troubles the Senate has saved us from an attack of the dole-drums.

"Ambassador Debuchi reiterated Japan's pacific intentions in the Shanghai region." Curiously the double meaning of debouche in French is "an opening in military works for troops; a market for goods."

Republicans and Democrats are agreeing so well these days that, with both parties so divided on the prohibition question, they might well decide to eliminate this nonpolitical question from the campaign.

It certainly will be a most remarkable exception, if, in the midst of the general acclaim, a couple of members of Congress do not attempt to grab the spotlight by saying something derogatory about Judge Cardozo.

For every one of the fifteen representatives who voted against the Federal reserve credit relief bill there were 23 favorable votes. Check those fifteen backwards and watch them in the future. Sure thing, LaGuardia, McFadden and Patman are among them.

Last year was not so good for American farmers, but they helped business to the extent of buying $400,000,000 worth of new equipment.

The Paris press is unusually wrought up over the statement of Lloyd George that "France is the most powerful military state and is blocking the disarmament of other nations." What is it that hurts most?

Former Minister Quesada is accused by the President of Costa Rica of starting a revolution even before the result of the election is positively known. That is not even Central American cricket.

The League of Nations has conceived a novel and timely idea; it is going to suggest to Japan that she cease hostilities.

Speaker Garner can point to a Woodrow Wilson precedent if he finds it necessary to request certain publicists not to be so active in his behalf.

Wall street has had such a bad case of the dumps it needs a new dose of cheer every week, so Mr. Knox must get ready a good antihoarding report.

If Congress keeps up this lick on the 10,000 bills that have been introduced, laws are going to be the first thing to get back to mass production.

THE WISE OR THE KIND ACT.

He had been fooled so many times
He thought to closer watch his dimes.
It bothered him at night to think
Sometimes his money went for drink
And those who begged for meat and bread
Weren't all as hungry as they said.
Henceforth for every kindly deed
He'd first investigate the need.

Upon the next who asked for bread
He coldly stared and shook his head,
And then was troubled all day long
By wondering was he right or wrong
And wishing, wrong or right, that he
Had hearkened to the poor man's plea.
Said he: "Since proof must be deferred,
One should take hunger at its word.

"He treads a dubious path who tries
At once to be both kind and wise;
For children cold and weak and ill
Can't always bide their time until
Some calm committee person comes
To count their fingers, toes and thumbs.
And hungry men can't always wait
Till donors shrewd investigate."

Killing the Wolf Won't Bring Back the Sheep It Has Devoured.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE curse of a republic is politics.

Politics is a trade, and those who engage in it have no greater concern than that of holding their jobs.

Politicians are neither better nor worse than other men. Like men in other occupations, they do and say the things that seem necessary to protect their living.

That fact explains the ordinary office holder's indifference to the dangers that threaten his country. It explains why the coming of war invariably finds America unprepared.

Presidents, senators and representatives, almost without exception, concern themselves with matters relatively unimportant and neglect the vital business of protecting the Nation because neither votes nor prestige can be gained in time of peace by clamoring for armament.

We are exposed to the danger of sudden attack and all the horror of modern warfare because our public servants play politics to win and hold the support of thoughtless and thus sacrifice the Nation to their own petty fortunes.

All informed men in and out of office know that the next war will be fought from the air. Pilotless planes controlled by radio will drop poison gas and high explosives on defenseless cities. There will be no noncombatants. There will be no safety except in the open fields.

Perhaps America will win. But not until her great cities are destroyed—not until the accumulated wealth of generations is gone—not until stocks and bonds and life insurance policies are worthless—not until millions of men women and children are destroyed and other millions blinded and maimed.

To win is not enough. What is tardy victory worth to the dead, the broken and the bankrupt?

There must be no war.

There must be a guarantee of peace.

Treaties are worthless. All experience has shown that treaties are mere scraps of paper when nations are bent on destruction.

The only guarantee of peace is strength. Nobody strikes the man who has a gun in his hand.

America must have such powers of self-defense that none will dare attack her.

America must have such powers of self-defense that none will dare attack her.

Public officials who refuse or fail to provide adequate protection are inviting warfare. Theirs will be the fault when war comes. For they can provide the armament to make America safe if they will.

Boards, Bureaus and Commissions.

Kansas City Star.

Senator Glenn, of Illinois, has the courage to state frankly that he will launch a determined fight on Government boards, bureaus, commissions and allied agencies when appropriation bills reach his branch of Congress. Senator Glenn is fully aware of the giant task he is undertaking, and therefore appeals for public support. He notes that when it comes to boards, bureaus and commissions, the Government at Washington is not the only offender; it is not alone that agency of Government that has demanded, from year to year, increasing amounts of tax money for these appendages of public administration. The States and other governmental units of a more local nature have had to have their boards, bureaus and commissions, too. What government would be without them nobody knows or has had a chance to know.

Tammany's Divided Status.

Kansas City Times.

With the approach of the Democratic national convention, Tammany is in a trying position. Its tradition of loyalty to candidates is established, and its firm allegiance is unquestioned. But Tammany is reported "split three ways" as to whom it shall support. There is Mr. Smith, to whom it plainly owes something; Mr. Roosevelt, to whom it owes more than it probably realizes, and Mr. Walker, in whose debt it clearly stands. Where Mr. Walker will throw his support is not settled. In such a predicament Tammany itself is unsettled. There seems to be but one way out, which really leads within. It is for Tammany to remain quiet and stand neutral until the skies have cleared. That should be easy for it, in view of its traditions and the like.

Andrew Mellon's New Post.

Bridgeport Times-Star.

If Andrew Mellon does one-half as good a job as our ambassador at the Court of St. James as he did as Secretary of the Treasury under three Presidents, his countrymen will have no cause to regret his retirement after eleven years of distinguished service, as chief of our Federal fiscal department. Wonder is that he did not relinquish those arduous duties before now. Patient under attack, far-seeing in the field in which he was one of the world's outstanding experts, there was something about him that linked his personality and his achievments with the statesmen of the old school—the men who labored in and out of season to keep America in the forefront in the ever recurring struggle for ascendency among the nations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Should Government Relax Enforcement of Prohibition to Accommodate Its Opponents?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The charge is frequently made by the antiprohibitionists that the eighteenth amendment creates more crime than it cures. We are surfeited with reminders of the bootleggers, the speakeasies, the racketeers and the rest of the brood of evildoers following in the train of prohibition. We are told that our courts are crowded and our jails jammed with the new brood of lawbreakers. Statistics of arrests for drunkenness and the newly created crime are quoted, calculated to appall the temperance advocates and to convince them that all of their efforts are in vain.

Crime is a violation of law. If there were no law, there would be no crime. Every new law brings forth a new set of lawbreakers. Slave trading was not a crime until the enactment of the Constitution forbade the continuance of the iniquitous trade, after a specified time. Traffic in slaves was lawful until 1808, but became criminal in 1809. The anti-fugitive slave law made a crime out of a humane performance which met the approval of the clearest conscience of the age and generation. The enactment of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments brought forth the Ku Klux Klan intent upon their undoing. Every new tariff act is accompanied by a new set of smugglers and lawbreakers.

The apparent increase of crime under the eighteenth amendment is doubtless due to the more serious and efficient attempt at rigid enforcement. There are nowadays no recorded crime committed by violators of the fifteenth amendment because the National Government winks at its violation. Forty million dollars is devoted to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, while not 40 mills is spent on the fifteenth. It is not so much that crime against prohibition is increasing as that violation of the law is being followed up and prosecuted with greater vigor and determination.

The wets would have the world believe that such forms of lawlessness as bootlegging and the speakeasy were unheard of before the enactment of the eighteenth amendment. As a matter of fact, the speakeasy and the moonshiner flourished under high license, and probably would flourish to a greater or less degree under any method that might be devised to control the liquor evil by law.

Must the Nation desist from the enforcement of righteous law to accommodate profiteers of its violation? Or should the Government persist in its rigid enforcement until the violators realize the futility of resisting the will of the people as embodied in the organic law?

Virginian Cites One Prediction and Makes Another as to Mr. Hoover.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On December 9, 1927, I wrote a letter to the Hon. Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, now President of the United States. Here is an extract from that letter: "I have watched the unfolding of your life and character with increasing interest and admiration. I believe that He who controls the destinies of men now as in the past, when the time demands it, clearly and distinctly calls the one of His own choosing for the achievement of a great and specific task. Will you pardon me when I say that it is my firm conviction that your task lies just ahead of you? God's providential dealings with you in the past mark you as a man of destiny. The eyes of your countrymen are upon you, and I confidently predict that in 1928 you will be unanimously nominated for the Presidency by the Republican national convention at Kansas City, and by the help of your admirers—tens of thousands of them—in the South, together with your tremendous vote in the North and West, you will be overwhelmingly elected as our next President."

This prediction was literally fulfilled, and I make the same prediction for 1932. I believe that President Hoover's task is not completed, and will not be in a single term, and that God will hold him in his place until his work is done.

Raleigh Man Gives Glimpse of Senatorial Contest in North Carolina.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The campaign for United States senator will soon keep the press and radio busy. We must choose between Senator Cameron Morrison, Frank Grist, ex-soldier; Bob Reynolds, the wet candidate, and Tam Bowie, well known lawyer.

Soldier Grist and "Barleycorn" Bob are not allowing any grass to grow under their feet. Senator "Cam" was at the outset the star upon which political eyes were fixed, but the tide is turning fast, and should Senator Morrison fail to reinforce with some expert fence builders, he will certainly be a much disappointed candidate when the vote is counted. The Democrats who opposed the McNinch confirmation along with the political enemies a governor naturally makes, coupled with the present kind of prohibition, are rapidly lining up to give the worthy senator the fight of his life.

Tam Bowie will get his share of the votes in the coming primary, as many of the key political lawyers over the State are working for him.

It is said that ex-service men and the unemployed in North Carolina are for Soldier Grist. If so, he will get more votes than all of his opponents. The time for action is here.

PEIRCE RESIGNATION STIRS SPECULATION

Effect of Move on Control of Gas Companies Being Discussed.

The resignation of Col. Albert E. Peirce from the board of directors of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. yesterday afternoon aroused some speculation in local utility circles as to what effect it will have on the control heretofore exercised over the companies by the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago.

No official explanation as to this matter could be obtained from either local officials or from Arthur Dean, counsel representing Chase, Harris, Forbes & Co., of New York. George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington companies, likewise declined to amplify on the brief announcement issued to the press.

The resignation, whether a strategic move or not, will not prevent the filing of the suit against the Public Service Corporation for violation of the La Follette antimerger act by the District Commissioners in behalf of the Public Utilities Commission. William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, intends to institute the proceedings in the District Supreme Court within the next few days.

Rate Hearing Opens Today.

Just now the commission is more interested in the question of consumer rates than in the control of the two gas companies, as a public hearing will open at 10 o'clock this morning on the schedules proposed the first of this month by the companies. The new rates would reduce the gas bills of Washingtonians $211,000 for the year on the basis of last year's consumption.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech has prepared some counter-proposals and will seek to have a larger share of the reduction devoted to the average domestic consumer's account and less to the larger household user and the wholesale customers. The gas company suggested applying only $100,000 of the $211,000 to the domestic schedules and proposed cutting the average consumer's bill by about only 5 cents a month.

The directorship vacated by Col. Peirce was not filled by the board when it accepted the resignation, according to the official announcement. The choice of his successor probably will provide a key to the present control of the gas companies.

Held Anxious to Sell.

For several months, or ever since the gas hearings last fall, it has been rumored that the Central Public Service Corporatoin was willing, and even anxious, to get rid of its holdings in the Washington Gas Light Co. of the Washington & Suburban Co., the intermediary. But, because of the national financial state, the Chicago utility found it about as hard to sell as to acquire their stock, at least for the price asked.

According to evidence introduced at the hearing last fall, Col. Peirce through the Westfield Trust controlled about 84 per cent of the stock of the two Washington gas companies. The Central Public Service Corporation, of which Col. Peirce is the president, was shown to be exercising a direct control of the management and policies of the concerns.

Chase, Harris, Forbes & Co., then Harris, Forbes & Co., acquired control of the Washington companies two years ago and then formed the Seaboard Investment Trust to hold the property. This common law trust was distributed among five banking houses to avoid technical violation of the La Follette law, and won a suit filed by the District Commissioners.

Gas in Metals Presenting New Problem for Science

Mining Institute Told of Savants' Attack on Trouble.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Gas is getting to be one of the unwelcome substances in metals.

Strange as it seems, there is always gas in cold, hard metals, but it has been only recently that this impurity has caused trouble.

Refinement of the uses of metals, and employment of some which until recently were rare in commerce, now demands that the invisible gas pockets be removed.

One of the new degassing processes was explained to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers today by Dr. E. I. Norton and Dr. A. L. Marshall, of the General Electric Co. The metal is molybdenum. Its gas is a compound of 43 per cent carbon monoxide and 57 per cent nitrogen.

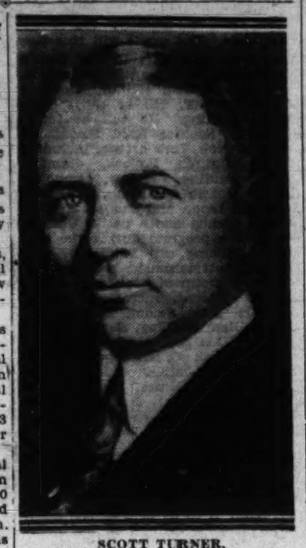
The amounts are too infinitesimal to be poisonous. The molybdenum is baked at a temperature of 3,200 degrees Fahrenheit, about one-third the heat of the surface of the sun. While it is hot a vacuum pump is used to suck out the embedded gases.

From a small strip of molybdenum the extracted gas when gathered together was a speck about the size of an eighth of a pinhead and one hundred millionths of an ounce in weight. This purification was necessary to render the molybdenum fit for photoelectric tubes.

Information about pitchblende deposits, containing precious radium, in the Great Bear Lake region of northern Canada, was given by Hugh S. Spence, of the Canadian department of mines.

He said they are believed to be "the most extensive and important deposits of the mineral known." Samples of the ore, technically called uraninite, have shown deposits equivalent to from 73 to 161 milligrams of radium per ton, he said.

In certain sections the pitchblende is associated with extremely rich silver ore, he said, which has shown as high as 8,965 ounces of silver to the ton, worth about $3,000 per ton even at present low prices.



SCOTT TURNER.

Great Bear Lake, more than 1,200 square miles in area, is 800 miles from a railroad.

Scott Turner, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, is the new president of the institute, it was announced, following tabulation of mail ballots by 9,000 members. He succeeds Robert E. Tally, of New York and Arizona.

Turner was born in Lansing, Mich., was graduated from the University of Michigan and has been to all parts of the world in a professional capacity. He is a Lusitania survivor and was a lieutenant in the Navy in the World War.

Other officers are H. N. Eavenson, Pittsburgh, Pa., and H. A. Guess, New York, vice presidents; Louis S. Cates, Karl Ellers, S. R. Elliott, H. G. Moulton, and William Wraith, directors.

CONGRESS BODY MOVES TO CUT TELEPHONE RATES IN CAPITAL

use of taximeters, Representative Holaday accused the body of "not taking the public into consideration at all" in its order.

Members charged that "big taxicab companies" are attempting to force the independent operators out of business via the meter route. They pointed out that the zone system provides employment for many who would not otherwise find work, and give the general public the best taxicab service it has known in its history.

Gen. Patrick admitted that Washington has "the cheapest and best" taxicab service in the country. On the other hand he declared drivers are forced to work unreasonable hours in order to make a living wage, and that some independents complained they are not making enough to pay for their cabs. The Public Utilities Commission chairman insisted the commission issued the meter order on its own motion, after a number of complaints had come to its attention.

Cited Numerous Overcharges.

Members cited numerous instances of overcharging on the meter basis. They advised Gen. Patrick he should look at the matter from the standpoint of the public. It was pointed out that Congress, if necessary, could pass a bill removing taxicabs from the jurisdiction of the commission, and thus nullify any order the commission might issue.

Representative Blanton led the fight on the alleged "monopolies" held by some cab companies at Union Station and some hotels. Following the meeting he made known he is considering drafting a bill that would put an end to concession rights.

Representative Holaday said he thought the matter might be taken care of through police enforcement of existing laws. He plans to ask Maj. Gen Pelham D. Glassford today if many complaints growing out of taxicab concessions can not be remedied by police regulation. Commissioner Herbert Crosby was questioned yesterday on this point, and agreed that police might remedy certain abuses, such as parking double beside a stand to prevent "outside" cabs from gaining access.

Buses Notified to Move.

Gen. Patrick informed the committee that all interstate buses have been advised they must park their buses at private stands or at their own stations by April 1.

Representative Blanton accused the commission of proceeding too slowly in the matter of reducing fares for school children in the District. Whereas members had contended a court injunction might be issued against them if they took that step, Representative Blanton said a 3-cent fare, by act of Congress, had been in force since 1930, and no injunction had been forthcoming.

Gen. Patrick was questioned concerning the $6,000 retirement pay he is receiving from the Army in addition to the $7,500 he is getting for his services to the District. Members pointed out that many members of the District administration are thus drawing "double pay" by reason of former Army service.

Will Urge Teachers' Transfers.

Representative Holaday reiterated last night that he will press for transfer of more teachers from special to classroom work, when that feature of the public school budget comes up. Members discount reports that the teachers' staff will be reduced in line with the House rule forbidding filling of vacancies without executive orders. Representative Holaday expressed the view that most of the new teaching assignments can be proven "essential." It is his idea, however, that instead of employing all new teachers, some of the vacancies can be filled from special teaching staffs.

After yesterday's postponement of consideration of the school budget, it appeared likely that school items will not be reached again for more than a week.

NEW MEXICO TOWNS MENACED BY FAMINE

ter. A blizzard has raged on this pass for the last eight days.

In the region of Durango, dispatches said live stock losses for the winter will be more than $1,000,000. Some concern was expressed from Durango over food supplies at Silverton, about 30 miles west of there. It will be about 30 days before the Durango-Silverton line of the D. & R. G. W. is opened. The Pagosa Springs line of that road also is closed.

Southern California Hit By Rain, Snow and Hail

Los Angeles, Feb. 16 ((A.P.).—Storm clouds sprayed rain, snow and hail over southern California today, driving seasonal precipitation totals to record levels.

In the mountains snow was falling heavily. Three inches was reported at Banning, the heaviest in 20 years. Sections of Los Angeles and Santa Monica were struck by hail, although no damage resulted.

Death Valley's Developer Dies.

Los Angeles, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—H. W. Eichbaum, 48, who turned Death Valley from an isolated death trap into a playground for tourists, died here today from spinal meningitis. He constructed the first road into the sandy waste through the desolate mountains that hem it in on every side.

Nine Rescued off Seaplane.

Rome, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Seven passengers and two pilots were rescued from a twin-motored Italian seaplane 50 miles off Malta today by the British destroyer Brilliant. The plane and its occupants were taken to Malta by the destroyer.

It was explained that the seaplane had come down in the ocean to repair a motor. This was done with little difficulty but the ship was unable to take off because of the heavy sea.

ALEXANDRIA PUPILS ENTER ESSAY TEST

night on March 14 the contest will close and no more essays will be received. It is hoped by that time, however, that the bulk of the essays will be in hand in order that they may be sorted into age groups and submitted to the judges as soon as possible after the contest closes.

Every essay turned in before March 14 will mean that the announcement of the prize winners can be made sooner. Any contestant who has finished his essay is urged to turn it in, provided it is the very best that he can do.

The Post Essay Contest editor is much pleased with the attractiveness of many of the essays turned in. Some are adorned with colored pictures illustrating various periods in the life of Washington, and others are in covers cut into fancy shapes. This, of course, will not decide the contest, for the winners will be selected upon the literary merit, the historical accuracy and the general originality of the subject matter of the essays.

Yet such attention to the appearance of the essays means that those who are making the entries are determined to put the very best effort possible into their presentation.

Among the essays entered yesterday were those from Lorraine Kalman, 11, 645 Lamont street northwest; Rena Curewitz, 14, 3214 Thirty-eighth street northwest; Eleanor Stewart, 13, 82 Preston street, Cherrydale, Va.; Ellen Beatty, 14, Savage, Md.; Anna Beall, 12, Olney, Md.; Phyllis Moore, 12, Cherrydale, Va.; Ann Parson, 10, 909 East Capitol street; Rudolph Dagen, 10, 9420 Jones Mills road, Chevy Chase, Md.; Aaron Thompson, 16, 808 L street southeast; Roberta Hall, 13, 226 East Randolph avenue, Alexandria, Va.; George Edward Bloodgood, 15, 1729 Benning road northeast.

Among the applications for booklets received yesterday were those from Errol L. Essex, 6712 Summit avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.; Mary Elizabeth Lyons, 6216 Eighth street northwest; Jane Joseph Desmond, 31 N street northwest; Stephen Ackerman, 15 M street northwest; Elealne A. Essex, 6712 Summit avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.; Joseph L. Benkovio, 506 South Second street, Steelton, Pa.; Packard Dow, 6405 Ridgewood avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.; George Potest, 1612 Twentieth street northwest; Talmadge O. Miller, 306 Pearl street, Shamokin, Pa.; Gordon Calvert, 737 Butternut street northwest; Paul Miller, Kensington, Md.; Marion Polick, Seat Pleasant, Md.

Rail Expenditures Unchanged.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railways will spend approximately as much for maintenance this year as last, their presidents said today. The total will be from $45,000,000 to $50,000,000 with each spending about half.

HEAVENS PLAY PART IN MASQUE OF FETE

"Wakefield" to Have Dances Based on Theme of Astrology.

The stars in the heavens which, according to astrologists, guided the destiny of George Washington, play an important part in the masque "Wakefield," by Percy MacKaye, which will have its premiere performance Sunday night at Constitution Hall.

Prominent in the leading characters in the play are Orion, done by Maurice Jarvis, and Cassiopeia, played by Mrs. John Otto Johnson. In certain scenes the satellites of the two constellations are suggested by intricate dances and groupings done by the Carolyn McKinley dancers.

This group of dancers, which Washingtonians have seen in local performances of importance for several years, has been augmented by additional dancers from other groups in the city. The creative genius of Carolyn McKinley, the head of this organization, has been called to play in designing and executing the costumes for the groups under her direction in the Carolyn McKinley studio on I street.

Groups Costumed In Colors.

Chiffons and other sheer fabrics have been dipped and dyed until they have taken on the exact shades which Miss McKinley feels are necessary to interpret correctly the Star dancers and Drift dancers. Miss McKinley has costumed her groups in colors reflecting the hues of the floating purple robes of Cassiopeia and the iridescent blue and gold for Orion. The Drift group is seen in foggy grays and blues, and yellows. It is in this episode that the Vassals of Drift appear wearing the much talked of masks which were created by Henry Wadsworth Moore, who also designed the scenery used in the production.

The Carolyn McKinley dancing group with additional members, appear too in the Shadows of Log-Fire Wonder.

The members of the Shakespearean Society are seen in the minuet, and the Uncle Remus episode, in which appear the characters of Br'er Fox, Br'er Rabbit and other animals, done by the boys of Avondale Country School at Laurel, Md. This group includes the grandchildren of Senator Reed Smoot and other children of prominent families.

Personnel of Dancers.

Members of the Carolyn McKinley Dancers are Judy Lyeth, Betty Sleeper, Helen Foley, Virginia Alexander, Sandy Alexander, Jean Craighead and Ellen Zirkle.

In the vassals of drift are the McKinley Dancers and also Robert Claflin, Helen Griffith, William Heape, Alberta Smith and Gwendolin Tonahill.

The first dress rehearsal will be held tomorrow night at Constitution Hall, when the entire cast will rehearse for the first time with Margaret Anglin, who will play the leading role, "Wakefield." The cast comprises nearly 1,000 persons, including dance groups and choruses.

The production is under the joint sponsorship of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission. Percy Burrell, pageant director for the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, and Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest are general directors, assisted by Miss Bess Davis Schreiner and Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, who are codirectors of personnel.

Harned to Direct Singers.

Dr. Albert Harned, of the National Capital Choir, augmented to 200 singers, supplies the main choruses.

Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins Sullivan has designed and executed the costumes for the entire production with the exception of the Carolyn McKinley Dancers, whose costumes have been made in the McKinley studio under the direction of Carolyn McKinley.

Tickets for "Wakefield" may be obtained at Mrs. Wilson Greene's ticket bureau at E. F. Droop & Sons Co., 1300 G street northwest.

CARDOZO PREPARES FOR JUSTICE POST

Noted New York Judge Shies at Praise on Nomination to Highest Court.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Rising slowly from his seat and glancing quickly around the soft-lighted, brown-paneled chamber, Chief Judge Benjamin Nathan Cardozo gathered his black robes about him and stepped down from the bench of the New York Court of Appeals, after eighteen years of service, to step up to the ambition of all lawyers—service in the Supreme Court of the United States.

For fifteen years Judge Cardozo has sat in the old statehouse interpreting the laws of his native State in the "singing prose" that has merited distinction wherever gather members of the American bar. The first three years of his judgeship were spent in the capitol, before the statehouse was completed into quarters for the State's court of last resort.

"Yes, it is hard to leave such pleasant surroundings, but I feel honored to be nominated to the Supreme Court," said the white-haired, 62-year-old jurist in an interview, the only one granted since President Hoover sent his name to the United States Senate.

Court Takes Recess.

The Court of Appeals recessed today until March 14. The indications are that his name will be confirmed before the court resumes its hearings. He will meet again with his six colleagues, but not in public. They will assemble in conference to determine opinions on cases already heard.

The bachelor judge has led an almost hermit-like existence. From 8 in the morning until after 7 at night, when the court was in session, Judge Cardozo has been occupied with the law. The court judges lunch and dine together. Judge Cardozo lives at a hotel. That has been his Albany home for thirteen years.

"There is not anything very interesting about me," he said in the same calm voice that thousands of New York lawyers have heard from the bench. "I hope I shall not lose my sense of humor over all this attention," and his dark eyes twinkled out through rimless glasses. His hair is white and drops down across his high forehead like the tousled shock of so many little boys. He is slender and looks the scholar he is.

Few Washington Acquaintances.

"No, I don't know President Hoover," he said. "I have met him once, but he wouldn't know me if he passed me. I would know him from his pictures."

Judge Cardozo is not well acquainted in Washington. He knows Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Stone and Roberts, of the Supreme Court, and he has known and "admired very, very much" former Justice Holmes, whose place he will take.

The judge went down to New York City today—his home town, and well beloved by him. He was born there and lived there with his parents, and afterward with a sister. All now are dead. Judge Cardoza is the only one of his family left.

COSTA RICAN REVOLT REPORTED PUT DOWN

But Rebels Are Not Ousted; U. S. Envoy Offers Aid in Mediating.

Panama City, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—American Minister Charles C. Eberhardt was reported in dispatches from San Jose today to be offering his good offices to mediate the rebellion in Costa Rica.

Two loyal supporters of President Gonzales Viquez's government had been killed and eight wounded in the uprising, led by a defeated candidate in Sunday's presidential election, said the messages received here. (Another dispatch said four had been killed.)

Many persons were wounded in the streets of San Jose, the capital, where much of the shooting took place around the Bellavista Barracks, almost directly opposite the American Legation. At least one of those wounded was a woman.

2,500 Men Under Arms.

The government had 2,500 men under arms, in contrast with its standing army limited to 500 under a Central American treaty.

Although earlier dispatches said the government had suppressed the movement, business was at a standstill, communications were interrupted, and the rebels apparently were not completely dislodged from their strongholds.

President Gonzales told the newspaper La Tribuna that the only settlement possible was the surrender of the rebels.

The principal rebel stronghold was the Bellavista barracks. The loyal troops occupied the Liceo Costa Rica, an academy, the national liquor factory and the customs house.

Many Prisoners Taken.

Loyalist forces attacked and captured the Pacific Railways, which had been seized by the insurgents, taking many prisoners. A protracted exchange of gunfire resulted and many were wounded in the streets of San Jose, the capital.

Ricardo Jimenez, who was elected president Sunday on the basis of unofficial returns, said he would not renounce his office because he wished to avoid legalizing what he called military treachery.

One unsuccessful candidate for the presidency, Jimenez Ortiz, proposed that retiring President Gonzales Viquez appoint a committee of five representing the government and the four presidential nominees to select a chief executive who would have the confidence of the country.

Fairbanks Sails Today For South Sea Film

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Maria Alba, Spanish film actress, today was selected by Douglas Fairbanks as his leading lady in a new picture to be made in the South Sea Islands.

The star and his party, including Edward Sutherland, director; William Farnum, actor; Tom Geraghty, writer, and Mrs. Aileen Bauer, and Miss Alba, will leave tonight for San Francisco. They will sail tomorrow for Tahiti.

have made loans in this country and particularly upon Haiti.

Mr. Stimson's letter said Mr. Leger's testimony failed to show he was concerned with this phase of the matter.

The Secretary said Mr. Leger did not go into commissions other than to say that President Mitchell, of the National City Bank, of New York, testified of the profit made by his bank.

Secretary Stimson categorically denied Mr. Leger's statement before the committee that Haiti was not in default on any loans when the reorganization of its finances took place in 1915.

He wrote that Haiti's credit had been exhausted, both at home and abroad, when the American administration took it over.

Mr. Stimson also said Mr. Leger's statement "that a continual state of martial law had existed in Haiti" since American occupatoon was not a fact.

Norma Talmadge Confirms Rumors of Divorce Plans

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The World-Telegram says Norma Talmadge confirmed rumors today that she was on her way to Paris to seek a divorce from Joseph Schenck, movie producer, to whom she was married in 1921.

"That's not news," the actress was quoted as saying. "Mr. Schenck and I have been separated for five years, but I'm just getting around to a divorce, that's all."

"There's no other man; I don't intend to marry again," she said in reply to questions about her future plans.

"Mr. Schenck is my best friend. It's all quite amiable. I'm waiting for a phone call from him now. He's in Hollywood."

She also was quoted as saying her husband's business interests caused the rift between them.

"It is absolutely true, as Mr. Schenck said," she continued, "that business caused the trouble. We were happy together for years. Then he became president of the United Artists and was preoccupied or away a lot on business. I was lonely and unhappy, and the marriage became unsatisfactory."

Miss Talmadge said as soon as she clears up "a million things incidental to our joint business interests" she will sail for Paris.

She said she was definitely through with motion pictures.

"I'm just a quiet person now. That's all."

Mrs. Katharyn C. Fuqua, of Wardman Park Hotel, and her daughter, Miss Katharyn Fuqua, a debutante of this winter, left yesterday by motor for Florida to spend six weeks at Miami Beach. They will return to Washington about April 1 and be in their apartment at Wardman for the spring.

Mrs. Randolph Keith Forrest and Mrs. Fulton Lewis have issued invitations for a dinner on Saturday evening at the Washington Club in honor of the well known actress, Miss Margaret Anglin, who will appear next week in the presentation of the masque "Wakefield," which opens Sunday.

Utah Society Dinner Is Set for February 27.

The Utah State Society will give their annual dinner and dance Saturday evening, February 27, at the Mayflower. The event will this year serve also as a part in the George Washington Bicentennial celebration.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, will be the speaker of the evening. He will be introduced by Senator Reed Smoot. A group of New York artists, including Minnie Church Pollock, dramatic reader; Pauline Winslow, composer; Charles Cosmo Cosentino, Canadian-American tenor, and Samuel Harwell, concert pianist and a native Utahan, will give a program during the evening. Dancing will follow the dinner and entertainment program.

A large group of prominent guests will be present, including Senator and Mrs. Reed Smoot, Senator and Mrs. William H. King, Representative and Mrs. Don B. Colton, Representative Frederick C. Loofbourow, Miss Huntington Loofbourow, Gen. and Mrs. Frank T. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Albright, Judge and Mrs. Edward C. Finney, and Mrs. Verona Pollock Roach.

A very unusual meeting is being arranged by the Wyoming Society honoring the late Col. William F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill." This affair is to be held in the small ballroom of the Willard on the birthday of Col. Cody, Friday, February 26.

Senator and Mrs. R. D. Cary, Senator and Mrs. J. B. Kendrick and Representative and Mrs. Vincent Carter have been invited to attend the affair as guests of honor. The presidents of the various State societies have also been invited to participate.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Tyson have as their guests Mrs. Armand Dunn and Mrs. Janey Hall, of Greenville, N. C.

Miss Mary Lou Burton, of Norfolk, Va., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Henry A. Thomas.

Judge and Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin, of Chicago, will arrive here Friday and will be at the Mayflower for a short time.

They are re-discovering the Telephone!

IN these times speedy communication between buyer and seller is needed more than ever before. Selling costs must be kept as low as possible. Thousands of business men are finding out that they can use the telephone to do these things and to increase sales.

With the help of the telephone they are making systematic canvasses of firms, both in and out of town, that can handle their products—calling different groups from day to day. They are getting new orders at unusually low cost.

Retail firms are regularly featuring the use of the telephone in their advertisements and are inviting their customers to shop with them the easiest way—by telephone.

Ask our business office to help you set up a Selling-By-Telephone campaign.

SIGNALLING FOR A LEAD.

THE correct use of signals to direct a partner, who may be in the dark as to the proper way to continue in an attempt to defend a hand, has long been recognized as a necessary feature of a winning game. Sometimes failure to signal will result in making a contract which could have been defeated. However, care should be exercised in determining when and how to signal, as the hand below, played in the sixty-fourth rubber of my match with Messrs. Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, discloses.

Mr. Lenz

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♠	Pass	2◇
Pass	2♡	Pass	3♡
Pass	3NT	Pass	4♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Lenz opened the King of diamonds and followed with the Ace when Mr. Jacoby played the Knave. On the lead of the Ace of diamonds, Mr. Jacoby decided that he should direct his partner as to the proper continuation in the hope of defeating the game contract which I had assumed. He, therefore, played the Knave of Clubs and this play permitted me to make my contract, as later in the hand I was enabled to lead toward my club holding from the Dummy and thus assure me of losing only a single trick in that suit. This, with 2 diamond tricks, were all that my opponents were able to make.

Mr. Jacoby's discard was a distinctly bad play. This is not said in any spirit of criticism of his game in general, for it is splendid, but to point the moral and adorn the tale for less expert players. He could have conveyed the same message to his partner by the discard of his lowest spade. Mr. Lenz, having been warned against leading spades, could then lead only clubs and were this done, my only possible recourse would have been to take a finesse in spades and, with that winning discard a club on the Ace of spades and then trust that neither opponent could overruff me until I had disposed of all my losers. This plan would not have worked, as I would have been left with a losing trump at the end.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In discarding to direct a lead care should be exercised in order that the discard may not cost a trick later in the play. The hand is not over until all thirteen tricks have been played.

Jane Regny INTERPRETS the MODE

A new material called jersey silk fashioned this lovely evening gown in ashes of violet color. And a black velvet bolero has a unique front opening and ties on in the back. (Robe, courtesy of Jane Regny.)

New York, Feb. 16.

I'M really glad that printed fabrics have at last been definitely "put in their place."

Obviously, printed fabrics, which often, and unfortunately, sacrificed beauty of fabric for interest of design, belong out of doors, and 'neath resort or summer suns. The wistful loveliness of flowered chiffons lends itself to certain places only, as well as the piquancy of tiny geometrical designs lends itself to others. But the whole-hearted, wholesale and prolonged acceptance of printed designs on fabrics was almost as dull as it was long. Now it is over.

Fortunately for the beauty loving! Because, now that the feminine mind can no longer be captured by design alone, the fabric manufacturers have turned their attention to beauty of the fabrics themselves, depending not upon printed designs nor even colors, for their results.

The popularity of the woolen fabrics in all sorts of interesting and delightful weaves, has had a great deal to do with this, the relegating of prints to their proper place. Woolen fabrics didn't lend themselves so well to prints—hence they were not printed. And now silks have to copy wools, if they would follow the trend!

Three distinct groups of fabrics, then, are new—the light-weight woolens that follow the weaves of georgette, lace, even tulle; the silks that follow the surfaces of wools, and the as yet unclassified group of fabrics that combine both woolen and silken threads, sometimes artificial silk. This third group is, if any, the most interesting one.

Jersey silk is one of the last-mentioned group. If you read of this, know that it is a success much favored by the Parisian Couture, and has a soft, dull surface, and lends itself ideally to the most classical draping.

I illustrated a gown made of this jersey silk, today. 'Tis one of the most successful models in this new fabric, and if you can tell from the mere pen-and-ink sketch, see how beautifully it is draped! Jane Regny offers this gown, and I just had to sketch it for you.

Whatever the limits of your pocketbook, there is absolutely no reason why you shouldn't have a tiny, wee, chic evening wrap of some sort, if you go "a-dancing." The other day I saw a group of lovely young things in bouffant taffeta dance frocks, walking down the street to a dance hall—wearing street coats over these frocks. No, darlings, don't do it! You don't have to, you know!

Take the little nothing-at-all I sketched today, for instance. You could make this so very, very easily, and from so little material. You could have long underaleeves, if you wished, and needn't even have a lining unless you wanted to. Wouldn't that be much, much better than wearing a street coat, now? Think these things out, and you may be the only girl in your group who does—and just see how much more popular you will be!

Fashion French Pronunciations.

Mentioned "Jane Regny" today. Well, pronounce that correctly, darlings: "John-ren-yay" with the "J" sounded like the "az" in the English word "azure."

THE HOMEMAKER

By NANCY CAREY

Recipe for Raisin Sticks and a Dinner Menu.

RAISIN sticks are no trick at all to construct, Mrs. Mario. On the contrary, they are very simple, for we make them with plain pie paste rather than puff paste. But I must admit that I think puff paste makes the better "sticks." Here is a recipe and good luck to you.

Nancy Carey

Raisin Sticks.

(For Mrs. Mario)

Puff paste or plain pie pastry.
Seedless raisins
Butter
¼ cupful sugar
1 teaspoonful cinnamon

Work as many raisins into the paste as it will hold. Add the sugar and cinnamon. Roll out in strips 4 inches wide and one-half inch thick. Sift sugar on top and cut crosswise in strips about three-quarters of an inch wide. Dot each stick with butter and bake in a very hot oven until brown.

Puff Paste.

2 cupfuls pastry flour
½ teaspoonful salt
1 egg white
½ cupful butter
Ice water

Mix a paste quickly and lightly, using one-quarter cupful butter, flour, salt, egg white and sufficient ice water to hold the paste together. Allow to stand in a cold place one-half hour and then roll out. Divide the remaining butter into four portions and spread the rolled-out dough with one-fourth and a sprinkling of flour. Fold the dough in three and then in three again and roll out. Let this rest on the board in a cold place fifteen or twenty minutes; then repeat the process until the butter is used, leaving the dough in a cold place after the last rolling. Then cut and shape into patty shells as directed and chill before putting into the oven.

As regards celery seed, L. K. H., it is used in pickling and also as flavoring for soups and for salads. And chives are onion-like greens which are used in many ways, or, I should say, the leaves of which are used in many ways, particularly in salads, sauces, fish dishes, omelets, soups, &c.

And now for our usual menu.

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Cream of Tomato Soup
Toasted Crackers
Liver with Brown Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Brussels Sprouts
Pineapple Tarts
Coffee

Liver With Brown Sauce.

1 pound liver
1 tablespoonful flour
1 tablespoonful Worcestershire sauce
2 slices of lean bacon
1 cupful hot stock (or water, preferably stock)
1 tablespoonful mushroom catsup
Salt to taste

Cut the liver in pieces, cover with boiling water and let it stand five minutes. Take from the water and wipe dry. Dredge with flour, salt and pepper. Fry out the bacon in a frying pan, then put the liver in the hot bacon fat, brown it on one side, turn and brown on the other. Place it on a hot dish, with the bacon cut in small pieces. Add the flour to the fat in the pan and stir until it becomes a nice brown. Add the boiling stock, stir until it boils, then add the Worcestershire sauce. Add the mushroom catsup and salt to taste. Pour over the liver and serve.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I think I am overweight. I am short, a good 5 feet, and 51 years old. I don't want to get "dumpy," for I feel better when I am thinner. I read your column every day and enjoy your advice and also your menus. I do all my housework, but find I am not as peppy as I was. Thought maybe I might be getting to be a "fat old lady." Hence the SOS. SARA K.

A weight of about 130 pounds should suit you very nicely, Sara K. As we grow older, especially after we reach 50, it is not advisable to be to any great extent overweight. In fact, it is better in many instances to weigh a little less than the average. You yourself will be the best judge of whether or not you need to reduce, for no one knows better whether or not you really are getting too fat.

We are rather a difficult lot, everything considered. As we grow older our bodily processes slow up; we are generally less active than in our younger, growing years, and still in a great many cases we eat just as much, if not more than we did then. Our appetites seem to grow greater with each year's growing older, and our waistlines keep gallant company. We like just the things we should avoid, especially if we are inclined to be overweight. We should cut down on cereals, especially with cream. We should use a little less butter and fewer cakes and pies and pastries.

When we are young we need plenty of fuel foods, those rich in energy-giving calories, but after 50 emphasis should be placed on the "vital" foods—milk, fruits, green leafy vegetables and much water. Not that we must live exclusively on these foods, but just that each year they should form a larger share of the diet and thus greatly increase our chances for a healthy, happy old age.

Nancy Carey

THE NEW Jelleff's

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

IF FEBRUARY 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:20 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:35 p. m.

Astrological influences are not very promising on February 17, and only lantern rays of hope can be augured for your ability to "pull off" anything of importance. A time of preparation and swing, rather than a time of attainment or reaping.

The child born on this February 17 will be made of the right sort of clay and will be able to climb the ladder of success without any one having to hold the foot of it. It will have a delightful personality, plenty of common sense with which to keep its feet on earth and its head out of the clouds.

Born February 17, you think silently, speak guardedly and are both patient and philosophical. You rarely permit your imagination to wander or bitterness to enter your soul. You manage to insinuate the belief that you are a superior being, a born and natural leader. Your followers are seldom let down in any way, for your ability is genuine, and you "play square" with both coordinates and subordinates. You have essentially a just mind, and are normally unemotional and a very magnet for facts. You are one of those highly efficient beings that rise automatically to every emergency, and act while others consider.

You have grit and courage, and are sufficiently self-contained to navigate the sea of life without some one ready to act the part of sheet anchor if a storm of bad luck overwhelms you. Care, industry and amiability are all factors which you carry into your work. You set a good example of industry to your associates, and are a spreader of enthusiasm. You do not claim to know it all, and are always ready to give others a pat on the back, and to say a good word for their benefit. You are both liberal minded and liberal handed, and many people owe debts of gratitude to you—many of which will never be repaid.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

HUMAN FRAILTY.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Whenever we scan a letter that berates man and his well-known cussedness, with here and there a few jabs for ungrateful children, interfering in-laws, and the drudgery that is a woman's lot, we wait for the sentence reading "I never get anywhere or see anybody, just work, work, work." The sentence is always there, whether written or not. Because it is only when we have been grubbing around like an earth worm in a muddy tunnel of a world self-made, that we begin to tirade about the other earth worms who crowd and discommode us. All we need is air, light, sunshine, and a new view. An editor-friend of ours who happens to be also a sculptress, sent us recently a plaque. She called it "One With the Infinite" and we hung it just above our desk. We admired it. But it was not for days that we really saw it. It is a very simply conceived study. It is just a woman. But she sits beautifully serene upon a height, from which she regards the world. She is relaxed. Neither exaltation, nor intensity nor even concentration marks her mood. She is completely at peace with a world that she sees from all sides. She might be called "Acceptance" or "Understanding" or any of the things that earth worms never heard of. And as she gazes down, and yet far-off-and-away, she symbolizes the woman who knows all about the cussedness but does not call it that. There is a sort of light upon her face, ever-so slightly raised, a sort of sweet expectancy about her as if she listened. It is only 6 inches of coaxed clay—that little plaque, but it is a symphony of thought, a nugget of sweet wisdom, a strain of unheard music, and a mute command. We would like to make of it a shrine for earth worms, to which they might come wearily crawling but from which they would depart on wings of newfound beauty to a world agleam with light. We would like to bring to our 6-inch shrine the young mother whose letter follows, who is now a tired earth worm in a mud world, but who can when she decides to, be a poised and happy woman directing destinies in a world where gloom and glory are just about evenly mixed:

"Is there any way for a woman tied down with three babies to escape a miserable round of uninteresting days that consist of listening to conceited in-laws talk about themselves and their perfections and possessions seemingly unconscious that a woman is being reduced to a slave through the incompetence of their incomparable son? He is one of the sort who can not make ends meet, yet complains of any lack of perfection in housekeeping. Expects to bring business acquaintances to dinner yet can not provide help to wait upon them, accepts invitations his wife can not share and then blames her for not accompanying him—egged on by doting relatives who clamor to look after the children, and incidentally take over their discipline. An overbearing, insufferable crew who would drive a saint to drink and have driven a once vivacious living being into a disheveled and disgusted wreck. Is there any escape? ELSA.

And our 6-inch symphony seems to nod a wise and knowing nod from her place on the top of the world!

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A SURPRISE.

This smart chic tailleur of diagonal monotone woolen is a one-piece affair. Think of the short time it will take you to make it.

It is laid in an inverted plait at the center-front. Applied bands at either side of the plait with similar bands on the sleeves, display clever manipulation of the fabric. The material is simply cut in the opposite direction.

The deep front is finished with an attached collar and revers that cut in one. The inset surplice vest is interesting.

Style No. 625 is designed for sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

GARDENS

GILLIFLOWER.

"STOCKS," correctly speaking, but to my mind the common name of gilliflower, which every one knows, is much nicer and surely more suggestive of this friendly, old-fashioned garden plant.

While neither gay nor giddy, the gilliflower will lend a note of subdued blue and lilac, yellow and pure white, to any garden border. Few flowers can flaunt more colors and few exhale a more delightful fragrance than does this plant.

The gilliflower is best grown from seed, which may be sown about this time, or in early March, in shallow boxes (about 3 inches deep). Cover the seed very slightly with soil. In fact, use merely enough to keep the seeds from blowing away.

If you are the happy possessor of a hotbed, you may set your box in one corner of it, but if you live in the center of some city, then, in lieu of a hotbed, choose a warm, sunny window for your seed boxes. Always sow gilliflower seed in a fine, rich, sandy loam.

Keep the seeds damp while they are germinating. Never make the mistake of pouring large quantities of water in the box, or of pouring the water from too great a height. If you do, the weight of the downpour will literally dash the life out of the seeds. A better plan is to cover them with a few layers of newspaper and water them with a spray from the finest nozzle of the water can. The water will gradually filter through the paper and reach the soil without injuring the seeds. While germinating, the seeds must be kept away from direct drafts, but at the same time given plenty of fresh air.

When two or three leaves have formed, the plants must be transplanted into new boxes or small pots. Always press the earth down firmly after planting, else there is danger of its drying up before the roots can get firm hold of the soil.

After the first of May remove the plants to the open border. Should the weather about this time be very dry, especially the first day or so after you set them out, water them freely.

Of course, if you do not care to start the seeds in the house you may sow them in the open ground as soon as the weather is suitable, and when large enough you may thin them out and transplant them where you wish them to bloom permanently.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DIETING CONSUMPTIVES.

IN the course of a report on the Gerson and Hermanadorfer-Sauerbruch diets for tuberculosis, as they have been used at Saranac, N. Y., Dr. Edgar Mayer gives his views and those of others on various questions of dietetics. This discussion is in order, since those German diets differ so radically from the ordinary sanitarium diets. He and those he quotes find a good deal of basis for diets that are low in common salts.

Man is the only animal that uses what he calls denatured salt as an addition to his food for the purpose of seasoning it. This custom ordinarily does no harm because the human machinery has a considerable capacity for detoxifying salt. There is considerable experience that shows excess of salt in the diet is partly responsible for some cases of urticariat, nettle rash and eczema. In more than one itching eruption, the objectionable symptom will disappear if a diet poor in salt is given.

Common salt is a combination of sodium and chlorine. The evidence seems to show that the element at fault is sodium. Some cases do better if the chloride of calcium, potassium, magnesium or strontium is used in place of the sodium salt.

He does not discuss the claim made by some that excess of salt in the diet makes for cancer.

Sugar and other carbohydrates are necessary ingredients of the diet. The Eskimo gets about one ounce a day of this food ingredient and this can be taken as about the smallest amount that the human animal can get along with. However, the tolerance for carbohydrates is great. A man can go a long way over an ounce a day before he begins to threaten his well-being.

There is the same broad range of safety in the use of proteins, such as cheese, lean meats and eggs. About two ounces a day is the minimum, below which the diet should not be allowed to go. Around four ounces a day is the maximum for all except convalescents and rapidly growing children. These rapidly growing children require more lean meat and eggs for each pound of body weight than do men engaged in hard labor.

It may be best for men with some forms of Bright's disease to cut their proteins below two ounces daily. However, if the diet does not supply enough the body is liable to burn the tissues of important organs in order to get the required amount of protein. We can greatly increase the intake of fats above the basic level without making much change in the body.

Dr. Mayer thinks we are paying too much attention to vitamins. The average person, eating the average amounts of the average foods, gets about as many vitamins as he needs and in about the right proportions one to another.

Plea to Increase Seed Loans Seen as Failure

Pierre, S. Dak., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—After a long-distance telephone conversation with Secretary Hyde today, Loyson G. Troth, South Dakota secretary of agriculture, expressed the opinion that "We haven't any show of getting the individual seed loan maximum of $400 increased."

Mr. Troth said Secretary Hyde explained the Federal Department of Agriculture had only $50,000,000 available for seed loans. Increasing the maximum from $400 to $800, asked by Mr. Troth, would prevent many farmers from obtaining funds, Mr. Hyde explained. Mr. Troth said nearly 35,000 farmers in South Dakota would need approximately $10,000,000 for seed grains this spring.

Gen. Ma—A Chinese general whose parents were evidently given some Al Jolson phonographs by missionaries.

Nine-Power Pact—A solemn agreement to respect Chinese sovereignty signed by Japan and eight nations which didn't know she was fooling.

Manchuria—Same as Luxembourg, 1914.

Kellogg Pact—The Japs say the name is familiar, but they can't recall the text.

Dr. Yen—China's spokesman before the League of Nations; in other words, a fellow who must be getting pretty discouraged.

Vandals—Japanese term for Chinese army.

Shigeru Honjo—A Japanese general.

Koichi Shiosawa—A Japanese admiral, although it could be a Japanese boat or town.

Peiping—Another favorite spot for Japanese army maneuvers.

Nanking—See Peiping.

Nipponese—A name some people call the Japanese, but certainly not the name the Chinese call the Japanese.

International Settlement—A part of the city of Shanghai where neutrals go when they wish to be sure their rights will be violated.

American Consul—A fellow whose protests are ignored.

British Consul—The other one.

Chinese Wall—A huge barrier erected along the Chinese frontier to keep out invaders. The signs say "Keep Out," but, as the Japs point out in their notes to Mr. Stimson, they do not say "Positively."

Chinese Navy—An optical illusion.

Brutal Attack—Any move by any Chinese troops.

Enforcement of Law and Order—Any move made by Japanese troops, but more particularly a move in which neutral zones are bombed and set on fire.

American Ultimatum—Something that used to cause caution.

British Ultimatum—The answer to this is also "Oh, yeah!"

Open Door Policy—Good heavens! Are they still using that one?

Truce—A period set aside for intensive shelling.

Pacific Endeavors—A Japanese synonym for war.

PHILIPPINE MISSION CHALLENGES HURLEY

Asserts Bills in Senate and House Solve Problem of Independence.

The proposal made by Secretary Hurley before House and Senate committees for the future relations between the United States and the Philippines was described as a policy of "permanent retention and subjugation of the Filipino people," in a statement filed yesterday by the Philippine Independence Mission with the House insular affairs committee and the committee on territories and insular affairs of the Senate.

"It can not be acceptable to the people of the Philippine Islands," the mission declared.

In contrast to Mr. Hurley's description of the Hawes-Cutting bill as "cowardly," they insisted that this bill and the Hare bill, the companion measure in the House, solve the Philippine problem "courageously and without any attempt at evasion or postponement of fundamental issues."

Cite Points of Disagreement.

The mission cited as points of disagreement Secretary Hurley's condition that the promise of independence is conditioned by a composite objective; that the Filipino leaders have not formulated an economic program; that the alleged economic unpreparedness is an obstacle to independence; that it is impossible to fix a definite date for independence; that the United States assumed any special responsibility with respect to Mohammedan Filipinos, and that disaster, chaos, anarchy and revolution would result if independence were granted.

In discussing the specific recommendations made by Secretary Hurley, the mission said:

"Secretary Hurley proposes that the Filipino people be not now informed as to their political future, and thus, would continue the present uncertainty. * * * He merely hints that sometime, ultimately, it may be granted. Immediately, however, he proposes that congressional action be taken limiting the free entry of Philippine products into the United States, and also Philippine immigration into continental United States.

"This is the first time since the American occupation of the islands that such a proposal had come from an authoritative, official branch of the Government.

"It is not only contrary to the avowed American policy of altruism in the Philippines, but is diametrically opposed to the position heretofore taken on this question by the War Department, by the Governor General of the Philippines and by every American administration. It will deprive the Filipinos of priceless privileges and rights * * * the withdrawal of which could not but be interpreted by them as both unjust and discriminatory."

Mrs. W. C. Rives Obsequies Held

Bishop Freeman Conducts Funeral Services; Many Notables Attend.

The office for the burial of the dead was read yesterday in Bethlehem Chapel for Mrs. William Cabell Rives by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, assisted by the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington.

The cathedral choir of boys sang favorite hymns of Mrs. Rives, who was prominent in the church life of the diocese as well as in social Washington for the past 30 years. Delegations from a number of organizations to which Mrs. Rives belonged were present at the service, notably from the Colonial Dames, Chapter Three, the board of the Home for Incurables and the Washington committee of Washington Cathedral, of which Mrs. Rives was chairman. The chapter and clergy of Washington Cathedral were present also.

Among those present at the service, in addition to Dr. Rives, husband of Mrs. Rives, and her brothers, the Right Rev. Philip W. Rhinelander and Frederick W. Rhinelander, of New York, were Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Arthur Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Lanier, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. King, of New York; Mrs. Harold Landon, of New York; Miss L. H. Edgar, of New York; former Senator and Mrs. Bruce, of Maryland; Dr. and Mrs. William Holland Wilmer, Mrs. Allen Potts and Frederick Neve.

CATHERINE L. COLE DIES.

Daughter of Library of Congress Employe Was Student.

Catherine Louise Cole, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Cole, of 3304 Seventeenth street northeast, died at Emergency Hospital yesterday after a prolonged illness. She was a student at Business High School.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Cole, the young woman is survived by two brothers, Charles E. and Fred O. The father is an employe of the Library of Congress. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

J. R. WHITE, 67, DIES.

Brief Illness Is Fatal to Employe of Accounting Office.

J. Raymond White, 67 years old, died at his home, 1331 Harvard street, yesterday after a brief illness. He was an employe of the general accounting office and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katie C. White.

Funeral services had not been arranged for Mr. White last night, but it was announced that interment would take place in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Besides his widow, Mr. White is survived by three brothers, Frank and Albert C., of this city, and Louis C., of California, and a sister, Miss Stella White, who lives here.

HOSKINSON RITES HELD.

Company Postpones Meeting in Respect to Its Lost Official.

Funeral services for Clarence Hoskinson, 63 years old, president of the First National Bank of Gaithersburg, Md., were held yesterday afternoon at his late residence, 2608 Thirty-sixth street northwest. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery.

A joint meeting of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau and the Farm Supply Co., of which he was for years a leading agent, scheduled for today in Rockville yesterday, was postponed until tomorrow in respect to the deceased official.

EASTER Sunday parade on F street in 1913.

The years certainly have wrought drastic changes in the modes of the ladies' wardrobe, praise be. The ones shown above were no doubt very chic looking then in the years before the World War, but they would probably create quite a stir if they should promenade up that well-known boulevard now.

Note the one in the left-hand corner with the plaid suit. It looks as though there were enough material in that suit to make several of the present day. These ladies have nothing to fear from a windy day, except possibly the showing of their ankles. The dress of the present day damsels will probably look just as funny nineteen years hence as these do now.

STUDENTS GIVE $300 TOWARD CHEST GOAL

Gifts Totaling $751 Reduce Remaining Sum Sought to $187,242.

Community Chest Standing

Previously reported...	2,413,006.90
Total to date.....	1,413,757.90
Campaign goal.....	2,601,000.00
Still needed.....	187,242.10
Received yesterday.....	$751.00

Gifts may be left at Community Chest headquarters, 223 Investment Building.

Evidently inspired by the stories in the daily newspapers, gifts continued to arrive at the Community Chest headquarters yesterday, the total of new and additional contributions amounting to $751. This amount brought the total to date to $2,413,757.90, leaving the Chest still $187,242.10 short of its goal of $2,601,000.

The schools unit, which, under the leadership of Sidney F. Taliaferro as chairman, exceeded its quota during the recent campaign, had its average increased again yesterday by the receipt of $300 from the pupils of the Madeira School. This was the largest gift of the day.

Some of yesterday's gifts were the result of the "clean-up" campaign of the metropolitan unit, small groups of which are continuing their work in the hope of reducing the deficit as much as possible. In the meantime, headquarters of the Council of Social Agencies at 1418 I street northwest, was again besieged by applicants for help, the requests ranging from food to fuel and clothing.

This constantly increasing demand for aid is proving a problem for the agency heads, all of whom, although prepared for an increased demand for help as the result of the unemployment situation, never figured on as large an increase as has already been encountered and which threatens to become worse. They are hoping that there will be a decrease in demands before long, although that time is not in sight by any means.

Yesterday's new and additional gifts were as follows: $1, anonymous; $10, anonymous; $10, anonymous, $200, anonymous; $5, Paul Bansch; $25, Wilmer T. Bartholomew; $50, Charles Henry Butler-John A. Kratz; $20, Maj. and Mrs. J. D. Byers; $15, Alice L. Carr; $10, Garnett V. Carter; $3, Mary Owen Dean (additional); $8, Florence P. Dunlop; $15, Miss Mary L. Hannan; $16, in memory of J. S. Holbrook; $5, H. P. Kimball; $300, Madeira School pupils; $7, Harriet E. Porter; $25, Mary K. Porter; $5, Miss Selma Anne Ruppert; $1, Morris Smellow, and $20, Dr. William D. Wirt.

Capt. Estes Dies Of Brief Illness

Retired Army Officer to Be Buried Tomorrow in Arlington.

Funeral services for Capt. Charles C. Estes, retired, of the United States Army, will be held at Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow at 3 p. m. Capt. Estes died of pneumonia at his home, 1339 Irving street northwest, yesterday. He had been ill about three weeks.

The captain was born in Morganton, N. C., on March 20, 1863. He enlisted in the Army at the age of 21, serving in the Spanish-American War and several Philippine uprisings. At Cuba he fought with the Forty-third Volunteer Infantry and commanded a company of volunteers in the Philippine some years later. He retired in 1901 after his return to the States.

After the passing of the child labor law he served as an inspector for that commission. He was a member of the B. P. O. E., District Lodge 15. He is survived by his widow, Alice Kingsbury Estes.

Women to Hear Mrs. Matthews.

Mrs. Burnita Sheldon Matthews, Washington attorney, will discuss the work of the international labor office of the League of Nations at the weekly international round table dinner of the National Woman's Party tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Alva Belmont House.

GASOLINE AND ELECTRICITY TAX PROGRAM IS BACKED BY MILLS

and, consequently the prospective deficit will grow.

Treasury officials have said that their estimates were based on an expectation that there would be a business revival through the country and that this revival would be reflected in tax returns. The prospective deficit at this time is something like $1,250,000,000 for the end of the next fiscal year. The program which has been adopted by Democratic leaders of the House calls for bringing the national financial ship to an even keel by 1934.

That program, Secretary Mills told the ways and means committee, "admits of no compromise" and submitted his new tax proposals. He also suggested that $118,000,000 be cut from the appropriation bills which call for a total expenditure of more than $4,000,000,000.

Secretary Mills supplementary tax proposals included a tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline. That tax, he estimated, would yield $165,000,000. He said that a 7 per cent tax on domestic consumption of electricity, of natural and of manufactured gas would yield the Federal Treasury an addition of $94,000,000.

Calls for Stock Tax Rise.

Although representatives of the stock exchanges appeared before the ways and means committee and argued that a tax of 4 cents on stock sales and transfers would defeat its purpose because it would retard transactions, the Mills supplementary program called for an increase from 2 to 4 cents. This tax, it was estimated would yield $11,000,000.

The Treasury had recommended an increase of one-half of one per cent in the corporation tax. It is now 12 per cent. Under the Mills program it would be made 13 per cent. It was estimated that this would yield $17,000,000.

Surtaxes would begin at a much lower figure than was fixed in the 1924 law. A surtax of 1 per cent would be imposed on incomes of $6,000 or more. The surtaxes would go up and up to 42 per cent on incomes of $500,000 or more.

It was estimated that the increased surtaxes would yield $50,000,000. The total increase in income and surtaxes would be something like $185,000,000. Under the 1924 law the tax would have begun on incomes over $10,000 and reached a maximum of 40 per cent on incomes of $500,000 and more.

Although there has been considerable discussion of a sales tax, nothing definite has emerged. There have been various proposals for sales taxes, and every proposal put before the committee has been met with strenuous objections from representatives of the particular industry or business involved.

Opposed by Industries.

Sales taxes might be good for other business or industries, or even for the Government as a whole, but the Government would lose money and stifle industry if the sales tax were applied to this or that particular industry or business, the witnesses and lobbyists said.

How much money could be got out of the sales tax Secretary Mills refused to estimate. The yield, he said, would depend on its application and form.

If, the Secretary said, a sales tax were so framed that it would "provide for a single and not a pyramided levy, substantially without exemptions, the tax might yield about $600,000,000."

What will be the outcome of the supplemental recommendations remains to be seen. The ways and means committee members are at work on tax revision bill. This member of the committee has this solution of the Treasury difficulties. That member has that solution.

Judgment of the committee members has not coalesced. Not even the taxers know just where the inevitably increased taxes shall be levied.

TURN IN TIDE OF HOARDING IS VIEWED BY PRESIDENT

$34,000,000 has been returned to circulation from hoarding."

So encouraging has this response been to the financial community at large, that Government fiscal experts now are reconsidering the question of further measures to call out hidden wealth.

The almost unprecedented celerity with which Congress went to work on the new credit bill has sustained for more than a week the glow of hope and confidence inspired by the announcement last Wednesday that the final legislative obstacle to an inadequate national credit system had been removed. Influenced apparently by the conviction that the Senate will send the bill to the White House this week, the security and commodity markets moved upward yesterday with a more certain step.

At the same time, directors of the American Legion's national campaign to restore men to employment reported, in New York, that 25,000 workers had been added to the country's pay rolls during the first two days of the drive.

Wall street also found new ground for bullish enthusiasm yesterday in well-authenticated reports that the European drive on the dollar, vigorously launched last week with the catchword "inflation," had exhausted itself. Foreign money markets, particularly Paris, have been convinced that every step in the new banking policy is aimed at strengthening, rather than weakening, America's gold position.

With all of this news at its back, the stock market moved forward with a firm tone, pushing up the blue chip leaders 2 to 7 points after a slight sag at the opening.

Steel touched $50 a share for the first time this year, up two points for the day, and A. T. & T. followed with a new 1932 high, 7 points above Monday's close. For the list as a whole, however, the advances generally were from one-half to two points.

At the close, the average price of 100 selected leaders was more than a point above the corresponding period of last month. Meanwhile wheat moved up 2 cents a bushel at Chicago, and cotton touched 7 cents a pound at New York for the first time since October.

President Hoover is represented as feeling that a tremendous amount of buying power already has been released by the projected expansion of the Federal Reserve rediscount base, and that this new impulse to business recovery soon will be reflected in orders to stock retailers' shelves, many of which are all but bare.

With the "vicious circle" of the credit stringency thus broken by the wane of hoarding, merchants will find it possible once more to finance new stocks, the pivotal point of all business trends.

Recent Government surveys indicate that retail stocks generally, in relation to population, are at the lowest point in the history of the United States. When this abnormal situation is corrected, the President feels, the fundamental forces of normal business will be at work. But they all have their beginning in a credit system adequate to the needs of the country.

16,867 Placed in Jobs First Day of Campaign

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The national campaign to obtain 1,000,000 jobs for the jobless resulted in 16,867 men and women being placed in positions on its opening day, headquarters here announced tonight. The campaign began yesterday and the first day's results were based on reports received up to noon today.

The campaign was undertaken by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor, the Association of National Advertisers and the Legion Auxiliary. Among the States, Wisconsin led with 4,467 wage earners placed in 10 communities.

Mellon Rests at Home Before Trip to Britain

Pittsburgh, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon came home today to attend to private business affairs before sailing next month to begin his new duties as Ambassador to Great Britain. The former Treasury Secretary, looking hale and strong, granted no interviews. He went directly to his home in Woodland road to breakfast. He will rest there and visit with his son, Paul, for the remainder of the week.

FIGHTS MARK DRESS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

2 Stabbed as Reds and Right Wingers Clash; Thousands March in Parades.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Stabbings, fist fights, parades of thousands of shouting men and women, and clashes between rival groups punctuated a strike of 30,000 to 40,000 garment workers today.

The strike order was issued after a meeting of the strike committee of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. It demanded "decent wages and standards of living."

As soon as the strikers began pouring from their buildings, lines of Communists carrying banners began to block the streets in the clothing district.

Several hundred extra police were posted in the neighborhood. The most serious clash was between the "Right Wingers," affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the "Left Wingers," the Communist group.

One man was stabbed in the back and another in the head. Both were taken to hospitals in serious condition. Another man was arrested on a charge of attempting to attack a union official.

The strike is sponsored by the American Federation of Labor. Its president, William Green, came here yesterday to issue a warning to employers to stop wage-cutting.

NEGLECT IS CHARGED BY MAN TO INTERNE

charge, was admitted to the sick man's room.

Mr. Podell, by that time suffering acute pain, complained that it took an unusually long time for aid to reach him. Whereupon Dr. Bastable is alleged to have replied:

"If that's the way you feel about it, you can get your own doctor!"

Friends of Mr. Podell declared Dr. Bastable then picked up his satchel and left the house without attempting to aid the stricken man.

The police patrol of the Sixth Precinct was summoned and hurtled Mr. Podell to Emergency Hospital. It was found his condition was serious, and an operation for hernia was immediately performed.

B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of the hospital, yesterday reported the affair to the executive board at their weekly meeting. Dr. Bastable's suspension was ordered, and it was agreed that an investigation would immediately be launched.

A report at the Sixth Police Precinct declares the ambulance was called at 11:50 p. m. and arrived at 12:15 p. m. Records at the hospital show the ambulance returned 26 minutes after departing. The Decatur street address is about 4½ miles from the hospital.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman of the Senate subcommittee, delayed action on the fresh charges. An investigation appeared impending as Dr. Copeland made known he would ask the Sixth Precinct for its "incidental" on the case.

Mr. Sisk, a Baltimore newspaperman, died at Gallinger February 4 from injuries suffered in an automobile accident January 29. Taken to Emergency Hospital, he was pronounced "drunk" by an interne, and sent to Gallinger, where the serious nature of his injuries was disclosed.

Dr. Copeland, who criticized Emergency Hospital's handling of the Sisk case as "stupid," said he will confer today with Chairman Arthur Capper, of the Senate District committee, on the course he will take in the Podell case, which he views as another instance of neglect on the part of the hospital.

It is probable members of the subcommittee will question Emergency Hospital authorities tomorrow. Meanwhile Senator Copeland is awaiting the police report.

Senator Copeland was undecided last night whether the hearings, beginning tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, will be executive or closed. In addition to hospital and police officials, he will ask Director George S. Wilson, of the Board of Public Welfare, and Turner Catledge, of the New York Times, to testify. Mr. Sisk was visiting with Catledge before the accident.

WRITERS' EJECTION PROTESTED BY 300

$260 for Aid Is Subscribed as Mass Meeting Hears of Kentucky Row.

After hearing of conditions of striking miners in Bell and Harlan Counties, Ky., described by members of the writers' committee who were ejected from the State when they attempted to investigate and provide food for the starving, 300 persons at a mass meeting in the National Press Club last night adopted a resolution of protest and subscribed $260 for aid.

The writers who went to the Kentucky coal fields with Waldo Frank told of their reception by machine gunners in Pineville, Ky., and of how they were forbidden to hold a meeting with the strikers. They also told how they were escorted to the Tennessee line by a group of "business men" who seriously beat Mr. Frank and Allan Taub, attorney for the miners.

Among the members of the committee who spoke were Mary Heaton Vorse, Dr. Elsie Mitchell, John Henry Hammond, Liston M. Oak, Mr. Taub, and Charles R. Walker. Dr. D. N. Shoemaker, of the Department of Agriculture, was chairman.

With the writers were several miners who told of intimidation and murder which they blamed on the "gun thugs" under the employ of the coal operators. One, Jim Garland, said that "in eastern Kentucky, if you are hungry, you are a red, and if you are hungry and tell some one about it you are a criminal syndicalist."

The resolution adopted at the meeting protested the beating of Mr. Frank and Mr. Taub, the denial of free speech, free press and free assembly, and appealed to Congress for an investigation of the situation.

Young Democrats Would Debate Foes

Challenge Is Issued to Republican Group on 1932 Issues.

The rapidly heating political pot has boiled over upon the younger representatives of both the Democratic and Republican parties. A heated debate is in prospect to keep the cauldron bubbling.

The challenge was issued by the Young Democrats Club of Washington, who want to take the affirmative of the resolution: "Resolved, That all young Republicans, for the welfare of the country, should vote the Democratic ticket in 1932."

The Young Democrats Club of Washington meets once a month at the Woman's National Democratic Club. Its president is Arthur C. Perry, secretary to Senator Connally, of Texas. The Young Republicans have recently extended their membership and hold regular meetings in their new clubhouse at Scott Circle. If the Young Republicans accept the challenge, representatives of both clubs will take up the matter of time, place and rules of debate.

3 Police Praised In Arrest of Trio

Commendations Given by Commissioner Due to Bravery in Service.

Commissioner Herbert Crosby yesterday officially commended two detective sergeants and a private of the Police Department for their work in arresting three holdup men recently shortly after they had robbed E. M. Morningstar, a taxicab driver.

The men cited for their good work were Detective Sergeants J. J. Tolson and Elmer F. Lewis, and Driver Private R. J. Tompkins. Commissioner Crosby praised the trio's action in taking the men into custody despite a "show of arms and the attempted use thereof."

Sergeant Lewis, with Sixth Precinct Detective J. A. Shimon, yesterday was commended by Inspector Burke in a missive to Brig. Gen. Glassford for the apprehension of a gang of seven responsible for a number of taxicab holdups.

Pasadena, Calif., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A strong earthquake at a distance of about 5,300 miles was recorded at 6:00:42 a. m. and 6:10:27 a. m. today at the Carnegie Institution of Washington Seismological Laboratory.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold!" Every case of tonsilitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

ESCUDERO PLEASES CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Noted Spanish Dancer Gives Several Encores on Debut in Washington.

To the tumultuous applause of a capacity audience Vicente Escudero and his dance ensemble made their Washington debut yesterday afternoon at the National Theater. So enthusiastic was the greeting given to Spain's premier dancer that Senor Escudero responded with several encores, a rare occurrence of the present season.

The program was composed principally of examples of gypsy dancers from different regions of Spain, interspersed with numbers in different tempos to make the offerings consistently interesting and varied. Brilliantly costumed and played for the most part in full stage lighting, Senor Escudero, with the capable assistance of Carmita and Carmela in solo and group numbers and Luis Mayoral, guitarist, and A. Guridas, pianist, more than fulfilled the fondest expectations of the audience.

Possesses "That Something."

Without casting any reflections upon the artists who have previously appeared this season, they have, despite extraordinary artistry they offered, lacked that something that makes the performance a unified whole, that dynamic quality which is life itself. This thing Senor Escudero has, and has abundantly. From the moment he first steps on the stage, his audience is conscious that here is one for whom to live is to dance and to dance is to live. His numbers are not speculative presentations, figments of his choreographic imagination, but rather vibrant delineations of the joy of living.

Making more vivid the colorful gypsy dances and adding a sparkle of humor to more than one of them—was the almost saucy click of castanets. Especially during Cordoba number, a highly amusing flirting scene, do the castanets almost speak, and in the "Variations," based on music of the eighteenth century, the tonal differences of iron, silver, and aluminum add contrast to the customary click-clack.

Bit of Novelty Added.

Senoritas Carmita and Carmela, separately and together, contribute a great deal to the lilting rhythms of Spanish gypsy dances, their numbers showing only slightly less of the skill and artistry demonstrated by Senor Escudero. The program was not without its bit of novelty, a group of "Rhythms" done without accompaniment, in which the scintillating star of this galaxy dances and drums out with his feet and hands cadences that are rhythmic notwithstanding the lack of music. About half of the numbers were accompanied by Senor Mayoral and his guitar, the virtuoso's strumming of the Spanish tempos adding a note of realism not entirely imparted by the piano.

Of especial interest to music lovers is Senor Escudero's happy selection of accompaniments, the music of the better-known Spanish composers having a well-deserved place. From the works of Romero, J. Albeniz and Manuel Penella most of the music is taken.

Win Favored Spot.

Following such consummate artists as Ted Shawn, Martha Graham and Harald Kreutzberg, Senor Escudero was placed in a difficult position, but his mastery of the dance has already earned for him and his ensemble a favored spot in the hearts of those making obeisance at the throne of Terpsichore.

W. A. WHITNEY.

The appearance of Vicente Escudero was in courtesy to the Embassy of Spain and Senor Don Luis M. de Irujo, Minister and charge d'affaires. The patrons were the Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Miguel Cruchago Tocornal; the Ambassador of Mexico, Senor Dr. Don Jose Manuel Puig Casaurne; the Minister of Venezuela, Senor Dr. Don Pedro Manuel Arcaya; the Minister of Panama, Senor Dr. Horacio F. Alfaro, and the former Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Dr. Juan B. Sacasa.

17 Reported Indicted In Alien Smuggling

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Seventeen persons, including a former Federal inspector of immigration and a New York notary, were reported today to have been indicted by a Federal grand jury for an alleged conspiracy to smuggle aliens into the country.

James C. Leaton, assistant United States district attorney, said the men constituted one of the largest alien smuggling bands in the country. Leaders in the alleged conspiracy, Leaton said, were Vito Rizzi, former Italian seaman; Antonio Pugliesi, a New York bank clerk; Simon Rothberg, a New York immigration inspector, and Joseph Ciacci, a New York attorney.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

TWO HUNDRED vocalists and dancers, resident in Washington and vicinity, are sought by the Washington Civic Opera Company for the casts and ensembles of the next two light opera presentations to be fostered by the company, according to announcement by the management this week.

With the opening of five studios and a large rehearsal hall in the former City Club Building, the Civic Opera directors expect to be able to put numerous ensembles and dance groups in rehearsal simultaneously.

Occupancy of the new quarters was approved on Monday night by the executive board and a committee of sponsors for the operas. The new studios cover more than 10,000 square feet of floor space, together with a highly improved dance floor of approximately 3,000 square feet. They include the full second floor and all balcony rooms of the old City Club, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets on G.

Aspirants for inclusion in the roster of principals as well as candidates for the chorus are urged to register promptly at the office of the Civic Opera. Auditions will be begun the latter part of the current week. Those who wish to try out for dance parts in the works to be undertaken will be given an opportunity, beginning Saturday.

Casting for the new operas will be begun as soon as the auditions are fairly under way, but final decisions as to leading roles will not, of course, be undertaken until all competitive voices have been heard.

Afterthoughts on the Ziegfeld "Hot-Cha!" opening at the National Monday night:

From this point forward, the efforts of this department will be concentrated upon perfecting a scheme whereby a magic wand may be waved in front of a piece of blank copy paper and all essential facts of important premieres, running too close to a 1 a. m. deadline for consecutive thinking, made to leap into place for transcription into type by the composing room. Under present conditions, the most important portions of the pressure-written reviews are apt to be those that are omitted!

For instance, in reciting the hit numbers that bowled the customers out of their pews on opening night, no mention whatever was made by this column of "Little Old New York," sung with devastating effect by June MacCloy, one of the most eye-filling of the platinum blondes. Miss MacCloy intoned this melodious masterpiece of nostalgic discontent in a deep and throaty contralto that fairly raised gooseflesh on the assembled multitude and caused those pleasant little tingles to gallop up and down its collective spine. Credit for so deft and disarming a performance should have appeared here a full 24 hours ago.

The good Doctor Ziegfeld has gone and dug himself up another pair of Ann Pennington knees. They are the personal property of Senorita Revva Reyes and were unveiled for the first time on an American stage Monday evening.

It would be a pretty swell idea if the cast of "Hot-Cha!" could be made to get together upon the proper pronunciation of "Ramon," the character name borne by Senor Tito Coral in the piece. Mr. Gleckler, cast as Jose Diaz, an ostensible Mexican, persists in calling it "Ray-mon," while Senorita Reyes and most of the others pronounce it "Rah-moan," with a heavy accent on the second syllable. The latter, I believe, will be found to be correct.

Contrary to expectation, Buddy Rogers does not lead a band or play a variety of musical instruments any time during the two acts—or at least did not on opening night. His only approach to instrumentalism was a brief snatch of a hotcha chorus, strummed on a guitar. Mr. Rogers, by the way, makes a splendid stage appearance, but needs to submit to a few limbering exercises and untrack himself. Personable and talented, but just a little stiff in the joints, I thought. An excellent job, nevertheless, for the first time out, back of those footlights.

A corking instrumentation in the orchestra, what with that xylophone, vibraphone and all. The pianist is almost worth a spotlight for his own personal distinction.

Bert Lahr, the featured comic, still employs some of the lusty, smoker-circuit methods that he brought up from burlesque, but the lad is funny—you can't take that away from him. For example, who would ever think of making "mackinaw" out of "matador?"

Tom Norton, John McNamee, John McBride and such other representatives of the Broadway ticket agencies as were present Monday night at the National, were unanimous in their view that Ziegfeld has gone and done it again in "Hot-Cha!" The new musical comedy is a sure-fire "buy" by these shrewd clockers of public taste and opinion.

Morris Green, who presents Lenore Ulric in "The Social Register" at the National next week, and has been in town since Saturday, conferring with Joe Cook, appearing at Loew's Palace, on his next musical comedy starring vehicle, set sail for New York yesterday afternoon on one of the Eastern Air Transport Company's most palatial ships, taking off from Hoover Field. When Mr. Green moves, he moves fast.

The lobby of the Fox Theater will present a Colonial scene when the George Washington Bicentennial program opens Friday. Many valuable pictures, busts, plaques and other mementoes of the First President have already arrived at the theater and only await being placed.

Included in the collection are two large paintings on velvet—one of Mount Vernon and one of Wakefield—three large plaques, replicas of works by Houdon, and numerous other oils, shrines and objects of art, all of which have a direct bearing on the life of Washington.

The ladies and gentlemen of the local dramatic desks were guests at a preview screening of Tod Browning's production of "Freaks," coming into the Palace on Friday, at the Columbia Theater last midnight and have been flicking midgets off their typewriters ever since!

Concertgoers of Washington will have their first opportunity this afternoon, at Constitution Hall, to hear an aria from Romano Romani's widely discussed opera, "Fedra," which was given its London premier last summer at Covent Garden, with Rosa Ponselle in the title role. At her Constitution Hall concert today, Miss Ponselle will sing "O Divina Afrodite," one of the outstanding arias of the Romani opera and one in which she made English musical history.

This concert appearance will be the only opportunity local music lovers will have to hear the Metropolitan's great soprano this season. Ponselle was scheduled to make an appearance here this spring with the Metropolitan Opera, but the Metropolitan spring "season" being cancelled, this will be Ponselle's final Washington appearance of the year.

I don't like to wake you up, but it's time you were thinking about painting that back fence!

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF MRS. FISKE AT 66

Beloved Actress Succumbs at Nurse's Home; Spent 6 Decades in Theater.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske is dead.

The beloved actress, whose emotional acting won her universal acclaim during threescore years, died as she wished, away from the distractions of Broadway's bright lights.

Only a nurse and her companion of many years, Miss Mae Coxe, were at her bedside when she died yesterday. Her husband, Harrison Grey Fiske, had left just before she breathed her last at Miss Coxe's home in Hollis, Long Island.

Though a year ago she gave her husband instructions to be followed after death, she made her last appearance in a theater as late as November 7. Her physician, alarmed at her condition, ordered her to cancel an engagement in "Against the Wind," at the Blackstone Theater in Chicago and she came to Hollis.

After a rest, she seemed to improve from the auto-intoxication—intestinal poisoning—that threatened her life. She gained weight and became more cheerful, but complications developed and a week ago her heart weakened. A blood clot stopped its action at noon yesterday.

Mr. Fiske waited until the body was removed to an undertaking establishment in Manhattan today to announce her death and to say that her desire for the cremation of her body would be complied with.

"She desired," Mr. Fiske said, "as little ceremony as possible and her wishes will be followed. Her instructions were very definite.

Those instructions were written last spring before Mrs. Fiske went to California. She asked that none view her body and that there be no ceremony when it is taken to the Fiske apartment in West Eleventh street, probably Thursday.

Thus closed the career that started when she first played a juvenile role in Little Rock, Ark., before her third birthday. During the 63 years that followed she became one of the greatest emotional actresses of her time.

She last played in New York in a farce comedy, "Ladies of the Jury." It opened in October, 1929, was moderately successful and was taken on tour, playing Washington and other cities.

Her new play—and last, "Against the Wind," appeared for two weeks in Rochester, N. Y., and for another two weeks in Cleveland. It was to have been taken to several other cities after its Chicago run which was halted in its second week.

RIEHLE TO ADDRESS LIFE UNDERWRITERS

Columbia Group Will Meet Tomorrow; Car Loadings Show Increase.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The February meeting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association, to be held at the Carlton Hotel tomorrow afternoon beginning at 12:30 o'clock, will be addressed by Theodore M. Riehle, whose subject will be "Prospecting in 1932."

The association is happy to announce it has been possible to obtain Mr. Riehle to address its members again. It is the opinion of those who heard Mr. Riehle last year that no address was more helpful and stimulating than the one he delivered.

Mr. Riehle is one of the largest personal producers in the United States, is a successful agency manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters. He has been a consistent member of the "Million Dollar Round Table" and last year was chairman of that group at the national convention in Pittsburgh. He holds the certified life underwriter degree and is in constant demand as a speaker before organizations of life underwriters throughout the United States.

Challenge to Underwriters.

"The calendar year 1932," local association officers state, "offers a challenge to every underwriter. This challenge will be successfuly met by not only the worker but the worker and the thinker. Mr. Riehle is an ideal example of the type of underwriter who has been successful in planning, thinking and executing his job, and no phase of our business is more important in 1932 than proper prospecting methods. In view of Mr. Riehle's prominence and the undoubted value of his message, it is urged that every member of the local association be present."

The Eastern Building and Loan Association yesterday received its credentials as a sustaining member of the American Savings, Building and Loan Institute. The institute is the educational and research unit of the country's home financing industry as embodied in the 11,777 building and loan associations, with $9,000,000,000 in assets.

In financial circles the associations affiliated with this organization are considered leaders in progressive service to their shareholders, who are home borrowers and systematic savers. Sent by Philip Liebet, of Shreveport, La., who is president of the institute, the local association's membership credentials are in the form of a handsomely engrossed certificate. William N. Payne, jr., is secretary of the association.

Night Classes Weekly.

"The Eastern Association is one of 800 affiliated with the educational work of this business," according to officials. "This institute trains workers to give fuller service to home owners and systematic savers of the country. Night classes are held weekly in cities where the institute has its chapters, and the enrollment is close to 1,200.

"Three basic courses in building and loan fundamentals, accounting and appraising are offered by the institute, and several elective courses, including business forecasting, public speaking, State legislation and judicial decisions charting the course of building and loan associations, and advertising and business development."

The institute, which is affiliated with the United States Building and Loan League, will hold its ninth annual convention in Shreveport February 19 and 20. Among the topics for discussion will be the Hoover home loan bank bill now before Congress.

Week's Car Loadings.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on February 6 totaled 574,756 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. This was an increase of 13,599 cars above the preceding week, but 144,297 cars below the corresponding week in 1931 and 311,945 cars under the same period two years ago.

Loading of revenue freight in 1932, compared with the previous years, follows:

	1932.	1931.
Four weeks in January	2,269,875	2,873,211
Week ended February 6	574,756	719,053
Total	2,844,631	3,592,264

CONNECTICUT AVENUE

for ONE Outstanding Feature . .

PRICES are lower, in many of its shops, than in downtown stores for merchandise of the same quality . . . selections as alluring and varied as on Fifth Avenue are available — at ordinary store prices.

This is a fact that many do not realize—as it is a natural assumption that stores patronized by the wealthy and socially prominent are higher in price.

There is a very sound reason WHY Connecticut Avenue prices SHOULD be lower. Rents are ACTUALLY LOWER than in the heart of the downtown section. Stocks are not as large as downtown stores have to carry—but they include 100% WANTED merchandise, in LARGER assortment. Thus, overhead in Connecticut Avenue stores is appreciably lower.

Connecticut Avenue shops, known for better merchandise, where discriminating purchasers seek the newest—and know they will find the finest quality—invite your patronage. KOCSIS PUNCHES WAY TO DECISION OVER LANDERS

HUNGARIAN FIGHTER PLEASES 2,000 WITH WIN AT ALEXANDRIA

Landers Is Target for Fast Left Hook in Speedy Bout.

Decision Unanimous; Burns Beats Jallos in Semifinal.

By JACK ESPEY.

A LEATHER-SLINGING fool, this lean, black-haired Hungarian champion Antol Kocsis, administered a boxing and slugging lesson to Billy Landers, blond Norfolk bantamweight, to earn an unanimous decision from a referee and two judges last night in an eight-round bout that thrilled 2,400 patrons of the Day Nursery Athletic Association in Portner's Arena, Alexandria.

Kocsis demonstrated his right to every flowery word of praise that marked his advance publicity, exhibiting all the known punches—and landing them—at the expense of the aggressive, popular Virginian. It was Landers' second successive loss to one of pugilism's elite in the last five weeks, the Norfolk lad having met a decisive defeat at the hands of Midget Wolgast, flyweight king, in his previous performance.

But while absorbing this punishment, enough for three fighters and a half-dozen fights, Landers never quit trying with his ever-dangerous right hand, and the fact that he refused to give ground in the face of a steady fire increased rather than diminished his popularity with the fans. They cheered him, hit or miss, and miss he did plenty.

Kocsis Elusive Target

Truly like a champion, Kocsis feinted his foe into openings for blows from either hand, bobbed and weaved his way through Lander's none too strong defense for effective punching at close range, and rolled, ducked and sidestepped from Billy's shots to leave the Norfolk boy offbalance.

At times Landers managed to connect glancingly with his right, but when he did Kocsis countered with a flood of left jabs and hooks to both head and body. With a less durable person Kocsis would have played the old leather lullaby.

Landers, in the writer's opinion, won only one round. This, the second, found Billy countering with some jolting rights to Antol's head after the Hungarian had left-handed his way into an early lead.

Desperate, goaded into fury by Kocsis' tantalizing lefts, Landers lashed out fiendishly with his right in the fifth round in an effort to catch his opponent on the chin. But Kocsis was too clever, forcing Billy to miss by several inches as he slipped the intended destruction, while the partisan crowd, forgetting its duty to Landers, burst into applause.

Manager Insists On Judges

It was the first time in more than a month that a Day Nursery bout was judged with the aid of two judges, but the exception was made at the insistence of Chippie Grill, manager of Kocsis and Louie Jallos, who dropped a close decision to Bobby Burns in the semifinal. Grill loudly squawked at Referee Heine Miller's decision against Jallos, who was making his initial appearance in Alexandria.

Judging solely from the deafening boos that greeted the decision, Jallos was entitled to the decision, but Miller defended his view of the fight, claiming that Burns' consistent forcing earned the edge.

However, Jallos, on The Post scoresheet was credited with winning four rounds and getting an even break in another. His straight rights to the body and a jab that was usually in Burns' face seemed to offset the Baltimore lightweight's boring-in methods. Burns crashed his own right many times on Jallos' face but just as often the Cleveland Greek rolled with the punch and countered effectively with a left hook.

Jallos showered lefts on Burns in the third round and drew blood from his nose and mouth. A burning right also struck Burns, causing him to wobble against the ropes. Then the Baltimorean rallied and rocked Jallos with similar blows to win the advantage in the fourth and fifth sessions. The Greek dealt out severe body punishment in the sixth, sending straight rights to Burns' ribs that resounded throughout the arena.

Young Van Wins By Knockout

Three knockouts and a draw were the results of the preliminary battling, one of the sudden finishes being of the technical variety. Young Van, Washington middleweight, made his debut as a pro and stopped Johnny Edwards, Warrenton, Va., in 1:40 of the first round with a two-fisted attack.

Billy Essinger, local lightweight, dropped Al Marto in 1:30 of the second for the full count, and Gabe Novas, Filippino flyweight, scored his third successive knockout in the same ring by flooring Young Kid McShea, ex-service champion from Fort Meade, in 1:40 of the second. Bingo Brodie, Washington, and Johnny Brock, Baltimore, both middleweights, finished four rounds all even.

JIM LONDOS AGAIN.

Baltimore, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—It took Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestler, 32 minutes 20 seconds here tonight to throw George Kotsonaros in the main event of the week's wrestling card. He used an inside crotch and body slam. Londos weighed 202 and Kotsonaros 198.

STRANGLER LEWIS WINS.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, of California, threw Matros Kirilenko, of Russia, with a head lock in 45 minutes 43 seconds, in a feature wrestling match tonight. Lewis weighed 238 pounds, Kirilenko 214.

Vanka Zelesniak, 216, Russia, pinned Jim Corrigan, 210, California, in 14:40, with a body slam.

BALTIMORE Y. LISTS MAT TRIALS

S. Atlantic A. A. U. in Olympic Try-outs March 19.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Olympic wrestling tryout for the Maryland, Virginia, and lower Delaware district will be held at the Baltimore Y. M. C. A. gymnasium March 19 in connection with the South Atlantic A. A. U. wrestling championships.

Neil Coburn, chairman of the A. A. U. mat committee, in making the announcement today of the date for the tryout, said most of the colleges, Y. M. C. A.'s, and prominent athletic clubs of the district have been invited to send representatives to the meet.

Champions will be decided in eight classes, he said, and the winners who show more than usual promise will be sent to the nationals, at Columbus, Ohio, the first week in July for the final Olympic tryout.

Navy, Maryland U. Get Bids to Compete

Due to the large entry expected because of the opportunity for gaining a place on the United States Olympic Team, he said it is planned to hold the preliminaries in the afternoon and the finals that night.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the plans of the Naval Academy. The Middies in the past have not taken part in the South Atlantic championships, except in Olympic years. In 1928 they entered the meet and won several individual titles.

Invitations and entry blanks have been sent to Navy, Johns Hopkins, University of Maryland, Loyola (Baltimore), Western Maryland, St. John's (Annapolis), Washington College, the Medical College of Virginia, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Virginia Military Institute, Washington and Lee, Delaware University, University of Virginia, University of Richmond, and Randolph-Macon.

Bids also have been forwarded to the Y. M. C. A.'s of Richmond, Lynchburg, Petersburg, Norfolk, Hagerstown, and Cumberland and to several amateur athletic clubs.

A. A. U. Tourney Entries To Close Next Tuesday

The dead line for entries in the big District A. A. U. basket ball tournament is approaching by leaps and bounds, and the hundreds of amateur players in the city have only until next Tuesday night to register themselves and their teams for the giant event which starts March 1 at Tech High Gymnasium.

The tournament, which will last a month, is expected to draw 100 teams, ranging from the 100-pound division up through the 115, 130, 145 and unlimited men's and the junior and senior girls' divisions.

For full information on the entrance necessities call at the Sports Department of The Post or the Boys Club.

4-MAN SLED TITLE KEPT BY U. S.

Homburger Bob Wins Over Roumanians in Daring Flight.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Freed from Olympic crowds and supervision, five teams of bobsledders turned loose all their dazzling speed on the slippery side of Mount Van Hoevenberg today to crown Harry Homburger's four "Red Devils" champions of North America for the second consecutive year.

On a track brushed clean of snow and covered with ice, but still not fast enough to suit them, Homburger whipped his sled through the vertical banks and hairpin turns of the two heats in total time of 3 minutes 48.34 seconds, to beat the reckless Roumanian, Lieut. Alexander Papana, and his aviator mates, for the title by just under three seconds.

Homburger shot down the mile and a half slide the first time in one minute, 55 seconds flat, and the second time in 1:53.34, just short of his world record of 1:52 for the course.

Papana Takes Curves at Dangerous Speed

Lieut. Papana, starting slow with a first heat in 1:58.30, finished taking every curve at breakneck speed up on the rims, whirling around the top of Whiteface and Shady Corner at 70 miles an hour, to finish in 1:53.01, fastest heat of the day.

With Lake Placid bare of the throngs that jammed the village for the Olympics, less than 1,000 persons saw the five teams fly down the course in a grim effort to prove that European domination during the international games, packing the $225,000 slide with loose snow, had spoiled the racing.

And in proof of their contention, both Homburger and Papana came down at speeds that surpassed anything done in any two heats of the four-man Olympic competition, which Billy Fiske won yesterday in a sort

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth trimmed one stroke from par to win his opening match in the Snell Isle amateur golf tournament here today.

The Bambino carded a 70, bagging four birdies to win from Charles Whitman, Oneida, N. Y., 7 and 5.

Wilke Will Manage Winston-Salem Club

Winston-Salem, N. C., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Harry A. Wilke, who captained the Bridgeport Club, of the Eastern League last season, will manage the Winston-Salem Club of the Piedmont League this year, it was announced today.

Both the Bridgeport and Winston-Salem clubs will be operated as farms by the New York Giants.

Fifty players will report here for spring training April 1. Some of them will be assigned to the Bridgeport club which will do its warming up here.

Daily Totalisator Bets Averaging $144,095

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The average daily play through the Australian totalisator for the first 29 days of the Hialeah Park race meeting was $144,095, according to the announcement of Mortimer M. Mahoney, director of mutuels, today.

Last week's daily average of $171,427, was by far the best 7-day record of the meeting. This week's average is expected to rise still higher as yesterday's play was $180,734, the best Monday since the meeting opened January 13.

Carl Reynolds Signs 1932 Nat Contract

Few of the Washington Club's regulars have come into the 1932 fold so far so that it undoubtedly was with considerable pleasure that President Clark Griffith, now vacationing at the Biloxi training base, last night, flashed the good news to the Capital City that Carl Reynolds, the outfielder obtained from the White Sox, has returned his signed contract.

Reynolds is looked upon as one of the big "ifs" in the Nats' chances of doing something worth while in the coming race. In 1930, the fly-chaser was the fourth best batter in the American League, trailing only Simmons, Ruth and Gehrig in the averages. Last year he dropped back to around .300. The Nats are counting on Carl, who will draw Sam Rice's old berth in right, to do a comeback in view of his jump from a tail-end club to a contending one. And he must do so, if Manager Walter Johnson's boys are to do better, or even as well, as they did last season.

D. C. COLLEGE TEAMS ON TRIPS

G. U., C. U. Trackmen, Card Boxers to See Action.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY runners and boxers hit the road for foreign parts today, the former to engage in the New York A. C. games in New York tonight and the latter to meet Bucknell's mittmen tomorrow night in Lewisburg, Pa. Georgetown University also is to be represented in the New York track games with Vic Burke competing in an invitation 500-yard dash and Al Kelly, 70-yard sprint champion, in the 60-yard dash.

Coach Dorsey Griffith has named the following Cardinal trackmen to make the trip to Gotham: Johnny Lyons, sprinter, and Capt. Gayle McGuigan, John Hickey, Peter Dranginis and Tom Campbell, who compose a 1-mile relay team. Lyons will run against Kelly and other sprint stars, including Emmett Toppino, New Orleans flash who at present leads the dash stars in Eastern competition.

Eight boxers are being taken to Lewisburg by Coach Eddie Lafond, the extra man being Tom Gearty, heavyweight, who will be available in a pinch as substitute for Hugh Flynn. The others are Reuben Miro, bantamweight; Bill Calabrese, feather; Capt. Harry DiGiacomo, lightweight; Frank Stines, welter; Johnny Stapleton, middle, and Denny Pyne, light heavy.

The Cardinal boxers will be seeking their third successive match victory of the season. Last year they were tied by Bucknell and in 1930 the Lewisburg boys were responsible for the Cardinals' only loss of that campaign.

D. C. Legion Boxers Meet Baltimoreans

The American Legion battlers, of Washington, will meet a mixed boxing team of three Baltimore clubs tomorrow night in the regular monthly Congressional Country Club bouts. Bouts will range from 112 to 175 pounds.

The feature tussle mates Jack Baxter, all-high center at Tech, with Stan Crielieski. Baxter won a battering decision the last time these two met.

In another bout, Harry Hass will meet Frankie Capp.

Star Milers Renew Feud Tonight

Venzke and Lermond Meet in Feature of N. Y. A. C. Games.

New Mark Scented; Spitz May Boost High Jump Mark.

By STUART CAMERON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—A new "mile of the century" is scheduled in New York tomorrow night and it's the only thing metropolitan track fans talked about today.

It's the Baxter mile, premier event of the New York A. C. games, one of the three most prominent meets held in New York each season.

There are two main entrants in the Baxter mile—Gene Venzke, of Boyertown, Pa., and Leo Lermond, the N. Y. A. C.'s own. Venzke holds the world record at 4:11.2, and he beat out Lermond in the Millrose games mile event in capturing it.

Venzke had calmly assured sports writers that he was about to set a new record, and the promise was largely played in the papers hereabouts. Nobody seemed to bother to ask Leo what he thought about his own chances for victory or for a record.

Fans Scent New Record

So now they come to their second important duel, and neither is making any promises. Venzke has his record, and Lermond was clocked at 4:12 (which equaled the old record held by Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray) in the same race. But while the Venzke-Lermond feud simmers quietly, the track enthusiast is hoping for a still lower mile record, and the intense rivalry between the principals may produce it.

Venzke and Lermond will be paced by at least four capable milers. They are Ray Conger, veteran of the Illinois A. C.; Young Frank Crowley, of Manhattan; Carl Coan, the University of Pennsylvania flier, who came into his own as a star miler just one year ago, and Glenn Dawson, speedy Oklahoman.

Spitz Threatens Own Mark.

The secondary feature is the high jump, and it is of consequence because the name of George Spitz heads the entry list. Spitz has twice broken his own world's indoor record this season. He held the mark at 6 feet 7 inches from last season, and in the Millrose games boosted the record to 6 feet 7⅝ inches. He improved this shining mark with a leap of 6 feet 8½ inches in the Boston A. A. games last Saturday. The new mark also bettered the outdoor record held by Fred Osborne, of the Illinois A. C. Osborne's outdoor record is 6 feet 8¼ inches.

Spitz has increased his ceiling with such astounding ease that every time he jumps his own mark will be in danger.

Baseball Heads Confer On Lower Rail Rates

Cage Tourney Feb. 22 At Southeast Center

Southeast Community Center, located at Hine Junior High School (old Eastern High), Seventh and C streets southeast, will hold a closed basket ball tournament next Monday, limited to teams using the gym under its supervision.

There are eight teams who use the center as their home court. The tournament will be run off in two sections, the winner of each to compete for the championship of the center. In the first section the Kellys will meet Interior at 1 o'clock, followed by Congress Heights and the Western Wildcats. In the second section Keller A. C. will play Sigma Mu Sigma at 2:25 p. m., followed by the contest between the Perry and Marion Athletic Clubs.

Pearson & Crain, jewelers, have presented the center with a beautiful silver loving cup, to be known as the "Pearson & Crain Trophy," that will be presented to the champions at the close of the tournament.

Grid Officials Seen Aided By Changes

Rules Chief Declares Revisions Make Job of Referees Easier.

Game Now Safe for Schoolboy Teams, Says Hall.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The far-reaching changes in the national gridiron code for 1932 not only will further safeguard players, in the belief of Edward K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, but make it easier, rather than more difficult for the officials and check defensive tactics that have contributed all too heavily to the toll of casualties.

"You ask me, first, whether I think the game now is safe for the average schoolboy player," responded Hall, "and my reply is, without qualification or reservation, yes.

"The game is now as safe for high school boys as it is for older players, providing always that the boys are physically fit and that they have the proper supervision, especially as to the treatment of any injuries. If I had 10 boys of high school age I would urge every one to play football if he had the chance."

Lightens Officials' Responsibility

"Secondly, and for several reasons, I feel certain the new rules will lighten, instead of adding to the responsibilities of the officials.

"The 'dead ball' rule now is virtually automatic. Moreover, the distinction between legal and illegal use of hands, where any and all 'striking' becomes a foul, is now so clear that there can be no misinterpretation.

"Lastly, the punishment for illegal use of hands is now so severe, involving disqualification of the player and a penalty of half the distance to the goal line, that no coach will instruct or advise his players to take any chances."

Of paramount importance in the new rules is the abolishment of the rolling block and flying tackle, in Hall's opinion. He does not hesitate to answer the few critics whose first reaction has been antagonistic.

"The committee's action here was based upon thorough analysis of hundreds of injury cases, minor as well as major," the chairman said. "This analysis showed up conclusively that a great number of accidents were due to the flying tackle or the rolling block. Curiously enough, our reports showed it was the player making such a block or tackle, not the objective player, who suffered the injury, in nearly all cases.

"We satisfied ourselves, in short, that the whole method of diving at a player, designed to bring him down hard, is dangerous. Our evidence showed that two players were fatally hurt, although they missed their man entirely and hit nothing but the ground.

"A great many coaches, in high schools as well as colleges, have taught their players to leave their feet in going for the object. Overzealousness prompts many players otherwise to risk the flying tackle. The new rule is designed to check this dangerous trend. Its application may call for some hairline decisions, but this is a minor consideration, when the full facts are understood."

Time-Outs Check Substitutions

As to the new substitution rule, permitting a withdrawn player to reenter the game in any subsequent period, Mr. Hall calls the attention of critics to the provision that checks, rather than encourages indiscriminate replacements.

"No substitution can be made except when there is timeout," he explained. "Thus, if time is not called for any other reason, a team desiring to make a substitution will be obliged to take a timeout for the purpose or, if its allottment of three timeouts per half is exhausted, take a five-yard penalty. This is bound to discourage unnecessary substitutions."

Notre Dame Sees Bigger Linemen, More Injuries

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, head man of football at Notre Dame, sadly shook his head today as he digested the new rule outlawing aggressive use of the hands on the defense.

"The other rule changes made by the national football rules commit-

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

CHAMP PICKENS, the estimable sports director of the Bicentennial, who has followed football for 40 years, man and boy, heartily approves of some of the six changes in the football rules announced this week and of others he is extremely skeptical.

Mr. Pickens, for the benefit of this department, makes a categorical appraisal of the six changes and his opinions are being set down for what they are worth, or what he thinks they are worth.

He deals first with the rule prohibiting hard or unyielding substances in knee or elbow pads.

"Many teams have long since eliminated heavy uniforms and extra padding. This rule was evidently thrown into the general revision for good measure."

Secondly is the rule permitting the ball to be put into play at the kick-off by a place kick, a drop kick or a punt with the added provision that at least five men on the receiving team must be restricted to their own 45-yard line until the ball is kicked, thus preventing a wedge from forming.

Mr. Pickens comments as follows: "Should result in the side winning the toss electing to kick instead of receive. The rule will detract from the game a spectacular thrill that is always the joy of the football fan.

Thirdly is the banishment of the flying tackle and flying block, which is defined as diving at or throwing the body through the air. It will be legal for a tackler to leave his feet only at the instant he makes contact with an opponent.

Mr. Pickens' reaction on this number is thus: "Flying tackles, while dangerous, are at all times necessary to get a man who happens to be in the open field, and the rule will be often forgotten by the player, when seemingly the only way to stop a sure touchdown is by leaving his feet."

Fourthly, the rule liberalizing substitutions comes under the scrutiny of Pickens. Under the new provisions, a player who is withdrawn is allowed to return to the game once in any subsequent period.

Here is the verdict: "This rule will permit the temporary withdrawal of stars, players who otherwise would continue in the game, but who may now be reserved on the bench until the crucial moment arrives and their energies conserved. It should result in less time taken out, thus speeding up the game and reducing the number of injuries resulting from leaving in players who are unfit to continue but whom coaches were afraid to replace because they were not able to return to the game.

The fifth new change in the rules is that portion which declares the ball dead when any part of the ball carrier's body touches the ground with the exception of his hands or his feet, whether or not he is in the grasp of his opponent, thus preventing the practice of "piling on" by opponents who want to make sure that the runner is down, with many injuries resulting.

Mr. Pickens has the following to say in that respect: "The new rule will make acrobats out of the players. The effort to keep arms or knees from touching the ground will be worth the price of admission. They might call in a wrestling referee to pass on this part of the game."

Sixthly, but not lastly, Pickens deals with the rule prohibiting the use of hands, wrists or elbows by linemen on the defense who are forbidden to strike an opponent on the head, neck or face under penalty of disqualification and ejection from the game.

Pickens is of the opinion that "This undoubtedly is an excellent rule but the penalty is so severe that officials will hesitate to enforce it unless they are sure the offense is not unintentional."

In summation, Mr. Pickens asserts that "The rules undoubtedly will remove a bit of roughness and possibly result in fewer injuries, but football is a he-man's game and the new rules will remove many a spectacular feature and result in much criticism of the officials whose lot threatens to be far from a happy one."

Rains at Agua Caliente Force Lapse in Racing

San Diego, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Continued heavy rains caused announcement by officials of the Agua Caliente Race Track this morning that racing would be discontinued until Friday. This is the second time during the present meeting that rains and a muddy track have caused a discontinuance of racing for three days.

Host Is Elected Football Captain at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 16 (U.P.).—Paul Host, of La Crosse, Wis., was elected tonight to be captain of the Notre Dame University Football Team in 1932. Host, a junior, was elected at the annual meeting at which monograms were given out to last year's stars. He is an end. Ed Kosky, also an end, was Host's chief opponent for the captaincy. Several ballots were taken before Host received a majority.

TECH VS. G. W. CUBS.

Tech and the George Washington University Freshmen will meet today in the feature court game involving a local high school. The game will be played at Tech at 3:30 o'clock.

In other games today St. Alban's takes on Landon at St. Alban's. Silver Spring meets Georgetown Prep at Garrett Park and Devitt tangles with Gonzaga at Gonzaga.

8 Days Spent With Dempsey Reveal Much About Mauler

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—Eight days on the road with Jack Dempsey and some conclusions therefrom:

That Dempsey hasn't made up his own mind yet about whether he'll attempt to win back the heavyweight title.

That Dampsey will meet Primo Carnera in a regulation fight at Reno, Nev., July 4 as sure as any match ever was five months away.

That if Schmeling defeats Sharkey in their battle this summer public opinion will sway Dempsey into meeting Schmeling for the title.

That if Sharkey wins Dempsey will retire for good.

That Dempsey really believes he can knock out both Carnera and Schmeling.

That Dempsey is not within 50 per cent of the condition he might attain if he halted his exhibition tour and went into seclusion for two months of training.

That Thursday night's 4-round exhibition between Dempsey and Levinsky will prove a real fight, and that one or the other or both will be on the floor.

That Dempsey knows he will never be anywhere near as good as he was when he beat Willard, Miske, Carpentier or Firpo, but that the caliber of present-day heavyweights and their lack of punch makes him believe he has a good chance to succeed where Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries and Willard failed.

That Dempsey can stop any opponent he can hit when he's in first-class shape, but that he wouldn't stand much chance in a long fight against an opponent who is a clever boxer.

That Dempsey does not concentrate his attack on the body as much as he did when he was champion.

That Dempsey can absorb as much punishment as any present day heavyweight, if his legs will hold him up over the route.

That Dempsey can look terrible in one round, and look like the Dempsey of old in the next round.

That Dempsey is the original "prosperity kid" and that he can start a flow of ready money quicker than any other individual in the country.

Tipsters' "Can't Lose" System Nets Postoffice Fraud Charges

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Morris Ostfeld, postoffice inspectors said today as they arraigned him on mail fraud charges, had a race track "tipster" scheme on which he couldn't lose.

The difficulty was that most of his clients could, and did lose. They complained and the inspectors got busy.

Inspectors said he sent out 14,000 bulletins of the Star Turf Exchange through the mails.

Each stated that "people in the know have been preparing a certain horse for three months, they have been holding him back but they are going to let him loose for a killing. He is going to be at long odds. This horse is going to run in the sixth race at Hialeah, February 1."

The notice added that the signer, "Sandy J. O'Rourke," asked nothing for the tip, but specified that if the horse won he was to receive the proceeds of a $2 bet.

Therein lay the greatness of the system, said the inspectors, because the "suckers" figured they were losing nothing by taking the tip.

Investigating, it was found that every horse in the race had been mentioned in various bulletins. No matter which won, he was sure of a profit, if his clients kept the agreement.

Ostfeld, said the inspectors, did a one-man business with a stenographer to do the mailing.

Lafayette, William-Mary Enter 27 Men in C. U. Meet

EIGHT entries from Lafayette College and nineteen from William and Mary College were received yesterday by Coach Dorsey Griffith, in charge of the Catholic University indoor track meet scheduled for February 27 in the spacious Brookland Gymnasium.

Among Lafayette's personnel are Fred Nagle and Bernard Siegfried, both of whom rank among the best quarter-milers in Pennsylvania. Nagle aroused interest last month when he won the 400-meter race in the Jefferson Club games in 50 4-5 seconds. Siegfried is to compete in the Ryan thousand, feature of the meet, as well as in the mile relay.

Mike Sheridan and John Ward are the other members of the Lafayette quartet which won a relay in the recent Millrose games in 3 minutes 38 seconds.

Other Lafayette runners who will appear in the carnival a week from Saturday night are Lewis Head, in the 2-mile run; Fred Clarke, in the Abbey Club invitation sprints; Millard Libby, in the Ryan thousand, and James Dyson, in the relays.

William and Mary's delegation is headed by Garnett Smithers, and Evan Shaw, sprinters, and Lloyd Johnson, middle distance runner. The remaining William and Mary entrants are Stanley Hemmingway, sprinter; John Clarke, Irving Upson, Arthur Hart and John Penello, quarter-milers; Barrett Roberts, C. K. Sparrow and John McDonald, half-milers; William Renn and Stanley Doane, 2-milers; John Bacon, high jumper, and Little, Cifelli, Talley, Bishop and Merriam, freshmen quarter-milers who will compose a relay team.

4 More Yankees Sign, Babe Ruth Excepted

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees came to terms today with four more of their athletes, leaving only Babe Ruth, Bill Dickey, Ben Chapman and Lyn Lary conspicuously among the holdouts.

The latest in the fold are Earle Combs, veteran centerfielder; Charlie Ruffing, right-handed pitching star; Eddie Farrell, infielder obtained from Los Angeles; and Frank Nekola, southpaw recalled from Jersey City.

AT ODDS-ON, WINS FOURTH IN ROW AT HIALEAH

ECK PRICES SPIRITED WEIGHT Carrier

Sansarica, Conceded 24½ Pounds, Finishes Second.

Choice Pays Second Shortest Price of Meeting, $2.30.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Evening, George D. Widener's crack filly and highly favored to win the Florida Derby, gave further evidence of her class when she sped to her fourth straight score in the featured Deland Handicap of one mile here this afternoon. The Daughter of St. James, giving chunks of weight by the scale to her four rivals, won by a length and a half over the Howe Stable's Sansarica, while the Wheatley Stable's Slambang took third honors two additional lengths behind. Arras and Quillan completed the quintet.

Evening gave Sansarica 24½ pounds by the scale but always held the race under control. She was the second shortest price of the meeting, returning $2.30 for $2 straight and the same price to place. The time was 1:37 2-5.

Evening Never Hard Pressed

Alfred Robertson broke the prohibitive favorite on top and let her open up a wide early lead. Evening was not under pressure and through the backstretch she was under snug restraint as Arras and Sansarica raced heads apart on her trail. Arras had enough after reaching the stretch but Sansarica continued well, although never able to menace the winner. Slambang closed many lengths in the last quarter mile to beat Arras.

The race had an international flavor. Quillan, a French winner, making his first American appearance, never was a factor, but Sansarica made a very creditable showing as an English representative.

The victory on Evening gave Robertson a double for the day. He also piloted home Miss Brown, a field horse, in the second.

Spanish Play Wins Again at New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Spanish Play, winner of the Latonia Derby and second to Mate in the Arlington classic last year, won his second race of the winter season when he got up in the final strides to defeat the Southland Stable's Playtime in the Airport Purse at the Fair Grounds today.

Playtime led by two lengths going into the stretch, but Spanish Play, carrying the silks of Knebelkamp & Morris, closed like a whirlwind. He just managed to get the decision over Playtime, with E. R. Bradley's Broad Meadows third.

Back among the also-rans were C. V. Whitney's highly regarded Bargello, Mrs. W. Payne Whitney's Comstockery, a recent arrival from Hialeah Park, and Robert A. Fairbairn's Glastonbury.

With Playtime setting a fast pace through the early part of the mile race, Spanish Play was timed in 1:38 2-5. He paid $8 for $2 in the mutuels.

Popcorn Scores Fourth Victory at Havana

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—J. E. Smallman's Popcorn, one of the most consistent of the 3-year-old platers at Oriental Park, won his fourth race of the season when he captured the 1 1-16 miles features today.

A bad start marred the race, but Popcorn was away with the leaders, W. F. Axton's Old Tuck setting the early pace. Rounding the turn, Popcorn moved up and assumed command as the field straightened out in the stretch. He steadily drew away, and had plenty in reserve as he crossed the finish line, with Old Tuck second and J. E. Marone's Union W. third. Well supported in the orals, Popcorn paid 7 to 5.

Rockville Five Bows To Mount Rainier

Mount Rainier High School Basketball Team defeated Rockville last night, 24 to 11, on the home floor of the victors. The winners were never behind.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RUBRIDGE, $11.30, $4.50, $3.40; NORWALK, $3.30, $3.10; AFRIDI, $6.90.

RUBRIDGE trailed off the pace until rounding the far turn, where he moved up on the outside, wore NORWALK down in stretch run and was going away at end. NORWALK was hustled to the front on back stretch and shook off opposition at turn out of back stretch. He quit when the winner challenged. AFRIDI outgamed PHANTOM ROCK when it came to a drive. REGAL KNIGHT broke rapidly and showed early speed.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:51½. Winner, H. Teller Archibald's b. f. (2), by Wesley Hogan—Sweep Stick. Trained by J. I. Smith. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:35 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS BROOM (field), $15.30, $5.30, $3.40; JEAN BROWN, $7.20, $7.70; NUN'S WAY, $5.10.

MISS BROOM finished full of courage when put to a drive and shook off NUN'S WAY last sixteenth. JEAN BROWN, a forward contender from the break, hung on well at end. NUN'S WAY weakened when called on. She broke fast and was in front a furlong from home. AREAWAY unseated her rider while on way to post. She broke, but immediately propped. ANIMATE tired badly. SERETTE, very slow to begin, closed big gap.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:23. Winner, J. C. Ellis' b. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ELLICE, $5.10, $3.60, $3.60; KENSINGTON, $10.30, $6.60; BROOKSIE, $5.40.

ELLICE broke fast on the rail and saved ground all the way, responded with a good effort when put to a drive and, gradually wearing KENSINGTON down, was up in the last few strides. Malley was riding the winner very close all through home stretch. KENSINGTON, hustled along from the start, had a lot taken out of her racing MEMORIES DEAR into submission. BROOKSIE outlasted the tiring MEMORIES DEAR in final stages.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Lakeland Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:52. Winner, Edgar A. Igleheart's b. g. (3), by Angon—Miss Washington. Trained by Val B. Campbell. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAY ANGON, $5.20, $2.70, $2.30; JAMES RIVER, $2.80, $2.20; THURSDAY, $2.60.

BAY ANGON, taking the lead after the break, hugged the rail and, saving ground at the turns, hung on with determination when put to a drive in stretch run. JAMES RIVER finished going very strong on the outside of leaders and was up just in time to nose out THURSDAY for the place. The latter bore out a bit at top of home stretch. He might have won. HEROVILLE tired after forcing the pace to the stretch turn.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500. DeLand Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:19. Off at 4:19½. Winner, George D. Widener's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVENING, $2.30, $2.30, out; SANSARICA, $4.30, out; SLAMBANG, out.

EVENING bounded to the front when break came and, after opening up an easy lead, was rated in front under restraint. Robertson shook her up in the final strides. SANSARICA worked his way up on the outside, shook off ARRAS at top of home stretch and finished full of courage. SLAMBANG, outrun in early stages, was taken to outside at top of home stretch and finished going very strong. He runs like a colt that might fancy going a distance. ARRAS was probably short. He tired badly after going six furlongs.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:48. Off at 4:49. Winner, Rudolph Spreckles' b. h. (5), by Guy Fortune—Ethel Vale. Trained by F. E. Kraft. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:12, 1:37 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JACK CAMPBELL, $9.40, $3.40, $2.30; GAY BIRD, $2.60, $2.10; NEGOPOLI, $2.30.

JACK CAMPBELL was rated off the pace. Kelsay waited with him until well around the far turn, where he moved up stoutly and, coming through on the inside of first two, went to the front with a rush. He was tiring at end and just lasted long enough. GAY BIRD raced in hand until making the turn for home, where he moved up on the outside of GENERAL A., made a wide turn into home stretch and swerved down to inside at end. He came again at end. NEGOPOLI easily disposed of the tiring GENERAL A. last furlong.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place, same. Went to post at 5:17. Off at 5:21. Winner, W. C. and E. W. Reichert's ch. g. (6), by John P. Grier—Coretta. Trained by W. C. Reichert. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:14, 1:39 4-5, 1:53 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRIFFIN, $9.00, $4.40, $3.10; TACK, $8.90, $4.00; TANCRED, $2.80.

GRIFFIN, off well, reached the front after a half mile, saved ground and, under ridden out tactics, held TACK safe in a mild drive. TACK worked his way up to contending position, made strong bid last quarter mile, but was not good enough. TANCRED was badly outrun for six furlongs, got clear and closed very fast when too late. FETISH lacked his usual early foot, but closed some ground. SUN MASK was showing the way when he suddenly broke down after a half mile. He was destroyed.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Hialeah Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 16.—The program at Hialeah Park tomorrow is featured by the Bahama Silver Trophy Purse, an allowance affair, which is fashioned for 4-year-olds and upward at 1 mile. The field of seven starters is fairly evenly matched and should result in a spirited contest. The customary large fields will face the barrier in the remainder of the card, which will be contested under claiming conditions.

JAZ AGE, much improved 4-year-old gelding in the J. Parmalee Stable, which scored impressively last start, is at the peak of his form and figures to carry his speed to victory in the feature. RIP VAN WINKLE showed a return to his best form recently when the W. L. Johnson color bearer finished second to Prince Tokalon. On that effort, he is selected to place. DANCING MACK appears best of the others for the show.

FIRST RACE—BOZO has shown the most consistent form of this mediocre field and is the logical choice. Secondary honors should fall to MOROCCO, with ALGARA third.

SECOND RACE—STRAIT JACKET, sporting the Joe Edward's silks, has trained well since his last outing and should show the way to his field. OLD JUDGE displayed improvement in his recent effort, and is selected for the runner-up position. WOCO is highly regarded by his connections and may prove a dangerous contender.

THIRD RACE—Mrs. V. M. Duncan's CLEAN PLAY is rated above WAR SAINT for the honors. The latter showed a splendid performance last outing and is favored for the place, with BATTLING ON a keen factor for the show end of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—JAFFA, which defeated the highly touted Traitor last start, is in prime condition, and in this field appears nicely placed. JAMBALAYA, from the W. R. Coe string, will favor the short route and figures next best. SONG HIT has not shown his best effort in recent races, but is capable of a better performance.

SIXTH RACE—MIKE CAREY has little to beat, and is selected to carry off the honors. DEDICATE is dropping down in this field and should furnish stern opposition. SWEEPMAR, which finished second last outing, may falter at the distance.

SEVENTH RACE — STARBOARD LIGHT and PARTISAN are closely rated, but should finish in that order. FAIR BILL, a consistent plater in the J. C. Fletcher string, figures best of the others.

MARYLAND U. SEEKS 14TH STRAIGHT

Meets St. John's Tonight for State Court Title.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S champion Southern Conference quintet tonight has a chance to add notably to its rapidly growing string of laurels when it meets St. John's of Annapolis, in Ritchie Coliseum. If Maryland wins the verdict will carry with it the Free State championship, and in addition will stretch the Old Line winning streak to 14 games. Action is scheduled to begin at 8:15 p. m., and will be preceded by a game between the Maryland and St. John's freshmen.

The Marylanders do not anticipate an easy game, being mindful of the fact that the Johnnies would rather defeat them than any other team in the State. Close contests between the College Park and Annapolis quintets are traditional. Maryland last year defeated St. John's, 37 to 27. None of the previous games between the two was decided by more than a 5-point margin.

Gallaudet to Play Marines

In the only other game tonight involving a Capital college five, Gallaudet will engage the Marines at Quantico, Va. The Blues hope to renew their winning ways, interrupted last Saturday when they bowed to American University.

George Washington, which suffered its first loss in 11 games at the hands of Duquesne in Pittsburgh last Monday night, will hold a scrimmage this afternoon in preparation for its clash with Wake Forest on the H street floor tomorrow night.

J. C. C. Wrestlers Meet 'Y' for Title

Bouts Involving D. C. Team Crown Listed Tonight in Center Gym.

The Y. M. C. A. Wrestling Team will be out for blood and bone bending tonight when it meets up with the Jewish Community Center grapplers at the J. C. C. in a match which will settle the team championship of the District.

Both clubs lay claim to mat superiority in the city and can produce proof. The claim of the "Y" seems a little more authentic inasmuch as it won three firsts and three seconds in the District A. A. U. championships held last year.

The "Y" team will have three champions in its ranks tonight, D. G. Shockley, who, while wrestling for the Oklahoma Aggies was unbeaten in college competition in the 115-pound class; J. Broaddus, 145-pound champion of the U. S. Scouting Fleet in 1927 and 1928, and P. Brothers, Southern Conference champion in the 155-pound class while at Washington and Lee. The "Y" coach, Harry Kirchman, was Olympic lightweight champion, 1920.

The J. C. C. team will be lead by Goldman, sensational 125-pounder whom Joe Turner has called the greatest amateur wrestler he has ever seen.

A 25-cent admission charge will be levied on the fans tonight, excepting members of the J. C. C.

Strickler Challenges Schwartz to Fight

Billy Strickler, rugged Washington light-heavyweight, issued a challenge yesterday to Billy Schwartz, pride of Alexandria, to engage in an eight or ten round bout for the 175-pound championship of the District and Virginia.

Strickler, who has done little fighting in the past 20 months, inaugurated training immediately upon speaking of his piece. "I think I will be ready for Schwartz in about three weeks and am confident I can 'take' him," stated Strickler.

It also was revealed that Strickler has bought a release from his contract with Joe Bateman, the negotiations having been completed by Attorney Joseph D. Di Leo last Monday.

Strickler came out of retirement three weeks ago to extend the clever Bob Lawson, of Newport News, in eight rounds at Portner's Arena. His last previous bout was fought in July, when he dropped a decision to Reds Barry, now a legitimate heavyweight.

Md. School for Deaf Beaten by G. U. Preps

Georgetown Prep added another victory to its impressive list yesterday afternoon at Garrett Park, when it downed the Maryland State School for the Deaf Team, 39 to 28, in a well-played tussle after leading all the way.

The Prep reserves manned the floor during much of the second half, and the Deaf School Team outscored them, but the lead the Prep regulars had established in the first half, 20 to 7, held sway.

Nee was best for the winners, while the Amberg brothers kept the Deaf School in the fray.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS. —By John Hix

"LIKE a duck takes to water," is all wet in this case.

Charles A. Hiller, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, reports an instance, showing that sometimes inherited instincts may not be as powerful as home training. On a game farm in Pennsylvania early this year a duck that had been hatched and reared among turkeys was observed to persist in roosting in trees and instead of showing signs of joy at the sight of water it showed its heels and wobbled to safer ground.

If two sound waves converge so that the condensation part of one wave meets the rarefaction part of the other, the two sounds will neutralize each other, according to Frederic J. Haskin. Strike a tuning fork and twirl it slowly about its axis. The sound will become faint four times in a revolution, where the two sound waves from the two prongs interfere with each other.

PREP SCHOOL MANAGERS MEET

Plan for Title Contests in Tourney

Event Has Support of Heads of 8 D. C. Institutions.

Games to Be Played at G. W. Gymnasium Next Week.

TWO definite steps in the direction of bigger and better basket ball for the District of Columbia will be taken tonight when representatives of the eight leading prep schools of the city meet at The Washington Post to formulate plans for the staging of the prep school court tournament February 22, 23 and 24 at George Washington University Gymnasium.

The popular practice of seeding, heretofore largely confined to tennis and golf, will invade the tournament plans tonight and will prove something of an innovation in local basket ball. Representatives of the eight schools will decide on the two teams most likely to survive the field and place them as far apart in the tournament draw as possible, to prevent their meeting before the final round, February 24.

The Post prep school tournament, which is cosponsored by George Washington University and the George Washington Bicentennial Sports Commission, will do much to bring order to the chaotic field of local prep school basket ball. Not all of the teams meet each other every season, and past claims to the title of "champion" have always been advanced with a reservation attached to it.

The Post has offered a trophy to the winning school, but medals also will be presented to the players on the winning team. All eight clubs will be the guests of George Washington University during the tournament. There will be no entrance fee for teams nor for spectators at the gate. Representatives tonight will decide whether they desire afternoon or night games.

The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Hyattsville Downs Kendall Five, 41 to 26

Hyattsville's strong young basket ball team continued its fine play yesterday by beating the Kendall School five, 41 to 26, at the Hyattsville Armory. It was the fourth straight for Hyattsville.

Cogar once more stood out for the winners, scoring 15 points.

Marines Again Beat Ft. Monroe Tossers

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Feb. 16.—For the second time in as many nights the Quantico Marines Basket Ball terrors ran wild against Fort Monroe tonight before a capacity gymnasium, downing the Monroeites by the count of 43 to 32.

It was a much better game than the night before, when the Leather Necks won by the score of 51 to 30. Wade once more carried the scoring burden of the losers, sinking eight long shots during the game. Locke and Posik were leading scorers for the winners, while the floor work of Carrington, Gaunt and McIntyre shone.

W. & M. Five Defeats Emory-Henry, 26-19

Special to The Washington Post.

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 16.—William and Mary strengthened her hold on the Virginia Conference championship here tonight by defeating a stingless Wasp outfit from Emory and Henry, 26 to 19, in one of the slowest games of the season.

Litwin, blond giant of William and Mary and third ranking State scorer, tied Roberts and Robinson, of Emory and Henry, for high score honors at 7-all. Sundin and Gallinant, of the Indians, followed with 6-all.

NEIGHBORHOOD FIVE WINS.

Kensington to Stage Bouts Tonight Despite County Ban

FOLLOWING the refusal of Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday to issue a permit for boxing at the National Guard Armory in Kensington, Brooke Grubb, promoter of the fights scheduled for tonight for the benefit of the Howitzer Company, announced last night that the fights will go on as scheduled.

The armory is Federal property and a United States military reservation, he said, and county authorities have no jurisdiction on the armory grounds. The bouts are to be held for the benefit of the company fund of the Howitzer Company, the local militia unit.

Mayor and Council
Protest

Refusal to grant the permit yesterday was inspired by protests made to the county commissioners by Mayor Frederick W. Brown and the town council, who declared the bouts to be in violation of a town ordinance which was enacted in 1930, when the soldiers tried to have boxing legalized for the town.

Mayor Brown said last night that Capt. Clarence V. Sayer, commanding the company, "is trying to put over a program of his own, without regard for the law or local authorities, and we have stopped him." He said that the town officials had appealed to State and county authorities to halt the fights.

The National Guardsmen last night planned to go ahead with the bouts tonight and practically had completed the erection of a ring and seating arrangements.

The card for tonight was announced as follows:

BOXING.

Main bout—Jack Baxter, American Legion, vs. Stanley Cielieski, Baltimore, 147 pounds.
112 pounds—George Rutt, American Legion, vs. Al Bruno, Baltimore.
118 pounds—Ralph Smith, American Legion, vs. Bump Gibson, Howitzer Company.
135 pounds—Johnny Schutz, American Legion, vs. Angelo Bradioi, Baltimore.
160 pounds—Johnny Pruzai, American Legion, vs. John Myers, Baltimore; Ernest Grissett, American Legion, vs. Cy Williams, Baltimore.

WRESTLING.

Hubert Barber, Silver Spring, vs. Tom Clayton, Chevy Chase.
Bill Chapman, Kensington, vs. Tom Long, Leonardtown.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

IT WAS a bad night for old John Pincus Record last night, as the zealous pin punishers of Washington unleashed a furious attack on the generally unattainable old boy.

For instance, in the Washington Ladies' League, at the Columbia Alleys, the Columbia team made a mighty effort and equaled the league record of 562 in their final game while beating the Keenos, 2-1.

But while they were still shaking hands over the feat, what should the Beeques do but come along and break the record with 565. Columbia retained the high game mark with 1,576.

Team results were Shamrocks, 3; University Park, 0, and Hilltop, 3; Veterans' Bureau, 0.

Bess Hoffman, of the Shamrocks, rolled a nice string of 136 and 350.

In the North Washington Church League the Emory Team, in beating Columbia Heights, broke the all-time circuit record with a 611 game.

Worth Arnold, of Emory, broke the season's mark with a game of 157.

In striking down 611 of the wooden bottles the Emory Team used Klugge, 133; Harm, 98; Arnold, 157; Russell, 104, and Hobb, 119.

The National Capital League, which usually tops this column on Wednesday mornings, was shunted down this far by the fine play of the boys and girls who do not always figure largely in the bowling spotlight.

In the N. C. L. King's Palace took all three games from Takoma Park, 567, 584 and 574 to 531, 556 and 536.

For the umpteenth time this season, the lead in The Washington Post League changed yesterday on the slick blind alleys at Lucky Strike when the first-place Agates went down to the unsung Rubies, and the dark horse Picas defeated the Minions by the same score.

The Rubies won team honors with a 551 game. Other results were Gothics, 2; Pearls, 1; Quads, 2, and Ionics, 1.

It was "2-1" night at King Pin. In the Ladies Independent League, Capitals and Kann's won by that margin over Lansburgh's and Tip Tops. In the Business Men's League, the Maccabees and Union Wall Paper defeated Lansburgh's and National Lithographers.

Figure it out and you can have it: We mean the Ladies Internal Revenus League:

S. A. C. No. 1, 1; Clearing, 2; A. R., 3; Admfnistration, 0; States, 2; Records, 1; B. T. A., 2; Service, 1.

Still more records!

At Convention Hall last night, in the East Washington Church League, the Douglas No. 2 team rolled 605 and 1,687 for league records. Barker, of Ninth No. 2, almost broke individual records with 157 and 381.

The Douglas No. 2 lineup read Reisinger, 97; Snellings, 121, Jarman, 139, Hall, 129, and M. Snellings, 119.

On top of this, in the Marine Corps League, the strong Barracks team levelled 557 and 1,647 pins for league records. Small's 146 game was high as was McElroy's 348.

Things were not so slow in the Masonic League either. Watson, of Acacia, had marks of 157 and 374; the Petworth team a 587 count and Acacia a 1,695 total.

In the Odd Fellows League, also at Convention, Vic Donaldson rolled 128 and Perce Elliott 324. Smith No. 2 had 538 and Langdon 1,532.

Beating the old season's record of 147, Coombs, of the Cardinal team of Section No. 3, North of Washington League, last night rolled 159 for a new record. He had a 367 set.

The marks were Woodside, 2, Silver Spring Paint, 1; Brightwood 2, National Cleaners and Dyers, 1; Manor 3, Wolfe Motors, 0, and Cardinals 3, Zirkle Hardware, 0.

The Painters had a 579 and the Cardinals a 1,607.

Good scores cropped up in the Insurance League. Fessenden's 144 game and 394 set was nobody's slouch, as were the 601 and 1,707 totals for the Aetna Team. Team results were Acacia 2, Aetna 1; Travelers 2, Peoples Life 1; Equitable 3, Massachusetts Mutual 1, and New York Life 2, Eureka 1.

Eastern Star Ladies League results: Mount Pleasant 2, Lebanon 1; Treaty Oak 3, Good Will 1; Columbia 2, Miriam 1; Ruth 3, Bethany 0. The Ruth Team had marks of 526 and 1,492, while Walcolm battered down 131 pins in a game and 323 in a set.

Eitzel's 143 game, McMahon's 387 set, and the 580 and 1,594 marks of the Empire Team were highlights of the Supervising Architect League.

It might have been the weather.

A thrilling triple tie, brought on by unprecedented upheavals of form last night on the Arcadia drives, has ensnarled the Columbia Heights League. Swan's, who were out in front, dropped all three games to Crandall Realty last night; and Llondale, which was down the list a bit, won three by forfeit. Then Cool's Drink's won the odd fray from Chaconas Market, and Swan's, Cool's, and Llondale are bedmates in first place.

Individual efforts in the league rollings saw Bernhardt, of Cool's, roll a 146 game, Chaconas a 401 set, and Cool's a 613 and 1,723 total.

Ladies Lutheran League results: Broeker's 129 game for Zion, Carmichael's 317 game for Trinity No. 1, and Trinity No. 1's 489 and 1,436 marks.

Men's Lutheran League results: Dodge's 148 game for Georgetown, Morrisette's 371 endeavor for St. Paul's, the 559 game for St. Mark's, and the 1,646 total enacted by St. Paul.

Eastern Five Finds Devitt Prepmen Easy

Eastern ran wild against Devitt yesterday and swamped the prepmen by a score of 51 to 12 at Eastern High Gymnasium. Eastern's defensive play was almost impregnable, the only Devitteer able to break through being Clements, center, who scored 11 points.

Eastern jumped to 17 to 7 at the half and never was headed. Bernie Lieb, all-high center, scored 15 points.

The Eastern Juniors had little trouble beating the Georgetown Prep Juniors in the preliminary, 26 to 11.

AMERICAN U. RALLIES TO WIN, 41-28

Draw Away in Second Half of Game With Bridgewater.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S finest basket ball team in years lengthened to two its new winning streak last night at the expense of Bridgewater (Va.) College, after St. John's College, of Annapolis, had beaten the Eagles last week to shatter a nine-straight streak. Gallaudet was the first victim in the new series of victories.

The score of 41 to 28, by which the Eagles soared over Bridgewater last night, does not do justice to the stirring and close battle the two clubs waged. American was called upon to unleash as much strength as it has shown this year to turn the tide of victory.

Eagles Draw Away
Near Half

With Shaver and Myers, of Bridgewater, showing unexpected shooting form, the two clubs alternated baskets until 15-15 with five minutes left of the first half. But at this point Fuchs was afflicted with a severe attack of hot-handedness and booted the American U. away to a lead of 24-15 at the half.

Bridgewater rallied at the start of things in the second half, and while American was being held scoreless boosted its total to 22 points. American drew away once more, showing real strength to go up to 41-26, with three minutes left of the game. At this point Coach Walter Young sent in an entire new team.

Western High Wins From Wilson Five

Wilson Teachers College's basket ball team took it on the chin once more yesterday when Western High, using its entire squad, upset the incipient profs by a score of 38-22, at Western Gymnasium.

The Western reserves started the game, but were trailing 12-10 at the turn. With the entrance of the regulars in the second half, Western rapidly drew away, led by Anthony Latona, who scored 13 points.

LITTLE IS ORDERED PLACED IN ASYLUM

Lunacy Commission Takes Action After Strangling of Arlington Wife.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

William T. Little, 49, held in Arlington County Jail in connection with the death of his wife, Mary Little, who was found strangled to death in her home at Arlington, Va., Sunday, was ordered committed to the Southwestern Hospital for the criminally insane at Marion, Va., by a lunacy commission which met at Arlington courthouse yesterday afternoon.

The commission, ordered to meet by Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy, at the request of Commonwealth's Attorney Douglas, consisted of Drs. W. C. Welburn and S. T. Noland, and Coroner B. H. Swain.

The action was taken following the report received by Mr. Douglas that Little had been irrational in his cell Monday night. Mr. Douglas announced that Little will be taken to the hospital as soon as necessary arrangements can be completed.

He stated that he will issue a warrant charging Little with murder, which is the procedure required by law in Virginia before a person can be committed to a hospital for the criminally insane.

Funeral services for Mrs. Little will be conducted this afternoon by the Rev. John E. Briggs, of the Fifth Baptist Church, Washington. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens, Clarendon.

Street Improvement Study Group Named

Treatment of Wisconsin avenue as regards removal of electric light poles and grading of street car tracks, is to be studied by a committee authorized last night at a meeting of the Montgomery Government Club for Bethesda held at the Bethesda county building.

The club discussed at length the proposal to rezone Wisconsin avenue for erection of apartment houses on the east side from the District line to Bradley lane. No action was taken because of the divergent opinions and it was decided to wait on the action of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Foxhunters' Fete Plans Are Made

Rockville Chamber Makes Arrangements for National Meet.

Plans for the entertainment of the annual field trials and meeting of the National Foxhunters Association at the Rockville Fair Grounds were discussed last night by the Rockville Chamber of Commerce at a meeting in the town firehouse. A special committee was appointed to confer with members of the national association.

Members of the committee appointed by President Bernard T. Brosius are: O. W. Anderson, secretary of the chamber; Mayor J. Roger Spates, N. O. Terpenning, N. L. Nicholson, and president of the national association, of Washington; C. N. Nichols, of the Washington Board of Trade, and officials of the Maryland and Montgomery County Foxhunters Associations are to attend the next meeting of the chamber, March 15.

The chamber went on record as favoring zoning of Wisconsin avenue from the District line to the north end of Bethesda as commercial property for business and apartment house construction. It also adopted a resolution recommending that any improvement of Seven Locks road include bringing it to Rockville by way of Monroe street.

Alexandria Kiwanians to Be Guests.

Members of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club will be the guests of the Arlington Club today at 12:30 o'clock at the Windsor Arms. Automobiles taking the Alexandria delegation will leave the George Mason Hotel at 12:10 promptly. This will take the place of the Thursday meeting of the local club. The meeting next week will be at the George Mason Hotel and will be the George Washington meeting, with Senator George H. Moses as speaker.

BOND BUYERS IGNORE MONTGOMERY ISSUE

County School and Road Block of $520,000 Goes Without Bids.

Montgomery County bonds for the first time in years failed to produce a single bid when they were offered yesterday at Rockville, Md. An issue of $520,000 in bonds from a larger issue of $1,000,000 authorized by the last Legislature, which was intended for road and school construction purposes, failed to draw a single bidder.

County authorities said last night that they were not totally surprised by the lack of bidders, in view of the present bond market situation. They pointed out that the proceeds of the bonds had been intended for construction work which has not been started and not to finance work that has been completed. Consequently, it will mean a delay for the projects until the bond market improves.

If the market improves enough within 30 days to sell the bonds, the construction work can begin in the usual spring program. The county officials are proceeding with county school building plans so that the preparations will be complete if the bonds are sold at an acceptable price in the spring. Slight crowding of county schools may result if the bonds are not sold but the effect will last hardly more than a year, officials say.

The county treasury shows an ample balance, not only for operating purposes and to pay all debt commitments, but to meet the contract costs of all school and road work already authorized, officials stated last night.

Arlington Officials To Confer on Roads

County Manager Roy S. Braden, of Arlington County, and County Engineer C. L. Kinner will leave today for Richmond where they will confer with Delegate Hugh Reid.

Mr. Braden says they are to discuss the pending bill suggested by former Gov. Harry F. Byrd providing for the State taking over the county road systems.

Masonic Lodge to Meet Tonight at Cherrydale

Arlington Royal Arch Chapter, No. 35, of Masons, will make its first contribution to the Nation-wide George Washington Bicentennial at a meeting to be held in the Masonic Temple at Cherrydale tonight at 8 o'clock.

Gratz E. Dunkum, past grand master of Masons of the District of Columbia, is announced as the speaker.

Plays to Be Given Tonight.

The young people of the National City Christian Church of Washington will sponsor three one-act plays to be given in the Community House at Barcroft, Va., tonight at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will go to the Barcroft Civic League and the Barcroft Garden Club.

ALEXANDRIA PLACES FETE DECORATIONS

14,000 Expected to Take Part in Parade Planned Monday Morning.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria streets yesterday began to assume holiday garb in preparation for the huge parade which will be held Monday afternoon in celebration of the Washington Bicentennial. King street is being decorated from Fairfax to Harvard streets, a distance of thirteen blocks; Washington street will be clothed in flags and bunting from Prince to Pendleton, six blocks, and the 100 block of North Royal street will be similarly decorated. In addition, practically every business house and residence along the entire route of the parade will display flags.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, U. S. A., grand marshal of the parade, will arrive Sunday to attend the Bicentennial mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church, which will be celebrated by the Rev. Richard Blackburn Washington, collateral descendant of George Washington.

Charles W. King, parade chief of staff, has announced there will be not less than 14,000 persons in the line of march, which will require approximately three hours to pass a given point. The parade will start at 2:15 o'clock, instead of 2:30, as originally planned. So far 28 bands have agreed to attend.

Unusually complete arrangements have been made for the distribution of tickets to the reviewing stand. These tickets will be sold at the stand on North Washington street up to the time of the beginning of the parade, or until they are exhausted. They have been placed on sale at Warfield's drug store.

There will be approximately 20 floats in the parade. Fairfax County will supply several of these, one being a representation of Old Pohick Church, of which Washington was a vestryman. "Parson" Massie, who was rector in Washington's time, will be represented by John Massie, of Fairfax, a direct descendant of the Rev. Lee Massie. The building committee of the church—George Washington, George Mason and George William Fairfax—will also be represented. Carroll Pierce, former Mayor of Alexandria, has offered a silver loving cup to the best float in the parade. Three Washington newspapermen will be the judges.

Bethesda Chamber Urges Apartments

Will Back Building of High Type Structures Along Wisconsin Avenue.

Construction of high type apartment houses on the east side of Wisconsin avenue, north of the District line, was favored in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and made public yesterday. The board declared that it will support an application for rezoning of the property which is under consideration by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Approval of the change by the chamber is hypothecated on assurance by the Chevy Chase Land Co. that the apartment houses to be erected will be of the same type as Tilden Gardens, the applicant to present plans for the buildings, and such restrictive covenants as are planned, to the planning commission for study in connection with the zoning change consideration.

Residents of the west side communities have appeared in full force to oppose such changes and insist that anything but detached house classification will injure their property values.

4-H Club Leaders Elect Mrs. Hirst

Fairfax Council Decides on Program to Help Girls of County.

Mrs. Mason Hirst, of Annandale, Va., was elected president of the Fairfax County 4-H Club leaders' council at a meeting held Monday in the courthouse at Fairfax under the direction of Miss Sarah E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Crocket C. Carr, of Oakton, was elected vice president; Mrs. Charles Bladen, of Seminary, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. J. A. Hallman, of Fairfax, reporter.

The leaders decided to teach the club girls to have correct shoes and dresses for all occasions, and to be well groomed; to keep posture and physical fitness according to club rules, to practice economy, be cheerful and have correct food habits and to know club rules and practices so as to be able to take charge of meetings.

Following the business meeting, Miss Cymbal Taylor, State 4-H Club demonstration leader of Blacksburg, Va., gave instructions and demonstrations on the cutting and altering of dress patterns for the club leaders as the major project in Fairfax County this year is the making of clothes and other garments.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE AIM IN PRINCE GEORGES

Establishment of 7 Dumps Recommended in Report by Committee.

Establishment of seven dumps and a clean-up campaign in the incorporated towns of Prince Georges County are recommended in the report sent to the community council by Oliver Metzerott, chairman of the trash disposal committee of the council yesterday.

The seven recommended locations are:

Beltsville, on Indian Creek about one-half mile north of the town.

Berwyn, on the Keefauver property between Potomac avenue and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, to serve Berwyn, Berwyn Heights, Branchville and Lakeland.

College Park, on Calvert avenue on the west side of the Northeast Branch. There is a dump there now, but it is unsupervised.

Other Recommended Sites.

Edmonston, on the Chinn property near the Northeast Branch. The owner has consented to the use of this, but the town has made some objection.

Bladensburg, a small one near the warehouse of the Suburban Sanitary Commission.

Colmar Manor, at the foot of McAdoo avenue, to serve Colmar Manor, Cottage City, Brentwood, Bladensburg and a part of Mount Rainier.

Between Hyattsville and the District line, south of Columbia avenue and east of Ager road. The Park and Planning Commission, which owns this property has given permission for its use. The committee calls this the best dump site in the area. It will serve Hyattsville, Mount Rainier, Riverdale and Brentwood.

Recommended sites near Capitol Heights and Seat Pleasant have not been selected, but will be in the future. An auto dump will also be chosen soon. Material placed on the dumps will be household waste only. Autos, oil drums and other bulky material, and matter making an odor or affecting sanitation will be barred. Ultimately, the report predicts, incinerators will have to be built, but the financing of these will require careful study.

To Employ Jobless.

For the time being, the dumps should be tended by men paid from funds raised for unemployment relief. A small fee should be charged, however, to make it possible to keep the men at work when these funds have been exhausted. The workmen should be under the supervision of the Suburban Sanitary Commission, the report states.

The committee also suggested that relief funds be useed to clean up dumps which already exist in unsuitable places, and that the county police be asked to strictly enforce the laws against indiscriminate dumping. Initiation of a clean-up and trash regulating campaign by the municipalities and civic organizations of the county was another recommendation of the report. The members also urged that legal means be found to stop the dumping of District trash in the county.

The report was addressed to Dr. C. R. Close, president of the Community Council. Other members of the committee, beside Mr. Metzerott, were Prof. S. S. Steinberg and Robert Morse, engineer of the Sanitary Commission. He served in place of T. Howard Duckett, who was at first appointed but later withdrew.

Receivership Suit Filed in Marlboro,

Laurel Hotel Involved in Miss Anna Sieling's Court Petition.

A suit asking the appointment of a receiver for a number of properties in Laurel, Md., including the Laurel Hotel, was filed yesterday in Marlboro circuit court by Miss Anna A. Sieling. In addition to the hotel, two houses on A street, and a garage and store on Washington avenue are involved.

According to Miss Sieling's bill, filed through Attorney Ogle Marbury, the property is owned by her and was operated by her brother, John, who died last December. His widow has since filed a suit in Baltimore circuit court, claiming the real estate, and this litigation is still pending. Miss Sieling wants a receiver to manage the property until the ownership if finally settled.

Operation of the hotel, which has been run by Mrs. Anna Sieling, the widow, since December, will not be interferred with by the receiver, according to the bill.

Short addresses were delivered by Grand Commander James H. Price, of Virginia, and Grand Commander Eugene E. Thompson, of Norfolk, the lat

STOCK PRICES CLIMB IN SPIRITED TRADING

Steel Returns to 50, Adding Cheerful Tone in Sales of 2,503,270 Shares.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The bull party came back to the wars with big guns today, and gave stock market bears another shelling.

In an afternoon demonstration which plainly showed that the market, at least for the moment, was under strong generalship, shorts who had sold in expectation of a liberal reaction found themselves under heavy fire and were forced to withdraw from their exposed position. Although the rally did not assume the proportions of last Saturday's, it more than cancelled Monday's losses and drove a nnmber of pivotal stocks to new highs for the year. The close was strong, somewhat under the top.

For an hour or two in the forenoon profit-takers kept the market rather heavy. There was, however, an undercurrent of strength which soon manifested itself among the low priced issues, particularly Radio and Transamerica. With this favorable background the general list made up its one to two point losses and by early afternoon was plugging ahead, although the buying did not become large until the last hour. Sales to noon approximated only 600,000 shares, but the day's total swelled to 2,503,270 shares, not much below last Thursday's volume.

Steel Returns to 50.

U. S. Steel's return to 50 had a marked sentimental effect, for that leader had been unable to squeeze out of the 40s in Saturday's rise. It did not sell above 50 this afternoon, but several large blocks traded at that quotation. The closing price was 49½, which meant a net gain of 1¾.

American Telephone was particularly prominent, soaring 6⅞ points to 135 before meeting enough stock to force the quotation back. Its net advance was 5½. American Can, Allied Chemical, North American, Consolidated Gas, Sears-Roebuck & Co., Bethlehem, New York Central and Westinghouse closed 2 to 3 points higher. Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Reading, Atlantic Coast Line and Auburn were up 4 to 5⅞.

Radio common distinguished itself with a rise of more than a point, while the preferreds did even better. Transamerica crossed 5, compared with its year's low of 2⅛. Chesapeake & Ohio, whose directors declared a regular quarterly dividend, rallied more than 2 points. Chrysler, also retaining the usual payment, firmed slightly.

Rumors Effect Traders.

Traders appeared to be influenced by a barrage of bullish rumors, none of which was very definite, but their cumulative effect stimulated speculative appetities. There were reports of forthcoming constructive statements in Washington, one of which was likely to concern grain. Wheat responded with gains of 2 cents a bushel.

The market was impressed by the swift progress of the Glass-Stegall bill through legislative stages. It is regarded as quite possible that Wall street is willing to do its part in the cause of reconstruction, realizing that a rise in security prices would give confidence a substantial boost.

Routine financial and business statistics were of favorable and unfavorable import. Weekly bank figures disclosed no letup in the deflationary process, while our foreign trade for January, although preserving a balance on the right side, was off much more ,compared with a year ago, than could be accounted for by the intervening decline in prices. Totals were the lowest since prewar days. On the other hand, freight loading for the week ended February 9, gained 13,599 cars can increase somewhat larger than season). Strength of U. S. Government bonds was also encouraging.

U. S. BONDS ADVANCE AS MARKET LEADER

Trading Is Quiet Despite General Rise of List; Foreigns Are Dull.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—United States Government issues led the bond market to higher levels today in a session of relatively quiet trading and conflicting price trends.

The Federal loans were strong throughout, four of the Treasuries advancing more than one point and attaining new high records for the year. The Liberties were also in good demand, although their price gains were more moderate.

Interest in the Government section was augmented by the proposal to make long-term Federal securities acceptable at par for income tax payments. Additional aid was also given this list by announcement of plans to stop hoarding of currency by the issuance of short term Treasury bonds in denominations as low as $50.

Rails Inclined to Sag.

Railroad liens were inclined to sag during most of the session, especially the low-priced speculative issues. After the stock market started upward in the late afternoon, however, the followers of the carriers came back to their favorites and turned losses into moderate gains.

The average for 20 principal transportation loans advanced 0.4 of a point.

Among the rail bonds that rallied sharply near the close were Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960. Chesapeake Corporation, 5s of 1947, Burlington 5s, Rock Island convertible 4½s, and refunding 4s, Erie refunding 5s of 1967 and 1975, Kansas City Southern first 3s, Louisville & Arkansas 5s, Missouri Pacific 5½s New Haven refunding 4½s, Reading 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s and Union Pacific 4s of 1968.

Utilities Record Gains.

There was an irregular trend to utilities and industrials during most of the session, but they came back near the end and registered moderate gains.

Substantial advances were made by Fisk Rubber 8s, International Match 5s, all of the International Telephone liens, North American Edison 5½s and 5s and Paramount Publix 5½s. Keith Corporation first 6s gained 11 points. At the same time Vanadium Corporation 5s dropped 9½.

The foreign section was somewhat dull, although the Argentine list advanced substantially. German Government 7s gained slightly, but the 5½s were lower. British and Canadian loans sagged and Japanese obligations were generally easy. Sales totaled $12,372,000.

Insurance Trusts Combine Is Urged

National Fund Suggested to Obtain Greater Stability.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A national fund into which all life insurance trusts would be placed was suggested today by Joseph W. White, trust officer of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., of St. Louis, as a means of obtaining greater stability.

Life insurance with a face value of more than $4,000,000,000 has been placed in trust during the past ten years, Mr. White told the midwinter trust conference of the trust division of the American Bankers Association.

The only important criticism that can be made of life insurance trusts at present, he continued, is that the proceeds of each trust are invested in securities which are held separately for the beneficiary of that trust account, leaving it subject to business conditions.

His plan calls for the administration of the national fund by twelve men, each representing one of the Federal reserve districts of the country and selected by the banks and trust companies of that district.

Police Asked to Aid Hunt For Richmond Student

Richmond, Va., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Police today were asked to search for Fred Richmond, 17-year-old University of Richmond student, who has been missing for the past 15 days.

The youth is five feet, four inches tall, of dark complexion and has a scar over one eye. He weighs 145 pounds.

GRAND JURY TO QUIZ HOWARD U. LEADERS ON FUNDS CHARGES

Subpenas Are Served on Officials to Testify at Inquiry.

SCHOOL RECORDS CALLED FOR INVESTIGATION ALSO

Executive Faces Probe on Alleged Padding of Pay Roll List.

A grand jury investigation into charges against a high officer of the Howard University, leading colored university in the East, has been launched, it was learned late last night when a group of deputy United States marshals began serving subpenas on officers of the school.

The subpenas direct those named on them to appear before the District grand jury next Wednesday to tell what they know of alleged charges against an officer of the school who will be investigated for so-called "pay roll padding."

In addition to the subpenas, the officers who have received notification of the desirability of their presence at the investigation have been formally served with "subpenas decus tecum" which, in less legal phraseology means that their papers and record of all sorts are to be brought with them for the perusal of the grand jury.

Architect Called.

Albert I. Cassell, architect, who has directed the building up of the grounds and equipment of the school to the point where its facilities have elicted the admiration of leading educators, is one of those who received a subpena.

Dr. Emmett J. Scott, secretary-treasurer of the school, also received a command to appear and to bring with him the records of his office. Daniel W. Edwards, cashier, and the registrar of the Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., also got subpenas.

The grand jury is expected to investigate to see if there is any basis for returning an indictment against Eugene Gough and his son, Samuel Gough, who is said to have been a student at the Virginia State College.

The signature of the elder Gough appears twice on the rolls of the Howard University, in so far as those rolls involve payments to his son, Samuel, whose signature appears once.

Anticipated Charge.

The charge that is expected to be investigated is that of conspiring to commit false pretenses, though, of course, the grand jury can return any finding it pleases.

The charge against the Goughs is, substantially, that young Gough was placed on the pay roll of the Howard University from September 15, 1931, to October 31, 1931, during which time he was supposed to have been working on the grounds of the school. Records of the Virginia State College showing whether the boy was in school there at the time, or was here are to be exhibited.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, reached at his home last night, admitted that his office had taken preliminary steps necessary to investigate the incident. He said that so far as he knew, the funds appropriated by the United States Government for the use of the school were not involved. Funds, furnished from outside sources were said to have been those from which the payments were made.

Chief Justice Wheat Returns to His Duties

The District Supreme Court bench yesterday had a full roster of justices for the first time since the Christmas holidays when Chief Justice A. A. Wheat returned to his post after an absence due to a broken arm.

For a time Daniel W. O'Donoghue was out with grip, and James M. Proctor, who returned Monday, was out with a severe illness. The Bar Association sent Chief Justice Wheat a large bouquet of roses to celebrate his return.

Celebration Held By P.-T. A. Group

Anniversary of Founding and Heroes' Birthdays Are Observed.

A joint celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the national organization and the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln was held last night by the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers at the Powell Junior High School. Mrs. Hugh Bradford, national president of the organization, was present and aided District officers in lighting 35 candles, symbolical of the years since its founding.

John Gibbs, of the Federal Bicentennial Commission, spoke on the program in connection with the 200th anniversary celebration of Washington's birth. He said the commission would turn back to the Government $1,800,000 at the end of the festivities. W. W. Wheeler, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., eulogized President Lincoln.

Mrs. J. M. Randall, chairman of the District membership committee, awarded members of the Bryan School first prize in the recent membership contest. The Central High School association took second place, and Benning was awarded third prize.

Grave of Washington's Mother to Be Decorated

Joint representatives of the Senate and House will go to Fredericksburg, Va., next Monday to place a wreath on the grave of Mary Washington, mother of the first President.

The Senate yesterday passed a joint resolution authorizing the pilgrimage The resolution passed the House Monday and does not require presidential approval. It appropriates $50 for purchase of the wreath commemorative of Washington's 200th birthday anniversary.

POLICEMEN LAUDED IN BLANTON SPEECH

Texan Predicts Headley to Leave Ranks Soon; Plans New Trial System.

A prophesy that Inspector Albert T. Headley would soon leave the ranks of the Police Department and announcement that he would shortly introduce a bill for a new trial system for policemen were included among remarks of Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, last night at a meeting of the Policemen's Association.

The Texas Representative's legislative career has included episodes in which he was the ardent friend of the local police and other periods when he was their foe. Last night took on the aspect of a love feast between the fiery Texan and the personnel of the department.

Assuring the police of his solicitude for them, Representative Blanton complimented them on their work. He said that he did not think the rank and file were fairly treated under the present trial board system, asserting that higherups dictate actions of the police tribunal. Such a policy would be eliminated under legislation to be framed by the Texan.

During his talk which was well received by most of the policemen present, the Texan said he thought the District was undertaxed as compared with other American cities. The Texan did not dwell on the assertion regarding Inspector Headley.

Little other business was conducted by the association. A letter was read from the commissioners stating that legislation would be asked to keep street lights lit for half an hour longer in the dark winter mornings. This was asked in a resolution recently adopted by the Policemen's Association.

Proposed School Further Deplored

Columbia Heights Group Joins Protest Against Planned Building.

The Citizens' Forum of Columbia Heights last night joined in a general protest against the proposed erection of a school for colored pupils at Allison street and Rock Creek Church road northeast.

In a meeting at the Powell Junior High School the organization adopted a resolution supporting action of a joint committee of three citizens' associations and other North Washington citizens in fighting the proposal.

The Forum adopted resolutions faforing a recreation center on Kansas avenue, between Shepard and Upshur streets northwest; a larger building and better location for the new Wilson Teachers College, and approving the Capper bill regulating the sale of firearms in the District of Columbia.

Bankruptcy Liabilities In 2 Cases Total $7,646

Neitah Hunt King, a clerk, of 1808 Connecticut avenue northwest, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a petition in voluntary bankruptcy, setting forth that she had debts of $3,322.76 and assets of $200. The petition was filed by Attorneys Lunsford and Hammer.

Another voluntary bankruptcy petition was filed yesterday when Charles Brodsky, 1702 Seventh street northwest, asked that he be adjudicated a bankrupt. He listed assets of approximately $800 and liabilities of $4,323.70. The petition was filed by Attorney Charles J. Kaplan.

'Inside Dope' On Notables Given in Talk

Some "inside dope," little human sketches of interviews with five of Europe's great personalities, was outlined to an audience last night at the Community Institute in Central High School Auditorium by Ellery Walter in his lecture, "High Hats and Low Bows."

Treating his subjects with a personal touch, Mr. Walter brought the gathering a real glimpse of Pope Pius XI, Von Hindenburg, Mussolini, Lloyd George and Joseph Stalin.

The lecturer, who does his world traveling on one leg, obtained his private interviews despite the fact that he was courier for a group of 10 touring American debutantes.

The twinkling blue eyes of the head of the Catholic Church were commented upon by the young traveler, who was received in the throne room of the Vatican. The pontiff greeted Walter by taking hold of his shoulder and shaking him vigorously, exclaiming, "Welcome, welcome."

Mussolini, the dynamic personality of Italy, bounced all over the room when he talked with the lecturer. He was found to be very short and stocky. Mr. Walter was photographed with Il Duce.

Young Walter found David Lloyd George a most kindly person and the greatest political figure in the world in spite of the fact that he lives in the past.

Von Hindenburg was represented as the personification of fine character, the best loved person in all Europe. His hobby is the youth movement in Germany.

Stalin was described as being Oriental, rather than Russian in character. Mr. Walter believes he is almost submerged in his discipleship of Lenin. He shows a force of will, ruthless in its drive.

Mr. Walter will speak this morning at the Congressional Club, to members only, on "Who is Leading Russia and Where."

Flag Order Is Modified By District Commission

At the request of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, the board of District Commissioneds yesterday modified its general flag order for sidewalk display during the entire Bicentennial period from February 22 to November 24 inclusive, by permitting also the display of the officially designated colors of buff and blue when interspersed with the red, white and blue in sidewalk decorations.

Mayflower Group Hears Mrs. Blair

Descendants of First Settlers Are Urged to Aid Newcomers.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, former vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, addressed the Society of Mayflower Descendants last night at the headquarters of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Blair, a lineal descendant of Fear Robinson, who came to this country on the Mayflower, told the society that it should be the duty of descendants of the first settlers to act as hosts to newcomers to this country, and to bring them in contact with the full advantages of the United States.

Mrs. Blair was introduced by Frederick Newcombe, governor of the society. Songs were rendered by Miss Irma Van Lackey and Arthur S. Parsons, with Mrs. Hugh Allen accompanying. Mrs. Mary C. Greathouse was chairman of entertainment.

ADVISERS ARE URGED IN PATENT HEARINGS

Judges' Need of Aid Cited at Dinner in Honor of Herridge.

Aid for trial judges in deciding on patent cases, through the medium of expert advisers, was recommended by Judge Morris A. Soper, of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, in an address last night at a dinner of the American Patent Law Association in honor of Maj. William Duncan Herridge, minister to the United States from Canada, held at the Mayflower Hotel.

Judge Soper, a resident of Baltimore, advocated the system of advisers to guide judges in patent cases as a substitute for the proposal to have a master official decide on such cases. Although judges are often confused by the technical evidence placed before them in patent cases, they should continue to pass judgment on them through the help of a patent law authority, he said.

Maj. Herridge, who was a patent lawyer before being appointed minister, explained the patent law system in Canada, and asserted that diligent efforts are being made to rectify defects in the system.

Representative William I. Sirovich, of New York, chairman of the House committee of patents, declared, in one of the principal speeches of the evening, that every effort is being advanced by his committee to aid and improve the workings of the United States Patent Office. The speakers were introduced by Thomas E. Wing, of New York, president of the association. Entertainment interspersed the speeches.

Transfer of Eight Police Announced

Glassford Reveals Shift; Promoted Detectives Begin New Work.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, yesterday announced a personnel shift involving eight members of the Police Department. During the day Capt. Joseph W. Pierson took the oath of office, succeeding Capt. C. L. Plemmons, retired.

Several other recently promoted detective sergeants also assumed their duties yesterday.

The changes announced yesterday affect the following:

R. S. Bryant, assigned to Tenth Precinct as precinct detective; Privates J. W. Shimon, transferred from Eighth to Third Precinct; Rupert McNeill, transferred from Third to Eighth Precinct; J. F. Phelps, transferred from Third Precinct to administrative headquarters; William D. De Groot, transferred from the Second Precinct to administrative headquarters; W. D. Kerry, transferred from the Third Precinct to administrative headquarters; A. W. Esser, transferred from the Harbor Precinct to administrative headquarters, and A. E. Brown, transferred from the First Precinct to the Harbor Precinct.

MYSTERIOUS BULLET FROM BLACK SEDAN MISSES PEDESTRIAN

Shot Fired From Auto Going at High Rate of Speed in Takoma Park.

TWO FORMER FIREMEN HELD IN ALLEGED PLOT

Charged With Conspiring to Murder Chief Watson; Another Hunted.

A mysterious shot, fired from a large black sedan traveling at a high rate of speed, narrowly missed Eric Elvers, 26 years old, an employe of the Washington Sanitarium, last night, as he was about to enter the home of a friend at 3 Ash street, Takoma Park, Md., and caused a flurry of excitement throughout the community when it was feared the "sniper" was abroad again, picking his victims as they walked along the streets.

Mr. Elvers told Montgomery County police that as he stepped from his automobile in front of the home of Karl T. Knappen, a dark sedan sped by. As it drew abreast of him, he said, a shot rang out and he heard the bullet whir past his head. He told police he was unable to obtain the license numbers on the machine because of its speed.

Mr. Elvers ran into his friend's house and summoned police. Other persons reported they heard a second shot as the large car careened down the street. Mr. Elvers declared a bright flash issued from the side of the car preceding the report.

Two Former Firemen Held.

The former firemen were held in $10,000 bond by police last night on charges of conspiracy to kill, while another man was sought by authorities for questioning in connection with an alleged plot to slay Chief George Watson of the Fire Department.

The men held, John C. Price and Ernest Meile, will not be arraigned in Police Court, but will shortly be taken before the District grand jury. This action was decided upon after a conference between police and Assistant United States Attorney Michael Keogh, who issued warrants for the two men held and for the man sought.

The two were arrested through information furnished Private J. E. Bennett, of the Traffic Bureau. Bennett said last night that three persons who gave him "tips" in regard to the case have received threats of "being put on the spot."

Shot Through Window.

Arrest of Price and Meile grew out of the mysterious firing of a bullet through the window of Stanley Bell, radio announcer, of 3930 Fourteenth street northwest. Bell lives next door to Chief Watson. Police at first thought the incident might have a connection with the activities of the "sniper." Later Bennett received the information leading to the arrests.

Price was dismissed from the Fire Department on charges of inefficiency. Meile is said to have claimed that the night he accompanied Price he was "doped."

Price has admitted, police say, being in a taxicab and firing a gun from its window on the night Bell's window was shattered. The bullet was of .32 caliber. Police, however, have given up any theory that the two men held had anything to do with other shootings attributed to the "sniper."

Glassford Is Gratified.

Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford yesterday expressed gratification at the clearing up of the mystery surrounding the shattering of Bell's window and said he hoped for an early solution of the activities of the "sniper," and of the robbery of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank.

Glassford said detectives are now working on a "hot" lead toward apprehension of the person or persons responsible for the murder of Paul Riedel, 46-year-old baker, and the shooting of Gordon Backus and two young women.

Man in Lodge Building Loses $30 to 2 Robbers

Two white men, who seemed to care nothing about the bonds of fraternity, or the brotherhood of man, last night held up and robbed Ovid O. Sizemore, of 1114 Eleventh street northwest, in the Pythian Temple, at 1012 Ninth street northwest. They escaped with $30.60 from his pockets.

Mr. Sizemore told police he was in the washroom at the fraternal hall when the two men entered. One of them leveled a pistol at him and the other went through his pockets and took his cash.

CREDIT CHIEFS NAME J. D. HAYS PRESIDENT

Bureau of Executives Holds Regional Conference With 60 Leaders Present.

James D. Hays, of Harrisburg, Pa., was elected president at the closing meeting of the Columbia Regional Conference of Credit Bureau Executives in the Hotel Mayflower yesterday.

Other officers chosen were Vincent A. Rogerson, of Clarksburg, W. Va., first vice president; E. J. MacEwan, of Morristown, N. J., second vice president, and William H. Talley, of Wilmington, Del., secretary-treasurer. The members voted to meet at the Mayflower again next year.

E. B. Buckeridge, executive manager of the Credit Bureau of Greater New York, presided at the discussions on "Collection Procedure" that marked the closing meeting. R. Preston Sheley, of Washington, spoke on "Legislative Proposals in Congress for the Amendment of Bankruptcy Laws." Charles J. Martin, Eastern field representative of the National Retail Credit Association, with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., was another speaker.

Approximately 60 members of the organization which comprises credit bureau executives for the States of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia and the District of Columbia attended the two-day meeting.

Local arrangements were in charge of Stephen H. Talkes and Charles W. Prettyman, secretary and assistant secretary, respectively, of the Associated Retail Credit Men of Washington.

Boy's Father Drops Libel Action Against Teacher

George M. Wright, father of Joseph W. Wright, a pupil in the Reservoir School, yesterday voluntarily dismissed a $50,000 suit charging defamation of character which he had filed against Miss Winifred Pruitt, a teacher in the school.

The suit was filed when a statement said to have been made by the teacher reflected on the then 9-year-old boy. The teacher, from whose desk some confiscated marbles had been taken, admitted that she had taken disciplinary action against the boy, but this action, she said, arose from her duties as a school teacher. Attorney Paul M. Lesh represented Miss Pruitt.

Policeman Suspended Pending Rum Inquiry

Private William A. Johnson, colored, Second Precinct policeman, was ordered suspended from the force yesterday after he was reported by vice squad members to have been found in the act of pouring liquor from a pitcher in a house at 1812 Vernon street northwest.

Another colored man and a colored woman were said in the report to Brig. Gen. Glassford to have been in the room at the time Johnson was seen. Johnson will face a police trial board next Wednesday in connection with the charges against him.

$25,000 Damages Asked in Beating.

Mrs. Alice Jeffries, 1321 M street northwest, yesterday filed a suit for $25,000 damages against Margaret E. Thomas and James W. Thomas, whom she accuses of beating her last January 19. The suit claimed that Mrs. Thomas struck Mrs. Jeffries with a golf stick.

RUM CAR SUSPECT SHOT AFTER CHASE

Man Is Wounded and Held As Escape in Smoke Screen Fails.

An alleged rumrunner was shot early yesterday after police had been thrown off the trail of a supposed liquor car by a thick smoke screen, but which they finally caught after their quarry had collided with a mail truck.

The man shot and held for investigation is Ralph Green, 21, colored. He was caught near Fourteenth and Q streets northwest and received the wound at the hands of Private V. B Bean, of the Third Precinct, when he resisted arrest.

The chase began at a house in I street northwest between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets after Bean and another policeman came upon several men allegedly unloading a quantity of liquor. Another car attempted to run the officers down and in the meantime the other car sped away.

The police jumped in their patrol car and made after the speeding car. At Fifteenth and Q they were "smoked" out. A few seconds later they heard the crash at Fourteenth and Q where the pursued machine had hit a mail truck driven by John L. Burnhardt, of Alexandria, and overturned. Twelve cases of purported whisky were in the wrecked machine. The arrest of Green occurred shortly after. He was treated at Gallinger Hospital.

Padlock of Place Here Is Requested

Violations of Dry Law Are Charged in Supreme Court Action.

The United States Government yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to padlock the premises at 1022 Eighteenth street northwest because of alleged violations of the prohibition law there. The suit was brought under the nuisance provision of the Volstead act.

Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt, who filed the petition for the padlock, named two men, John Francis Kennedy and James Kennedy as the tenants in the building, and he named Emily L. S. Waugh, Henry Albert Zuberano and Wilhelmina C. Alen as the owners of the building.

Attached to the suit were affidavits of three policemen who swore to facts upon which the padlock request was based. The officers are H. G. Wanamaker, R. J. Felber and Smith P. Kerr.

"Nuisance" Prosecution Extended by Judge Hitt

Judge Isaac R. Hitt yesterday ruled in Police Court that persons other than the proprietor of a "nuisance" could be convicted of maintaining that nuisance. The judge said that any one who aided or abetted the proprietor in maintaining a nuisance was himself guilty of maintaining a nuisance.

The ruling came in the trial of Raymond Bedford and William Brown, both colored, in which both men were charged with possession and with maintaining a nuisance. Judge Hitt held that both men were guilty of maintaining a nuisance, though one of the defendants, Bedford, contended that he was not the proprietor of a place in Purdy's court, where they were arrested.

SENATE BODY BACKS GIVING MORE WATER FOR MARYLAND USE

Rates Charged Would Reduce Cost to Consumers in District.

FRIENDLY RELATIONSHIP IS STRESSED AT HEARING

Capital Bicentennial Flag Is Proposed to Group; No Action Taken.

Three bills, one broadening provisions for the interchange of water between the District and nearby Maryland counties, will be favorably reported by the Senate District committee, following favorable action yesterday.

Capt. Hugh Oram, assistant District Engineer Commissioner, indorsed the new water measure, which permits more general Maryland use of District water at rates that will cut down the cost of the District supply.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, who sponsored the bill, testified that relations between District and Maryland governments "have aways been the best."

Other Bills Approved.

He said Maryland is interested in expanding the environs of Washington into "a greater National Capital."

Other bills favorably reported include a measure amending the District code to permit societies, such as the American Humane Society to receive an annual income in excess of $25,000, and a bill to permit the Griffith Consumers Co. to run petroleum pipe lines into its plant and to the pierhead line of the Anacostia River.

Senator Hamilton F. Kean testified that the American Humane Society is expecting bequests in excess of $25,000. H. R. Dulany appeared for the Griffith-Consumers Co.

Condemnation Bill.

Senator Arthur Capper's bill for the condemnation of insanitary buildings was referred to the judiciary subcommittee for reconsideration, after members complained that its provisions were too broad.

Another bill to provide for more adequate inspection of steam boilers in the District was referred to a subcommittee comprising Senators William H. King, Tydings, and Kean, after conflicting amendments were offered.

Miss Wilmoth Gary, of 1735 New Hampshire avenue, was escorted to the District committee room by Vice President Curtis, with a proposed District of Columbia flag she asked the committee to approve for use in the Bicentennial celebration. Chairman Capper referred her to Associate Director Sol Bloom, of the National Bicentennial Commission. She said she entered her flag in the recent Post flag contest.

Division of School Funds Protested

Unequal Allocation Laid to House Group by Teachers Union.

The executive committee of the Washington Elementary Teachers Union Monday addressed a vigorous protest to the subcommittee on appropriations of the House against an apparent inequitable policy of appropriating for white and colored schools. It recommended that appropriations for buildings and grounds for colored schools be upon a per pupil basis, as is now true of textbook appropriations.

The budget for 1932-33 carried recommended appropriations of $1,356,000 for divisions 1 to 9 of white schools and $334,000 for divisions 10 to 13 of colored schools, 80 per cent as compared with 20, while the school population is 67 per cent white and 33 per cent colored. This ratio has been used in appropriations for the last three years.

The interracial committee of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People has called a mass meeting for tomorrow night at the Garnet-Patterson auditorium, where this protest will be voiced for colored civic and fraternal organizations and a further protest and petition will be presented for adoption against use of the old Business High School, on Ninth street, as a colored elementary school.

Correspondents Honor Churchill at Luncheon

Winston Churchill was honored yesterday at a luncheon given at the Carlton Hotel by Washington correspondents.

Among the other guests were Miss Churchill, Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador of Great Britain, and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Shone and Roger Makins, of the British Embassy. The guests were accompanied to the hotel by Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times.

Books Available In Needy Sections

Library Foundation to Aid Areas Where Schools Have Closed.

The National Home Library Foundation will first make the books of its jacket library available in those sections where schools have been forced to close because of exhausted resources, according to sponsors of the library. More than 5,000 schools in the United States have been closed this year, it is said.

Arrangements for the initial country-wide distribution of 1,200,000 books at 15 cents a copy have already been made.

The first twelve titles to be released are "Treasure Island," the Bible (New Testament), "Hamlet," "Merchant of Venice," "Under the Greenwood Tree," "Alice in Wonderland," "The Way of All Flesh," "Emerson's Essays," "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," "The Girl With the Golden Eyes," "A Passion in the Desert," "A Kentucky Cardinal," "Green Mansions" and "Short Stories by O. Henry."

Chinese Uses Gun to Rout 2 Holdup Men, Hitting One

James Wang, Chinese restaurant owner, must have had Tartar ancestors.

That must be the conclusion, anyhow, of two colored bandits who Wang says tried to hold him up early yesterday as he was about to close his establishment at 1918 Eighteenth street northwest. One is in the hospital, according to police, with a bullet wound in his thigh, and the other is being sought.

Wang was going about his nightly closing preparations when the men entered with a gun and commanded: "Stand still!"

Wang said at first he thought the men were joking. However, he said, he cautiously edged toward the cash register, where a revolver lay covered with a large silk handkerchief.

The men were startled when Wang suddenly snatched the gun and started shooting. They fled.

Nathan Steel, 25, was arrested shortly afterward when he applied at Emergency Hospital for treatment for a gunshot wound. Wang identified him as one of the men who held him up, police said.

Woman, Bringing Map, Asks For Address of Speakeasy

The Crusaders are perfectly willing to publish a map showing where speakeasies were, but they refuse to be an information bureau on the addresses of bootleggers at the present time, according to Rufus S. Lusk, head of the local organization.

A woman came into the office of the Crusaders yesterday bearing a copy of the now famous "speakeasy map of Washington." She pointed to a spot near Logan Circle. "Can you tell me the address of this place?" she asked. "I found it once and it's right near my house, but I don't know what the address is now."

She was told the Crusaders could not give the exact address of any of the Washington speakeasies. Mr. Lusk said the woman was quite insistent on getting the exact address of the place and was greatly perturbed when his secretary remained adamant on the office rule. The Washington Tuberculosis Association has asked for copies of the map, intending to make a similar one on tuberculosis cases in Washington, according to Mr. Lusk.
